NEW WAR IN BALKANS IS THREATENING

BY V. DE SANTO

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, Jan. 17.—The news from Belgrade and other sources reaching Rome today accentuates the fact that war clouds are brooding heavily over the Balkans. The situation is described as one charged with explosives, which one wrong move on the part of any of the Balkan states is likely to set fire to the whole peninsula and may even cause a fire which would easily spread to the rest of Europe."

Hungary first and Bulgaria second, are represented as the greatest trouble-makers. It is said that while there is tension among the great powers the little European nations want to take advantage of the situation to settle their scores.

It also has been stated again that Greece is ready to attack the Turks and then head toward Constantinople.

The line-up seems to as follows:

LINE-UP IN BALKINS

The Hungarians and Bulgarians against the Rumanians and Jugo-Slavs with the Turks helping the former and the Greeks the latter. It is said also that Russia would come in on the side of Bulgaria and Turkey.

It is feared that if the conflagration starts Germany may cast its lot with Russia and the others fighting on its said, in which event the great Allies would be forced to enter the war thus starting a new world conflict.

Hungary, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia are reported to be mobilizing. Italian newspaper correspondents in the Balkans end their reports on this, dangerous situation by making almost frantic appeals to Italy and the other civilized nations to smother the small flames of war burning in the Balkans before a general conflagration begins.

MYSTERY IN DEATH ATTEMPT

Search for Los Angeles Woman Swallowing Poison in San Francisco Hotel Being Sought

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—An air of mystery was today spread around the attempted suicide of Mrs. Helen Spencer, Los Angeles, who took poison Tuesday night in the lobby of the Plaza Hotel here after she had secured an audience by Roland V. Oliver, president of the Oliver Oil Company of Oakland.

Mrs. Spencer is said to locate Oliver to- made only a few remarks, all of which referred to a "love affair" with Oliver.

Mrs. M. E. MacLean, a nurse who was registered at the Somerton with Mrs. Spencer, left the hostelry early yesterday and could not be located.

Although when first questioned after the incident Tuesday night, Oliver denied knowing Mrs. Spencer, he later acknowledged to the police that he was acquainted with her, and is said to have stated that he was responsible for having her shadowed by a private detective, who was present when she swallowed the poison.

TWO MEN MENTIONED

According to a story told today by the detective agency, Mrs. Spencer was discharged from a Livermore sanatorium on the 4th inst. The story also includes the statement that her bill at the institution

AX SWINGS; MACHINE JOB HOLDERS HIT

BY KYLE D. PALMER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17.—Payroll slashes that will eliminate at least 500 State employees in Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Francisco, San Diego and other communities and reductions in the pay of hundreds of other State officials and employees are contemplated in the biennial budget bill now being prepared by the State Board of Control.

The biggest shake-up of bureaucracy in the history of California is about to take place. Pruning of the pay roll has been in progress steadily since the 9th inst., the day Friend W. Richardson was inaugurated Governor—and machine politicians and departmental supernumeraries have been learning "the bad news" singly, in pairs, by squads, by companies and in battalions.

WHERE IT HAPPENS

The slaughter of patronage and privilege is taking place in a room on the third floor of the Capitol building, where the three members of the State Board of Control sit with sharpened pencils and hard hearts while department heads, accustomed to extravagance and waste, during the care-free days of the Johnson and Stephens administrations, discuss the policy of introducing thrift and economy into State affairs.

Every separate item of expense to be met by the State government during the next two years, either for salary, maintenance or betterment, must squeeze past the determined triumvirate appointed by Gov. Richardson to assist him in his pledge to accomplish "a political house-cleaning."

Personalities have not figured either in separating individuals from State jobs or in salary reductions. The Board of Control members are proceeding on a policy that calls for the discharge of every person carried on the State pay roll by reason of political pull; for the discharge of every inefficient worker and every unnecessary worker.

In checking up the list of employees in various departments many individuals have been found who either duplicate the work of

Franklin Lauded on Anniversary of Day of Birth

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Patriotic and civil societies joined with representatives of the printing and publishing industry today in paying tribute to Benjamin Franklin on his 217th birthday, by decorating the Franklin statue in Printing House Square, off Park Row.

The base of the statue was buried from sight by floral wreaths.

Eulogies, including a letter from President Harding to Mrs. Alfred M. Cochrane, regent of the local chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were read and were broadcast by radio. The President paid tribute to Franklin's "versatility of genius" and said "his wisdom truly was the wisdom of ages."

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The New York Yankees announced today they had signed Corp. George Anderson and Fred Spates, former Brown University pitcher.

MOTORISTS HELD UP BY BANDIT TRIO

Three automobile bandits last night took $1000 in currency from Nels Nelson, San Francisco realty dealer, in a hold-up at Chalk Hill, fifteen miles north of Hollywood.

Accompanied by his wife, sister-in-law and a friend, T. Hydon Nelson was driving from San Francisco to Los Angeles in a large touring car. At Chalk Hill he was forced to the side of the road by the three men, who compelled him to halt.

Lining the party up, the bandits took Nelson's wallet, containing $1000, but did not molest the others in the party. The three men then drove rapidly away in the direction of Los Angeles. Nelson reported the hold-up to the Hollywood police, giving his address as 14 Cordova street, San Francisco.

GASOLINE TAX SUPPORTED

Northern California Motorists Also Favor Nominal Registration Fee to Pay Cost of Plates

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—Seventy autoists prominently identified with the good roads movement in Northern California counties met here today under the auspices of the California Automobile Association and adopted resolutions indorsing a tax on gasoline with a nominal registration fee to cover the cost of auto license plates.

The resolutions added that the- nance and reconstruction requirements, we will favor a nominal increase in the gasoline tax not to exceed 1 cent per gallon, to be used by the State for maintenance and reconstruction only."

Other recommendations made are:

Examination by the State of all applicants for permission to operate automobiles.

Establishment of a force of State traffic officers for the specific purpose of enforcement of motor vehicle laws.

That a detailed economic and engineering study of highway construction be made by the State before another bond issue be recommended.

That the State Highway Commission accept the recommendations of the United States Forest Service in the allocation of national forest highway funds.

FURNITURE HOUSE HIT BY FLAMES

One man lost his life and loss estimated at nearly $1,000,000 was suffered last night when the fourth floor of Barker Brothers' warehouse at Palmetto and Hewitt streets was gutted by fire of unknown origin. The estimate of the loss, made by Lawrence Barker, vice-president of the firm, was based on damage by flame and smoke and on the disastrous effects of water which seeped through from the upper floor to lower portions of the building, ruining costly rugs, draperies and furnishings.

Mr. Barker, who rose from a sick bed to hasten to the conflagration, stated that a $375,000 stock of rugs and carpets, one of the largest in the country, had been ruined, that the north section of the warehouse, recently completed at a cost of $134,000, had been badly damaged, and that the havoc wrought by water and smoke will bring the total loss close to $1,000,000.

Mr. Barker stated that the building and its contents are covered fully by insurance.

In going through the building after the fire the body of J. E. Koch, 50 years of age, a watchman, was found on the fourth floor. He evidently had been suffocated by smoke after being trapped by the flames.

Koch resided in the Atwater district with a wife and one child. The body was taken in charge by Garrett Brothers, undertakers.

KEPT ON ONE FLOOR

Prompt work by the fire department and the solid construction of the building prevented the loss from being much greater. The fire department succeeded in placing the blaze under control half an hour after the apparatus arrived, and confined the flames to the upper floor of the warehouse.

The floors of the building are fourteen inches thick, made of hardwood flooring laid on sheet asbestos which covers heavy timbers. Fire walls provide further protection, and the building is as fireproof in every respect as such buildings can be made.

Despite this protection, water was ankle-deep on two of the lower floors and the top, or fourth floor, with the exception of one of three sections, was gutted completely.

The fire started at about 8:30 p.m., from causes unknown, but believed to be spontaneous combustion, in a carding room on the fourth floor in which carpets and rugs are stored. The room is about 120 by 135 feet.

INTO SECOND SECTION

The flames spread rapidly throughout this section of the building and jumped to another section, ravaging it.

Upholstered goods on other floors were said to have been ruined by smoke, while the heat and water destroyed the finish of other furniture stored in the building.

In the heart of the warehouse district, the spectacular blaze attracted a large crowd, and it was feared at first that the flames might spread to other buildings in the district. Quick work by the fire department prevented this and confined the flames to a comparatively small area. No one was injured.

Army Birdman Killed as Plane Veers Into Tree

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Lieut. J. Fox of Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., was instantly killed this afternoon when his plane crashed into a tree and dived nose first into the ground. Lieut. Fox, who arrived from Chanute yesterday, was taking off from the rifle range when a gust of wind blew the machine sideways into the tree.

A mechanician flying with Fox was slightly injured.

The rifle range, a long narrow field stretching east and west, is bordered on both sides by thick woods. As the plane rose above the tree tops the strong wind set it sideways toward the hangar. Lieut. Fox managed to clear the building, but in doing so side slipped into the tree.

NEBRASKANS FAVOR ANTI-KLAN MEASURE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Jan. 17.—The lower House today advanced the anti-Ku Klux Klan Bill to a third reading by a vote of 55 to 48. In answer to requests from members of the South Dakota Legislature, Assistant Atty.-Gen. Ayers has forwarded to the South Dakota legislators copies of the Nebraska bill.

UNION ALIBI IS RIDDLED AT HERRIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARION (Ill.) Jan. 17.—All argument at the trial of five men charged with the murder of Howard Hoffman, one of the victims of the Herrin riots, was ended suddenly today, when Angus W. Kerr, chief counsel, announced that the defense waived its right to address the jury.

The unexpected announcement was made before a crowded courtroom at the opening of the afternoon session, and Judge D. T. Hartwell immediately ordered an adjournment until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to permit him to prepare his instructions to the jury.

Under the Illinois law, attorneys for the defense and prosecution alternate in making final arguments to the jury. The prosecution is entitled to make both the opening and closing addresses. Yesterday, when the State rested, the defense offered to submit the case to the jury at once without further argument or instructions.

REFUSED BY PROSECUTION

The offer was refused by the prosecution, and Otis Glenn, Assistant Attorney-General, told the court this morning that the State desired six hours for argument. Edward J. Brundage, Attorney-General, arrived from Chicago on the morning train with the intention of making a brief statement during the argument on the necessity for law enforcement.

Mr. Kerr refused to make any agreement regarding the length of argument.

The entire morning session was taken up with the argument of Delos Duty, State's attorney of Williamson county, who discussed the evidence, explained the application of the statute on murder by conspiracy to the present case, declared that the State had proved all of the defendants guilty beyond the shadow of a reasonable doubt. In closing, he declared:

"Swift and retributive justice should fall upon those defendants and it is up to you to see that it does. In the words of the Scripture, 'Choose yea which yea shall serve,' and I pray you will choose right."

WAIVER BY DEFENSE

When Mr. Duty finished, Mr. Kerr made his announcement re-

ROBBERY OF CAFE STOPPED

The athletic prowess of a restaurant worker last night frustrated the robbery of the Hoffman Cafe, 743 South Spring street, and resulted in the capture of three bandits who had taken $1100 from the patrons of the restaurant and from the cash register and safe.

The three bandits marched into the restaurant, lined fourteen customers, two of whom were women, against the wall and, after robbing them, proceeded to loot the safe and cash register. They had just finished and were preparing to leave when the police, notified a few minutes before, arrived and arrested two of the men, the third making his temporary escape in the confusion.

The bandits' capture is due to Felix Strahl, employed in the restaurant, who was in the kitchen when the hold-up took place. He tried to get out the kitchen door, found it locked and managed to make his way unseen to a rear staircase. Climbing to the second floor, he dropped from a window into an alley and notified Patrolman J. N. Bligh of the robbery.

The officer instructed him to telephone to headquarters, and hastened to the front of the restaurant. The entrance to the place is at the end of a long hall, at one side of which is the cashier's cage, with a checkroom at the other side.

Bligh entered the long hallway, and as he came to the cashier's cage, one of the bandits leveled a revolver and ordered him to halt. In the meantime, Strahl had telephoned to Central Station, and Detectives Burns, Knapp, Knowles, Warn and Erickson were on their way to the restaurant.

They arrived on the scene as the bandit held Bligh at bay, and the arrests followed. The two men gave their names as Irving M. Hade, 22 years of age, and William Cummings, 31. More than $1100 taken from the restaurant was recovered.

The third member of the trio, William Nivison, was arrested by Detectives White and Partin at his room at 815½ West Eighth street later in the evening. He is said to have confessed his part in the affair.

ITALIANS MAY WITHDRAW

Mussolini Said to be Opposed to Extension of French Military Action in Ruhr District

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, Jan. 17.—If France continues to apply sanctions and to extend its military occupation of Germany, it is possible that Italy will withdraw its "moral solidarity" with French action.

The notes exchanged yesterday between Premiers Mussolini and Poincare created the impression in political and diplomatic circles here that Mussolini holds that the French action, if carried too far, will be most dangerous for the peace of Europe.

It is said that from the first Mussolini recommended that the military action must be limited and that the economic commission was to be protected by the military and not dependent on it. In other words, it is said that Mussolini understood that the head of the economic control should have charge of the operations in the Ruhr rather than Gen Degoutte.

It is surmised that an exchange of notes between the Italian and French premiers will continue until the situation is cleared, which means that unless the French limit their military action Italy will declare that it will not participate.

The Italian Foreign Office asserts that there is absolutely no foundation to reports that there is an alliance between Italy and Hungary against Jugo-Slavia. It was stated that the document alleging this alliance printed in the Jugo-Slav newspapers was a pure invention. Further it was asserted that there is not even an economic agreement between Hungary and Italy. Inquiry at other sources failed to confirm the existence of the reported alliance.

VIENNA, Jan. 17.—Two officers of the Allied military commission, charged with an investigation of the incidents on the Rumanian frontier, who have returned to Budapest from Grosswardein, assert that no Hungarian regular troops participated in the fighting.

BOOTLEGGER OFFERS TO BUY SEIZED STILL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LODI, Jan. 17.—A bootlegger, who recently pleaded guilty to violation of the national prohibition law, offered to purchase one of a number of stills destroyed by officers here today for $1000. The cash, a truck and a crew of men to haul the still away were ready when the would-be purchaser was informed no stills were for sale.

Late News

Murder Suspect Taken

W. R. Krice, alias Walker, the second suspect sought in connection with the murder of Nicholas S. Dabelich, well-to-do Oakland hotel man whose body was found under the Ballona Creek bridge on the Mesa Drive road on November 3, last, was returned here late last night from Indianapolis where he was arrested some days ago on a warrant charging him with suspicion of murder. Jack W. Allen, another suspect in the case and who is now in the County Jail, is said to have left Los Angeles with Krice, or Walker, as he is known here, on the night Dabelich disappeared from his hotel. Both men are believed by officers to have accompanied Dabelich to this city from his home in the north.

Hold Women as Burglars

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 17.—Charged with burglary for the theft of $800 worth of jewels and furs from the apartment of Mrs. Herderson Barnett of this city, two women were arrested in Pomona tonight and brought to jail here. They gave their names as Mrs. Amelia Cravens, 33 years old, and Mrs. Martha Webster, 34 years old.

Train Robber Shot

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.—A bandit was shot and captured tonight in an attempt to rob the mail car of a Santa Fe train between Lawrence and Holliday, Kan. The bandit entered the mail car from the blinds, according to mail clerks, and ordered him to throw up his hands. Chief Clerk Jud Marvin fired twice, both shots taking effect.

Papal Delegate Quits

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17.—Monsigner Filippi, the papal delegate in Mexico ordered expelled by President Obregon disappointed a crowd of more than 2000 persons who gathered to bid him farewell at Celaya, station tonight by quietly slipping out of Mexico City late this afternoon in a suburb where he boarded a train bound for Laredo.

HOODED KILLERS' NAMES WILL BE BROUGHT OUT

Louisiana Attorney-General Plans Formally to Identify Klan Mob Members

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BASTROP (La.) Jan. 17.—A. V. Coco, State Attorney-General, announced tonight he would begin tomorrow the task of establishing the identity of members of the black-hooded men responsible for the kidnaping of Watt Daniel and Thomas Richards, whose decapitated and mutilated bodies were found on the surface of Lake La Fourche three weeks ago.

Mr. Coco made this announcement after the conclusion of today's session of the open hearing inquiry undertaken to ferret out the slayers of Daniel and Richards and perpetrators of other masked band depredations in Morehouse parish.

Threatening letters and the statement of William Higginbotham, farmer, that Dr. B. M. McKeln, former mayor of Mer Rouge, had learned of an alleged plot to kill him, formed the basis of today's testimony.

THERE AS "PROTECTOR"

Higginbotham explained the presence of "Newt" Gray at his home the night Daniel and Richards were taken prisoners by a black-hooded mob, declaring he was at the Higginbotham farm in the role of protector because of a letter received earlier in the day warning Higginbotham to "tend to your own business."

Gray was on the stand at the opening of the day's session but was excused temporarily to consult with his attorneys when the question was raised as to whether he could be forced to testify in view of a newspaper publication which his counsel interpreted to indicate he would be made defendant in criminal proceedings.

The letter to Higginbotham signed "not your friend," was placed in the record.

"Who did you have in mind as to the writer of the letter?" Higginbotham was asked.

DEAD MEN ACCUSED

"I think it was those fellows around Mer Rouge. Watt Daniel and Will Braddock had the reputation of being whisky makers and sellers. And also James Norsworthy, but Norsworthy had said he had quit making it."

The witness gave no further information as to any suspicion he might have.

Dr. McKoin, Higginbotham said, told him he had heard Leon Daniel, brother of Watt, had said the latter had planned to kill him. An attempt to assassinate McKoin, now charged in affidavit with murder, is alleged to have been made preceding the disappearance of Daniel and Richards.

Higginbotham declared himself a member of the Parish branch of the Ku Klux Klan.

Higginbotham described the hold-up on the Mer Rouge-Bastrop highway when the two men were kidnaped August 24, but like other witnesses, could not name any of the black-hooded men who took part.

"Who did you see in the road?" was asked.

"Big Jim Norsworthy, with his hat in his hand, and his hair standing straight."

ASKED FOR GUARD

Higginbotham said he only exhibited the warning letter he had received to "Jap" Jones, Newt Gray and Thomas Higginbotham, and admitted asking Gray "to come and stand guard at the house" on that night, August 24. He, however, averred while he owned an automobile, he did not take Gray to his home because he did not want to crowd his wife and daughters and another young woman, their guests. He said Gray was instructed to let Thomas Higginbotham take him to the house.

Higginbotham said he gave Gray a pistol and left him and Thomas Higginbotham to stand guard. At 10:30 o'clock he went out to where the men were and issued instructions to "be careful but if he is a stranger, blaze away" should anybody approach the house.

The witness said he went to sleep when he returned to the house and when he woke up "Tom was coming in the hou e and said he had carried Newt Gray home." He said it was then after 1 o'clock. Gray lived some distance from the Higginbotham home.

MARSHAL TESTIFIES

The day's proceedings came to a close while J. D. Higginbotham, Bastrop city marshal, was being questioned as to the whereabouts of Smith Stevenson on the night of August 24.

Stevenson was on the stand yesterday and said he was in Bastrop "walking about" on that night. He admitted owning an automobile truck and believed it was at his home throughout the night, but "if it was not, it had been taken out without his permission," he testified.

For the second time since the hearing began ten days ago, G. W. Barnett, as counsel for Gray, interrupted proceedings today by objecting to the questioning of Gray. In the course of his argument Barnett a serted that the questioning in some instances had taken the form of a "third degree," and that further interrogation of the witness would be violation of the constitution of Louisiana.

Attorneys for the state vigorously denied any "third degree" tactics were being employed. Throughout the day following his testimony, Gray remained in the corridor out ide the courtroom door.

SHERIFF RCALLED

Fred L. Carpenter, Morehouse parish Sheriff, was recalled to the stand. Two questions were asked relative to the raid on Alonzo Braddock's home in which Braddock on the stand named Capt. J. K. Skipwith as the leader. Carpenter had testified Monday that neither Skipwith nor any other member of the raiding party was deputized by him nor did any hold commissions signed by the court.

Sheriff Carpenter was asked today whether the warrant for Braddock's arrest was not issued after Braddock had been brought to his home for detention. The witness said that the warrant had been issued the following day when Braddock was attempting to make bond.

SAT UP LATE

Thomas Higginbotham, cousin of William Higginbotham, testified to having sat up with Newt Gray until "the chickens began to crow," which he said was a sure sign in this section it was after midnight.

While grilled at length, the witness merely testified in corroboration to "Newt" Gray, who on the stand yesterday said he had been asked to go to William Higginbotham's home to stand guard because the latter had received the warning letter.

Judge Odom was continually rapping for order in the crowded courtroom this afternoon while William Higginbotham was on the stand.

Higginbotham when he admitted he was a member of the Morehouse branch of the Klan, said: "I d'dn't take part in any of their doings because I believe in staying home at night." He further averred that Thomas Higginbotham was a member of the Klan, but said Tom did not possess a black mask as both of them kept their regalia in the same satchel at his home. He also said he knew "Newt" Gray was a Klansman.

NO EXTRA SESSION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 17.—Gov. John M. Parker tonight declared that he had no intention of calling the Louisiana Legislature in special session to take up the question of ousting the Ku Klux Klan from Louisiana, the impeachment of certain officials in Morehouse parish growing out of evidence obtained at the open hearing at Bastrop, or to pass severance tax legislation.

At the hospital today Mrs. Spencer told Dr. E. B. Frick superintendent, that she had attempted suicide because her love had been spurned by Oliver.

"I loved Roland Oliver," she told hospital attaches, "but he could not have loved me and treated me as he did. I want to die and take my secret with me and then others will not suffer."

When asked who her parents were, she refused to give any names.

On Mrs. Spencer's person was found a bank book on a Los Angeles bank, showing a balance of $100, and $126 in cash.

According to Dr. Frick, there is little chance for her recovery. She took a large number of the poison tablets and has been unconscious most of the time since.

CHILD IDENTIFIES MOTHER'S WHIPPER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

HOUSTON, Jan. 17.—Testimony in the Goose Creek flogging cases was presented to the Harris county grand jury today.

Sheriff Binford, little Bonnie Lee Harrison, daughter of the woman flogged, and R. A. Armand, the other victim, were before the jury.

The Harrison girl identified Claude C. Buckley, arrested late Tuesday by Sheriff Binford, as one of the members of the masked party that took her mother from their home on the night of the 5th inst. The little girl was taken to the County Jail, where she pointed out Buckley as one of the kidnapers of her mother. She said she knew Buckley well and that he was dressed in work clothes and had a bandanna handkerchief tied around his face on the night of

INTEREST RATE MAIN OBSTACLE

British War Debt Impasse Up to Bonar Law Again

Future Negotiations Rest With London Office

Veil of Secrecy Likely to be Lifted Shortly

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Negotiations between the American and British debt commissions concerning the refunding of Great Britain's war debt to the United States have reached a stage regarded as making desirable a personal report by the British to the cabinet at home before the continuation of efforts to reach even a tentative agreement on terms.

The conversations which have continued for ten days will be suspended after tomorrow's joint session and the British will sail Saturday. The time and manner of the resumption of the negotiations then will rest with the London government.

In both British and American circles today it was emphasized that there would be only a suspension of the negotiations, that a settlement of the debt must and would be reached. Both sides to the negotiations also were agreed that a speedy adjustment was desirable because of the effect upon world conditions generally.

Whether an agreement in principle—and so far as the authority of the American commission is concerned, it can be no more than that—will come in time for formal action on it by Congress at the present session, which has only six weeks to run, cannot now be foretold. The Americans are extremely hopeful that it will, for otherwise the agreement could not become effective under a year as President Harding often stated his determination not to call a special session of the new congress. From the first the British have expressed a desire for an early settlement and they are fully cognizant of the situation here which might make for a long delay.

Just how far apart the commissions are at this time neither side will say, but in American quarters it was declared that the difference in views was not great. The interest rate constitutes the chief point of debate.

Both commissions find themselves in much the same position as regards the requirement of governmental sanction of any terms reached.

The Americans must go directly to Congress for approval of the refunding arrangement and naturally they have frankly stated to the British debt commission they could not accede to conditions of settlement which could not be expected to receive ready ratification by that body.

Likewise the British mission must act in full accord with the desires of the London Cabinet which, in forming its ultimate judgment, could be expected to have regard for the question of whether the terms could be expected to meet with the approval of a majority in Parliament. It was explained that one principal reason for the return of the British mission to London at this stage was to put Premier Bonar Law's parliamentary lieutenants in possession of the facts necessary to guide them in their action in Parliament.

RETURN UNDETERMINED

Whether a British mission will be returned to the United States to continue the negotiations now is undetermined. It is regarded as probable, however, that the personal account of the negotiations to be given to the Cabinet by Stanley Baldwin, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who heads the British group, will clear the way for a completion of the negotiations through the British Embassy.

The departure of the British Saturday is in accord with arrangements made before their arrival in this country two weeks ago. At that time, however, it was hoped that the period spent here would be sufficient to bring the views of the two governments into accord. This hope appeared likely of realization until the session last Friday, at the conclusion of which the British found it desirable to cable to London for additional instructions.

COMES AS SURPRISE

The decision of the British to suspend the negotiations pending a personal report to their Cabinet was a surprise to the American commissioners, who had hoped for a further advancement of the negotiations at tomorrow's session.

As matters now stand, the joint meeting tomorrow morning will be little more than a leave-taking, though the commissions will have before them for formal agreement a resume of the conversations to date, shaped by Assistant Secretary Wadsworth of the treasury, secretary of the American group, and Montagu O. Norman, governor of the Bank of England and a member of the British delegation.

It was indicated today that tomorrow the veil of secrecy with which the negotiations have been surrounded might be lifted. Meantime the commissioners continued to maintain silence.

AMERICA LIBERAL

In American quarters, however, it was reiterated that there had been a disposition to deal with Great Britain in a most liberal spirit and the view was expressed that when all the facts in the situation had been laid before Congress and the country, the desirability of this course would be even more apparent that it is at present.

The British were represented as having shown a no less friendly spirit than the Americans. That points of difference would arise in the refunding of so stupendous a sum as that involved was declared to be nothing more than was expected, particularly in view of the very different conditions as to finances and taxes existing in the two countries. The conversations have served to acquaint both sides more fully as to these internal situations and to remove what might have proved the ground for other points of issue had there been a less free and frank discussion of the whole general problem.

VESSELS REPORTED SAFE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND, Jan. 17.—Anxiety over the safety of the schooner Vigilant and the tug Oneonta, which disappeared off the mouth of the Columbia River during a storm yesterday, was dispelled this afternoon when advices were received from Astora that the two

MINT HOLD-UP ARREST MADE

Detectives Apprehend Suspect in Denver; Refuse to Reveal Identity; Stolen Notes at Beach

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DENVER, Jan. 17.—Detectives late this afternoon made their first arrest in connection with Denver's bank wagon robbery in front of the mint here December 18.

Authorities announced that a man, whose name was withheld, had been taken into custody. They declined to reveal the suspect's possible connection with the case but made it plain that he is not believed to be one of the men who actually committed the robbery. His arrest, however, followed discovery of clews which indicated he was connected with the quintet suspected of the hold-up.

Police announced they were confident they would obtain some information from him which might lead to the quick apprehension of the bandits.

Detectives George Sanders and Herbert Cole made the arrest on Larimer street.

The residence here of J. C. Sloan, the slain leader of the band, accused of holding up and robbing a Federal reserve bank wagon, slaying Charles T. Linton, bank guard, and escaping with $200,000 in newly printed $5 bills, was in an exclusive apartment-house, police announced today.

HID IN APARMENT

It was the apartment rented by Sloan that sheltered the bandits after the robbery and in which they divided their loot of $200,000 in new $5 bank notes, according to the police. The money was divided, police believe, between 12 noon and 1 p.m. the day of the robbery, while Sloan lay dead in the garage. The bandits lived in the apartment until the Wednesday after the robbery. Then they left hurriedly, persumably for Omaha, where the police say they picked up their trail almost a month later.

From this apartment at 9 a.m. Monday, December 18, Sloan rode at the head of his gang to the spectacular hold-up. Sloan and his wife rented the apartment on December 8.

BILLS PASSED AT BEACH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 17.—A number of $5 bills believed to be part of the currency stolen from the Denver mint are in circulation here, it was reported to the police today.

Several were taken by the municipal license collector, merchants have received them, and many places along the Pike report having them. They have been identified by checking against the serial numbers of the stolen bills, and police believe that a member of the gang implicated in the mint robbery may be here.

Harding Better After Spending Quiet Day in Bed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President Harding, after a day confined to his room with a cold, was declared by White House officials tonight to be improved. He spent most of the day in bed, and, it was said, retired for the night before 8 p. m. Indications of an improvement in his condition also were seen in the fact that Brig.-Gen. Sawyer, the President's personal physician, did not find it necessary to visit his patient before the latter retired.

During the day Mr. Harding slept considerably and it was hoped that the rest and the putting aside of official cares would conquer the indisposition. Unless there is a marked improvement in the President's condition, however, it was indicated, no engagements will be permitted for him tomorrow.

Martinez Rocks When Grenades Are Exploded

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARTINEZ, Jan. 17.—An explosion which rocked the town of Martinez about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon occurred at the Benicia arsenal, it was reported here. Officials of the arsenal are investigating to determine the cause and effect of the blast.

The premature ignition of a large number of hand grenades in a barrel caused the explosion, it was announced at the government arsenal early tonight.

The explosion ignited a powder line which touched a network of grenades buried underground and a large portion of rocky earth was hurled half a mile. The earth crushed through a roof and overturned a steel locker in a building. The locker fell on Emma M. Diaz, a government employee, who was injured seriously. No other injuries were reported.

YOUNG WOMAN HELD FOR GARAGE THEFTS

ARREST IS BELIEVED TO HAVE BROUGHT ABOUT EXPOSE OF SAN JOAQUIN GANG

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MERCED, Jan. 17.—Exposure of a garage burglary ring whose operations extended over the entire San Joaquin Valley is said by officers to have been made last night when deputy sheriffs of Merced and Stanislaus counties took Mrs. Emma Starr, 19 years of age, into custody at a ranch house near Turlock.

Mrs. Starr is the registered owner of a large touring car which loaded with stolen goods from a shop at Cutler, Tulare county, was wrecked and abandoned on the State highway near here Monday night.

Officers here, on discovering that the woman's Oakland address, as given on the certificates, was fictitious, took up the trail and the arrest followed.

Two men, one badly injured, thought to have been the occupants of the wrecked car, were seen in a Turlock garage, but eluded arrest. A large amount of merchandise was found in the ranchhouse occupied by the trio. Mrs. Starr is now in the County Jail at Modesto.

CUBA INFORMED OF LIQUOR SHIP STATUS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The Cuban Legation has received a communication from the State Department giving information as to the status of the Cuban yacht Miguel Ferrer, which is held at Jacksonville, Fla., after having put into an American port with 5000 cases of liquor on board. The Cuban contention, presented through the legation here, was that the Ferrer was disabled and put into American waters under stress of weather and that she therefore should not have been detained.

Although the vessel was seized some weeks ago, she still is being held, the State Department communication declared, pending the disposition of a large cash bond, the amount of which is estimated at between $50,000 and $100,000.

The Cuban authorities point out that no charges have been made against either the captain or crew of the vessel, and that her papers have not been questioned and argue that she should be allowed to proceed to her destination St Pierre

Lithuanian irregulars, now rules the city and the German Mayor who was arrested yesterday has been released.

"If the Memel insurrection was framed by the Germans as the French charge," a government leader said, "it is certainly a violation of French honor that three strong companies under the leadership of a general should show the white flag and surrender without even a battle.

"The fact that Poland, which overthrew League of Nations authority in Upper Silesia and later occupied Vilna against the League's orders, now appeals to the League instead of taking their usual action, shows that they also knew what was happening. It is significant that the French women and children were removed from Memel two weeks ago."

BERLIN BREATHES EASIER

The Foreign Office breathes easier—at least it pretends to—following assurances from Moscow that Russia will not attack the Poles without provocation.

Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, the German Ambassador at Moscow, has informed Berlin that at the conference of ambassadors of states bordering Russia, the Kremlin promised that nothing would be done to weaken the position of the Germans. The ambassadors are now returning to their posts.

Wilhelmstrasse is now confronted with the difficulty of attempting to dishearten the Polish Nationalists in Upper Silesia by intimating that there is a close alliance between Berlin and Moscow, while at the same time disavowing before the world the consequences if an attempt should be made to carry out Albert Korfanty's proclamation urging the retaking of German Upper Silesia.

The recruiting in Kattowitz is causing a fear that it is the Germans instead of the Russians that the Poles are after. It is believed here that France will pay the Poles for aid against Germany should the former wish the Upper Silesian industries in the possession of Germans taken out of their hands.

The makers of the treaty of Rapallo here, although denying the existence of military clauses with Russia as reported, darkly hint that Berlin knows all details of Moscow's military plans and the reason for the movement of Russian troops to the Polish frontier.

THREE ARE INDICTED IN VALUABLE GEM THEFT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Three indictments were returned today in the $500,000 jewel robbery of Mrs. C. P. Hugo Schoellkopf of Buffalo in a West Fifty-second-street apartment house after a New Year's Eve party. The indictments, which charge robbery in the first degree, will be filed tomorrow.

The indictments, it was learned, named "Marshall, McGowan and Lewis," three men who leased an apartment from Frank "Barrie" Carman and in which Mrs. Schoellkopf was robbed after leaving a party given by Carman. The trio were indicted under the names they used at the time, but which, according to the authorities, are false.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES' PROTECTION SOUGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17.—Legislation to relieve school trustees as individuals from liability for injury to pupils on school grounds was proposed today by Senator T. C. West of Alameda. He introduced two bills, one to make school districts alone liable for any injuries received from defective school grounds or appliances and the second to insure the districts against such liability.

Senator West's plan is designed to correct a situation which has resulted in the resignation of many boards of school trustees in the past several months.

SUPPORT LONGWORTH FOR PARTY LEADER

coal barons have fled to unoccupied territory and some took their company records.

The French are not communicative as regards their sanctions. They admit they will commence legal procedure against the defiant operators, but they do not say there will be arrests or confiscations. But these are possible under the military proclamations which have been broadcast throughout the Ruhr warning of punishment for resisters of French authority.

The French assert that their military advance has been halted for the present with troops on the north line to the River Lippe almost to Hamm, south to Unna and Witten and southwest to Duesseldorf. The appearance of armored cars in cities beyond this perhaps temporary military boundary gave the general impression that the area was to be considerably larger.

OCCUPATION COMPLETE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUESSELDORF, Jan. 17.—The plan of military operations for the occupation of the Ruhr Valley as prepared by Marshal Foch and executed by Gen. De Goutte, has been completely carried out, it was officially announced at the French headquarters this afternoon.

The French troops in the Ruhr now number nearly 100,000 and the military authorities are prepared to take charge of every mine pit head in the valley tomorrow as a protection for the French economic mission, which has undertaken to operate the mines with German labor.

The limits of the occupational zone begin at Wesel, at the confluence of the Rhine and Lippe rivers, the most northerly point in the hands of the Franco-Belgian forces. The line runs east along the Lippe to Borsten, this part being held by the Belgians who make junction with the French at Dorsten.

TERRITORY CONTROLLED

The French hold the Lippe to Lunen, the extreme north limit of the occupation. The line then turns south in a semicircle around Dortmund to Herdecke and Witten, then southwest to Hattingen and thence skirting Barmen and Elberfeld, joins the Duesseldorf bridgehead at Wulfrath.

Gen. De Goutte issued an order of the day thanking both the French and Belgian armies "for the admirable manner in which you carried out the operations," and exhorting them to bear the inclement weather and other hardships with fortitude. He added that the troops had shown great patience under provocation and warned the Germans not to repeat the Bochum demonstrations, as the repressive measures would be severe.

Gen. De Gouttee now has the Thirty-second and Thirty-third army corps complete under his command, with an independent unit formed by one division of cavalry and the Eleventh and Twelfth divisions of infantry as reserves.

MINERS AND BOLSHEVIKS CANNOT MIX

United Mine Workers Have Taken Stand Against "Red Internationale"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—Notice has been served on the coal miners of Nova Scotia by the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, the labor union now operating in most of the mine fields of the United States and Canada, that they cannot affiliate with the "red internationale" labor organizations of Moscow and at the same time remain members of the United Mine Workers, it was announced here today.

The United Mine Workers by this step, it was declared, have put themselves directly on record against radicals who are endeavoring, with Russian examples, "to destroy the American labor movement and substitute therefor the principles of Bolshevism."

"The red internationale," the United Mine Workers' executive board decided, "not only sanctions, but, in fact, urges the workers to resort to street uprisings, mob demonstrations and violence," disapproved the making and keeping of wage contracts but collective bargaining. Its only objective was declared to lie in "dissension, disruption and destruction." No unit of the miners union, it was declared, could affiliate with it and at the same time comply with the constitution principles of their own organization.

Miners of the Nova Scotian district raised the question, it was explained, by making a formal application to the executive board for permission to affiliate as a unit with the "red internationale."

BUILDING BOOM WILL GO AHEAD

Structural Steel Buying Indicates Growth of Development Work

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Indications point to a continuation of the building boom throughout the country this spring. Sales of fabricated structural steel took an upward swing in December, the Census Bureau announces, carrying the year's estimated sales to 1,929,400 tons, or 64.3 per cent of the shop production capacity. The sales exceeded those of 1921 by almost a million tons and were the highest in the last ten years.

December's estimated total bookings aggregated 145,800 tons. That was 20 per cent more than November bookings and marked the turning point from a series of seasonal declines in fabricated steel orders. The upward swing occurred a month earlier than last winter when December was the month of minimum orders. December sales amounted to 58.3 per cent of shop capacity, compared garding the waiving of the defense of its right to argument. This automatically stopped any further argument on the part of the State.

SCORES UNION MINERS' ALIBI

Before departing for Chicago early tonight, Atty.-Gen. Brundage declared that the case had been most difficult but it had been handled as well as was humanly possible.

"Despite the intimidation of witnesses and the environment, the State presented every particle of its case and did it wonderfully well," he added.

Other cases growing out of murders will be brought to trial as early as possible, he said.

"The State believes it has made a convincing and conclusive case showing beyond peradventure the guilt of each of the defendants," a formal statement issued by Mr Duty, C. W. Middlekauff and O. Glenn, Assistant Attorneys-General, asserted. The case has been direct and positive. None of the defendants has taken the stand in his own behalf. The defense has rested absolutely upon alibis made up almost exclusively from the testimony of miners which has been so uniform in its character as to be classed readily as standardized testimony.

WITNESSES PAID

"The witnesses' invariable answers to the question as to whether they were specially compensated for their testmony have admitted it to be so. Almost without exception, every witness for the defense was admittedly a contributor to the defense fund. The State's witnesses have been reluctant and unwilling in the face of the general intimidation which prevails. Nevertheless, they have told the plain truth which they would rather not have told had it not been for the obligation of the oath.

"The defense waives its argument in its dislike of further recital of the brutal details of the murder for which the men stood trial.

"If a jury of fair and honest men return a verdict of not guilty in the face of the evidence then there is undoubtedly some justice in the criticism of Williamson county. We cannot believe that the matter of expense is the prosecution of men charged with such heinous murders enters into the mind of the law-abiding people of this community."

SCORES THE MINE

In his argument Mr. Duty described the mine as a "rat hole" and said that its handful of defenders had withstood a hail of bullets for half a day and night. He declared that after they had thrown down their arms, surrendered and been assured of their safety, they were led out of the pit and twenty of them brutally slain. He declared that under the law defining murder by conspiracy it was not necessary to show that any of the defendants had actually taken part in Hoffman's murder.

"If they led Hoffman and the other men out of the mine . . . they are guilty of murder by conspiracy just as much as though they had participated directly in the killing," he declared. "But we have proved also that they did take part in the actual killing."

PART OF DEFENDANTS

"We have shown these defendants either actually engaged in acts of barbarity that almost pass belief or were present at the time with guns in their hands. Joseph O'Rourke, one of the survivors, testified that while he was lying on the ground with seven bullets in his body an "ape-faced" stout man with a knife bent over him and cut his throat."

As the State's attorney spoke, Peter Hiller, one of the defendants, leaned forward with his head in his hands, and others moved restlessly in their chairs facing the jury. Behind them several hundred spectators, farmers and miners in their working clothes, and many women listened in intense silence.

"The first act in the conspiracy that led to these killings did not take place at the mine," he declared. "First, hardware stores were raided and guns seized, and just a few hours before the shooting commenced at the mine a truckload of men on its way to the pit was fired on by hidden assassins and three of its occupants were wounded. All of this goes to show the conspiracy that existed."

JEWISH LEADERS TO GATHER IN DENVER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Jewish reconstruction problems in Palestine will be discussed at a conference of Middle Western and Pacific Coast Jewish leaders to be held at Denver March 6 and 7, it was announced today following a meeting of Jewish leaders here.

Five hundred delegates are expected to attend and Senate leaders who favored the resolution passed there favoring Palestine as the homeland of the Jewish race will be invited to speak.

STATE'S TRUNK LINES TO GROW

New Highway Commission is Formulating Policy

Toy Believes Main Arteries Most Important

Reiterates Statements That Fund is Depleted

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17.—While the program of the new State Highway Commission is still in the formulative stage, the policy of the commission in a general way will be to devote its energy toward the maintenance and construction of main trunk roads and transcontinental highways connecting California with the neighboring States of Nevada, Oregon and Arizona, Harvey M. Toy of San Francisco, chairman of the commission, announced here today.

For the time being, Toy said, the commission will reserve its decisions regarding details of work, as the members of the road body are now engaged in an inspection of highways in various parts of the State, and desire time to better acquaint themselves with actual conditions.

HAVE STARTED WORK

Toy said he and Louis H. Everding of Eureka, the other member of the commission to qualify under appointment of Gov. Richardson, already had spent about a week going over roads and conferring with division engineers in the southern part of the State, and starting Friday they planned to inspect the highways in the territory north of Sacramento. Until this trip, which is expected to require several days, is completed, Toy said the commission's grasp must be considered incomplete even for their own guidance.

The chairman reiterated statements made previously by him that the commission is hampered financially through the obligation by the old commission of several million dollars represented in State highway bonds.

MONEY NOT AVAILABLE

He declared there is only a few hundred thousand dollars which has not been budgeted, and when reminded of the statement issued a few days ago by N. D. Darlington of Los Angeles, former chairman of the commission, which was to the effect that something like $12,000,000 remained available for construction, replied that this money referred to future assets in the form largely of Federal-aid funds.

When the question of the North Fork Highway between Quincy and Oroville was brought up and suggestions made as to the possibility of a renewal of the controversy over the location of the lateral due to the action of the old commission rescinding its decision relative to the location of the road, Toy said he had not heard of such a highway.

ARIZONANS PROPOSE NEW MOTOR LAWS

RECOMMENDATIONS SUGGEST THREE-CENT TAX ON GASOLINE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Jan. 17.—A general change of laws governing collection of State income from motor-driven vehicles is recommended by the Corporation Commission, which will have bills introduced in the Legislature covering its suggestions.

It would raise the present gasoline tax from 1 cent to 3 cents a gallon. Common carriers would be taxed from 50 cents to $1 a day for vehicles operated for freight or passenger service, this in addition to a registration license fee of not less than $25 per annum.

The reported deficiency in the highway department has become a thing of mirth, following discovery that the State engineer had twice as much cash on hand as he asked from the Legislature for the 16th inst., pay roll. The appropriation of $51,000 passed by the Senate thus has been allowed to die in a house committee.

Mrs. Rosa McKay, representative from Gila county, has offered a bill establishing at $16 a week the minimum wage for women in Arizona. Other bills of the day were: Providing uniform methods for legal search and seizure; covering organization and operation of partnerships; granting divorce after seven years spent by husband or wife in an insane asylum.

Gov. Hunt sent the Senate the following nominations: As members of the Sheep and Sanitary Commission: Lou Charlebois of Flagstaff, William Morgan of Phoenix and Ira Brown of Winslow. Announcement has been made that the State Vocational Education Department has been abolished as such and that it will be handled directly by School Supt. Case.

WOULD BOOST PAY OF HIGH COURT JUDGES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17.—Assemblyman Sidney Graves of Los Angeles said tonight that he would introduce tomorrow two bills, one to raise the salaries of justices of the Supreme Court of California from $8000 annually to $13,500 annually, and another to raise the salaries of justices of the District Courts of Appeal from $7000 annually to $12,000 annually.

Mr. Graves said the object was to keep a high standard in the judiciary and attract men who could earn equal or larger incomes in the practice of law.

LOST LAWYERS' BILL CAMPAIGN EXPENSIVE

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17.—The California Bankers' Association spent $59,339.37 in its campaign to defeat the so-called "lawyers' bill" at the November election, according to the report of the association filed today with Secretary of State Jordan. The report was filed late, but Jordan stated he would accept it. The State Bar Association spent $44,209 on behalf of the bill, its report filed several weeks ago, stated. The bill was defeated.

AX SWINGS ON MACHINE JOBS

others or themselves fail to perform the tasks allotted to them. Numerous other instances have been found, it is said, where a decidedly fair day's pay has not encouraged the recipient to render a fair day's service in return.

"Helpers" and assistants galore are to fall under the economy ax. In a few cases the "helper" will be retained and the "help" will be permitted to depart.

When this tremendous and unprecedented reduction of personnel is completed the foundations and fiber of the greatest political machine in the history of California will be destroyed. Gov. Richardson will have taken a long step in his program to kick the machine out of politics.

Salary reductions are in the form of standardizations and will treat all officers and employees alike on a common basis of merit and service performed. Under the political methods of the Stephens-McCabe-Johnson regime persons performing the same type of work received salaries of such wide range and diversity as to leave no doubt that "pull" and influence counted above training and experience.

According to the latest available figures, approximately 12,000 men and women are employed by the State, of which 2000 were added to the pay roll during the last two years.

SIXTEEN FEEL KNIFE

Will H. Marsh, new head of the State Motor Vehicle Department, today initiated the job-eliminating program of the Richardson administration by announcing the dismissal of sixteen inspectors whose work has been duplicating the activities of county traffic officers, "but," in the words of a prominent State official, "the good work has scarcely begun."

Members of the Legislature were somewhat conservative today in commenting on the proposed constitutional reapportionment of legislative districts proposed by Assemblyman Baker of Los Angeles, although the proposal met with less open objection from certain northern legislators than had been anticipated. Senator Boggs of Stockton today introduced a reapportionment bill in the Senate along the general lines of the Baker bill, but proposing to give Los Angeles county one less Assemblyman and one less Senator than is proposed in the Baker measure.

The decision of administration leaders in the Assembly and Senate to remain in session for thirty days before adjourning for the usual thirty-day recess may precipitate the long-deferred contest on reapportionment before adjournment.

Paving the way for the sale or lease of the Norwalk State Hospital property in the Santa Fe Springs oil district, a resolution authorizing Speaker Merriam to appoint a committee of three to investigate the oil situation will be introduced in the assembly tomorrow by Assemblyman Weller of Glendale.

Estimates of the potential value of the oil deposits under the Norwalk property of the State vary from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000. In his resolution, Mr. Weller proposes "that the speaker shall appoint a committee of three members to investigate the matters set forth in this resolution; said committee to report back and furnish recommendations to the assembly upon reconvening after the constitutional recess as to appropriate legislative action relating to the matters contained herein and such matters as may appertain thereto."

One of the duties of the special committee will be to investigate and report on the feasibility and advisability of removing the State Hospital to another site. A suggestion has been made that the institution might be transferred to the Pacific Colony site near Pomona.

STATE RESTS EARLY IN SLAYING CASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SANTA CRUZ, Jan. 17.—The trial of Victor Carr, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Abel Arellanes on October 15, last, was begun here today. After obtaining a jury, the State had introduced its testimony and had rested its case by 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Tom Arellances, a brother of the dead man, testified that he had seen Carr strike his brother upon their return to the Arellance home after they had visited a hotel where both men had taken several drinks.

Lawyers' Bill May Appear in Changed Form

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO Jan. 17.—The "Lawyers' Bill," so-called, that went down to defeat on referendum at the last general election, may come before the Legislature again in new and what the sponsors believe to be more equitable form. Isaac Jones, Assemblyman from San Bernardino county, has a brief bill, that, so far as the gist of it is concerned, reads as follows:

"No person is competent to serve as executor who has been employed to draw the will or who has furnished assistance in drawing the will under which he is appointed executor.

"No corporation is competent to serve as executor under any will which has been drawn by any officer, employee or attorney of such corporation, and any arrangement under which such corporation sends employment to an attorney or to other persons, whether the corporation pays for such employment or not, shall be considered an employment under the provisions of this section."

Mr. Jones said such a law would not only bar banks from influencing persons to name them as executors, but would also bar attorneys from throwing probate business to themselves. He said the form of the bill was tentative only, but that he believed something of the sort would be desirable.

Legislature Is Asked to Sift Gasoline Costs

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17. — Appointment of a legislative committee to inquire into gasoline costs and distribution was sought in a resolution offered in the Assembly today by Dawson of Los Angeles. The resolution said:

"Whereas the production of crude oil has constantly increased, and the supply of gasoline is apparently in excess of consumption, and,

"Whereas gasoline is an acknowledged necessity of modern business operation, and

"Whereas, apparently unusual and unreasonable dividends have been declared of late by oil refining and distributing corporations, and,

"Whereas, the cost of gasoline to the consumer has not been materially decreased, and is apparently productive of excessive profits, now therefore be it

"Resolved, that the Speaker appoint a committee of five members of the Assembly, who are hereby empowered and authorized to conduct an investigation with the view of ascertaining the cost of production and distribution of gasoline, and recommend such legislation as may be deemed necessary to regulate the selling price in fairness to all concerned."

The resolution was ordered printed, and action deferred pending the completion of that task.

Bill Provides More Judges in This County

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17.—Assemblyman Joe Pedrotti of Los Angeles county has prepared and will introduce tomorrow or Friday a bill to provide eight more judges for the Superior Court in Los Angeles county, where there are now twenty-three departments of that court.

The bill is backed by the entire Los Angeles county delegation, Mr. Pedrotti said, and also by legal and commercial interests in that county. Congestion in both criminal and civil dockets calls for immediate action to bring relief to litigants, he said.

Los Angeles county lawyers on the legislative delegation said that it took from three months to a year to get contested cases to trial after they were brought to issue, and that the delays were often costly to litigants, and unjust in criminal cases where the defendants lie in jail to await trial.

POSTPONE TOURNAMENT

The golf tournament of the Rotary Club, scheduled for today at the Hollywood Country Club, has been postponed until next February 1, in honor of Sir Harry Lauder, who will be the guest of the local club on that date.

Let Us Tailor Your Next Suit

You won't regret it. You will receive the right kind of materials, the proper fit and real workmanship, at a price that's lower than most tailors ask for inferior clothes. We don't believe in advertising $65.00 values for $40.00, or $50.00 to $60.00 values for $35.00. The war prices are a past issue. We haven't any of that trashy material left. We disposed of it long ago, when better materials were being made and prices lowered. Nothing misleading here. When you pay our price for a tailored suit or overcoat you receive value—real value—for your money. That's what has made our shop the most popular tailoring establishment in Los Angeles—a fact our competitors admit.

NEW YORK'S THEATERS IN GIANT DEAL

Erlanger and Shuberts to Combine in Control of All Big Gotham Houses

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The biggest theater combine ever attempted in the United States virtually has been completed, according to an authoritative statement tonight. Under the arrangement, which awaits little more than the signing of formal papers, a vast majority of the theaters in New York and throughout the country will pass under one control, thereby creating something like a monopoly of houses in which legitimate enterprises can find homes.

According to A. L. Erlanger, who admitted the deal was under way, the principal factors in the combine will be himself and the Shuberts. The talk in the theatrical district was of an even more sweeping merger of interests whereby some of the few remaining independent theater owners would be found allied with Erlanger and the Shuberts, so that the would-be producer would find himself forced to seek in a single office an outlet for his productions.

Mr. Erlanger volunteered the information that Charles B. Dillingham with his three big theaters, the Hippodrome, the Gaiety and the Globe, is expected to be a party to the realty merger.

The new plan has three new features, the greatest innovation being that the public is to be let in on it. The amount involved in the deal it is said will reach approximately $50,000,000. No details of the stock-selling feature of the enterprise were available tonight, but both Mr. Erlanger and Lee Shubert admitted the public was to be invited to invest freely.

UPLIFTERS IN HILARIOUS FAREWELL

Grand Muscle Haldeman is Given Thorough Preparation for Long Journey

Grand Muscle Harry Haldeman was given a thorough work-out by his brother members of the Uplifters' Club at the dinner in his honor at the Los Angeles Athletic Club last evening. They prepared him for a three months' trip to South America, on which he departs a week from this Saturday, by presenting him with an expensive English hand-bag, a lot of advice and one of the most rollicking sessions in the history of the organization.

Staid members of bench and bar, prominent business men, doctors, lawyers and bankers threw decorum to the winds and from early in the evening until nearly midnight reverted to the days of their adolescense. Stories, uplift songs and popular ballads resulted in riotous hilarity with which after-dinner speakers coped with difficulty. Such speakers as were permitted to voice their post-prandial utterances were eulogistic of Mr. Haldeman's career as a citizen and as an Uplifter.

Oscar Lawler delivered the "bon voyage" address. "Ernie" Rivers officially said "vale" to the departing Grand Muscle in a poem of his own composing, which was lost in the tumult which greeted it. William J. Dodd presided as chairman. Sim Crabill was in charge of the affair.

Billy Soster, Veteran Film Worker, Dead

One of the first persons to enter the motion-picture industry while it was in its infancy is dead. He is William C. Soster, 42 years of age, who is known by many as "Billy Soster and His Smile," in cinema circles. He passed away last night after an illness of several months' duration following a nervous breakdown at his home at 5536 Harold Way, in Hollywood.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed but it is expected that the Elks' Lodge, of which he was a member, will take charge. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Strother & Dayton, 6240 Hollywood Boulevard.

Mr. Soster became affiliated with the Selig studios in Chicago when they first started operations and continued with them for many years as cameraman and director. He then came to Southern California, where he was connected with various motion-picture concerns. He was employed with the Lois Weber studio and Universal during the last year as director. He leaves a widow, Mrs. William C. Soster.

Limited Choice

After the usual court formalities a beautiful stage person has taken leave of a husband she married last June. If memory is not at fault, she declared at the time of their marriage that he was her ideal man. She probably meant her ideal man for June.—[Birmingham Age-Herald.

Germans Sell Poilus Photos of Occupation

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Jan. 17.—German merchants with perhaps a keener sense of business than patriotism are reaping a harvest in marks by selling French troops souvenir cards of the French occupation. The cards have a picture of the local Town Hall on one side, Cologne cathedral on the other, and a blank space in the center, framed in laurel wreath, for the photograph of the bearer—all for a few thousand marks.

French wine began to flow in the Ruhr from the first day of the occupation. In fact, as soon as news of the Anglo-French rupture reached the Rhineland, the Paris branch of one of the great champagne firms received an order for 50,000 bottles for consumption in hotels where the invading population was to be billeted. In the case of French official clients there will be little opportunity for German landlords to charge excessive prices.

ISMET ANXIOUS AT LAUSANNE

Turkish Envoy Hears Curzon Ready to Quit

British Diplomat Weary of Long Parley

Action Looked for Next Week in Conference

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LAUSANNE, Jan. 17.—Orient and Occident seem to be playing a game of waiting at the Near Eastern Conference; each side appears to be seeking to wear the other out. The Turks, as orientals, play a good hand at this game, but Ismet Pasha betrayed some uneasiness today that he might be overplaying his hand.

The head of the Turkish delegation sent his secretary among the newspaper correspondents to see if anybody knew anything about an asserted statement by Lord Curzon predicting the collapse of the conference and describing the possibilities of signing peace as absolutely hopeless. Nobody was aware of such a statement, but the British spokesmen have been openly pessimistic, and this has reached the ears of the Turks.

As Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Lord Curzon feels that he would like to return to London as soon as possible, especially in view of the numerous problems now surrounding European affairs. He thinks two month enough to devote to Near Eastern discussion, and believes that things should be brought to a climax—good, he hopes; bad, if it has to be.

The British plan for presenting the treaty to the Turks again has been postponed, however, to permit of final negotiations on economic and financial matters like the Ottoman debt, in which France is interested especially, as her people hold five-sixths of the Ottoman bonds. M. Bompard, who went to Paris today accompanied by French and British experts, will go over the financial questions in detail tomorrow or Friday with the French government and bring back Saturday night to the Allies France's last word on the controversial questions involved.

Next week, therefore, should see more development at Lausanne. Everybody is taking a hand at writing a formula for judicial guarantees for foreigners in Turkey which the Angora government would accept. This delicate self-imposed assignment shows no indications of being "well covered."

The Turks again dropped hints tonight that they stand ready to employ a corps of foreign experts to revise the Turkish code, and they want a step further than heretofore by intimating that these experts perhaps could consult with the Turkish judges in cases affecting foreigners, in their "advisory capacity."

That a temporary halt has come in the discussion of the main unsettled issues was evidenced by the fact that today's conference activities were confined to the sub-commission's drafting further details of the project for the obligatory exchange of populations, on which an accord has already been reached in principle. It was decided that when the Greeks in Turkey move to Greece and the Turks in Greece emigrate to Turkey, they take all their goods and chattels with them without tax. All Christian edifices and Moslem mosques will be sold and the proceeds credited to the corresponding institutions in the other country.

A special commission, composed of one Greek, one Turk, and one neutral chairman, selected by the League of Nations, will supervise the liquidation of the real property of the emigrants.

A Wonderful Discovery

Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

Merely get a box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in 2 oz. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use and a $100.00 gold bond come in each box, guaranteeing the user that Orlex powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, mercury, analine, coaltar, products or their derivatives.

It is safe does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger.—[Advertisement.

Dos Detenidos en el Asunto del Asesinato

Un whisky clandestino valorado en $10 le costó la vida a William S. Fisher, informador de la policía, y produjo ayer la detención de R. C. Springer y de la Sra. Leo M. Williford, a la vez que se hacen pesquisas en todo el Estado para ver de encontrar a Leo M. Williford, a quien la policía acusa de haber disparado los tiros que privaron de la vida a Fisher.

Fisher fué llamado al costado de un auto el martes en la mañana temprano, en las calles Main y Cincuenta y Cuatro, y asesinado por un hombre que portaba un rifle. La policía pudo averiguar desde luego que el coche en que iba el asesino pertenece a Springer, y más tarde descubrió que Springer y Williford estaban viviendo junto en la Calle East Adams, 787. Recibió informes por último de que la Sra. Williford, varias horas después del homicidio, había dado a un amigo una carabina calibre veintidos. De allí la aprehensión de estos dos sospechosos, a quienes se ha estado sujetando a amplio interrogatorio.

Guerra Eficaz contra los Criminales

Ayer dió pasos muy importantes la Comisión del Crimen en su guerra contra los infractores de la ley y contra la ineficacia de nuestra administración de justicia. Por voto unánime aprobaron todos sus miembros que se pidiera el aumento de sueldos de los gendarmes de Los Angeles, la creación de un sistema de señales adecuado para la policía, y que, en todas las causas que no entrañen pena capital, basten las tres cuartas partes de los votos para dictar veredicto.

La nueva escala de sueldos que recomienda la comisión esta basada en un salario de entrada de $150 para los gendarmes de patrulla. Queda aumentada así en $20 mensuales la presente escala, que comienza con $130 de entrada, y prevee cada año un aumento mensual de $10, durante los primeros cuatro años. No hace la Comisión ningunas recomendaciones relativas a sueldos de gendarmes de patrulla cuando estos avancen en antigüedad, pero encarece que los haberes de policías de otros grados sean mejorados en proporción de los de patrulla.

Se Revelan los Amores de la Bailarina Muerta

Postrada por la noticia de la Fritzi Mann, su íntima amiga, Bernice Edwards, muchacha de Long Beach, de 18 años de edad, declaró ayer que cierto individuo cuyo nombre se ha mencionado en relación con la muerte de la Srita. Mann, podía esclarecer considerablemente este misterio. La Srita. Edwards es la "Bernice Bonds" mencionada en los primeros mensajes de San Diego. Hace poco se divorció y recobró su nombre de soltera. Dijo que "Fritzi" era el nombre de profesión que había adoptado la muchacha cuyo cadáver fué encontrado en Torrey Pines, siendo su verdadero nombre Frieda Mann. Agregó que el individuo a quien se refiere era aquel de quien su amiga Frieda estaba enamorada.

DEPORTES

Golf

Gene Sarazen y Jock Hutchison dieron ayer tarde una gran exhibición de golf en el parque Griffith. El joven Sarazen puso en peligro todos los tiros que conoce, y estuvo en juego de lo más interesante. Entre las cosas más notables de su exhibición figuraron los tiros largos con poco esfuerzo aparente.

El próximo lunes va a comenzar el juego de los campeonatos de Sudcalifornia. Puede decirse que todos los profesionales y significados amateurs de esta región del Estado se han inscrito, así como varios que vienen del norte. Espérase que el torneo resulte un éxito brillante, pues tenemos noticias de que todos los preparativos indican que va a ser éste uno de los más grandes y mejores torneos que se han celebrado en el Estado.

Soccer

Tres partidos de soccer van a jugarse la tarde del domingo en el parque Washington para iniciar la segunda mitad del gran programa de soccer que dió principio el pasado verano. El rápido equipo del Club Atlético de Los Angeles va a poner las cosas en movimiento cuando se encuentre con los Unidos de Long Beach en el partido inicial del post-programa.

Pugilato

Probablemente va a ser votado por el pueblo del Estado el nuevo proyecto de ley de boxeo, por el que se autorizan en California las peleas a 15 asaltos. Este proyecto de ley va a afectar de modo considerable al deporte del pugilato en California, pues la mayor parte de los mejores púgiles son hombres de 15 asaltos.

Tennis

La Srita. Helen Wills, joven estrella de tennis de norte, va a jugar probablemente en el torneo de Santa Bárbara. Las norteñas no han dado a las surianas ocasión de jugar con ellas, y ante las protestas de éstas, van a venir al sur con el propósito de ganar victorias. Todos les deseamos la mejor buena suerte.

SPELLING MATCH PLANNED

Crack spellers are invited to participate in a spelling match to be given by the South Park Parent-Teacher Association next Thursday afternoon in the school building at the intersection of South Park and Manchester. A special program and bazaar has been arranged.

PIANIST TO BE HONORED

Erwin Nyiregyhazi, pianist, will be the guest of honor at a meeting of the Los Angeles Art Center next Sunday at 8 p.m. at 3108 West Seventh street. Merle Armitage and Mrs. Gertrude Ross will be the host and hostess respectively. The public is invited.

HILL ROADS' VIEWS ON CONSOLIDATION DIFFER

LINE HEADS AGREE, HOWEVER, THAT PUBLIC INTEREST SHOULD BE GUARDED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Officials of the Hill group of railroads in the Northwest placed before the Interstate Commerce Commission today divergent views of what steps should be taken to bring about railroad consolidation in that territory. At the same time they declared themselves to be at one in the opinion that the present association of lines in question—Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago and Burlington and Quincy—ought to be maintained in the interests of the general public, as well as the corporations concerned.

The difference among them would arise, Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific; Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, and Walker D. Hines, counsel for the whole group, told the commission at different times, only in case the government determined to break up their present unity.

POLAND AND RUSSIA ARE MOBILIZING

Reason for Concentration of Troops Appears Mystery; Reports at Variance

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—According to reports received here, both Poland and Russia are massing troops along their joint frontier. Warsaw dispatches say that Gen. Pilsudski, Chief of Staff of the Polish army, has gone to the frontier of Ukrania and that Gen. Trotsky, Commander-in-Chief of the Bolshevist forces, is on the other side of the boundary at the head of several army corps.

Just what the reason is for this concentration of troops is a matter of dispute. One report is that the Russian armies will attack Poland if that country invades German Silesia. Another message says that the Poles are about to take an active part in the German-Lithuanian row over Memel, making it an excuse for reviving the Vilna dispute, and that Russia has misinterpreted the Polish troop movements.

The German public which seems to have lost its nerve, is trembling lest something serious is about to happen somewhere in Germany in addition to the invasion of the Ruhr Valley and the capture of Memel.

THE MISTAKES OF THE KAISER

AN ANSWER TO THE KAISER'S MEMOIRS

BY RENE VIVIANI
Premier of France When the War Broke Out
[Copyright, 1921, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

XXXII.—LAST EFFORTS FOR PEACE

On the evening of July 29, in view of the preparations being made by Germany, which were increasing hourly, and in order to secure herself against Austrian mobilization mobilization was to be decreed by Russia. Very late in the evening, before the Russian General Staff had given the necessary orders by telegraph, the Czar gave an order countermanding mobilization, so that mobilization was confined to certain military districts.

Was the order of the Czar, which gave proof of his love of peace, transmitted? Of that there is no doubt. So well do the Germans acknowledge this that they say that this order was disobeyed, thus paying indirect homage to the Czar.

DISOBEYMENT DENIED

On this point a denial has been given which is official and carries authority, emanating as it does from Dobrowsky, former chief of mobilization in the Russian General Staff. It is contained in a new document published by a Russian paper in Serbia, and was translated into German under the title "Die Russische Mobilisation." The general, who was in a position to know all that was going on, flatly declares that any claim that the order was disobeyed is false. He adds that nobody would have thought of disobeying. Moreover, he adds, how could the failure to obey the order have been concealed from the Czar?

There, then, is the explanation of the matter, by the principal witness in the case—the only witness, one may say. It constitutes proof of how the facts were falsified. The Kaiser has given us the opportunity to put an end to the legend spread by Germany. Thanks to him, the good faith and desire for peace of the Czar are brought into stronger relief.

PROOF OF KAISER'S GUILT

But it does not suffice merely to answer these memoirs. Though we have no need to furnish more proofs after the verdict handed down by twenty-seven nations, we shall, notwithstanding, do more than is demanded by truth.

The action of the Allied governments are known. They are based on no garbled statements, no hearsay rumors or documents fabricated brutally out of the whole cloth, or discreetly rearranged; no such things can obscure the shining light of the efforts made in the countries of the Allies for maintaining peace. It is necessary to take up these actions from the beginning, during July 1914, to follow them through that fatal month, as they develop, bound one to another, just as history which is their judge, has followed them. The war did not break out on July 29th, or 30th, or 31st, or on August 1st. Long before those dates it had been prepared, and was standing in its full armor, waiting in the shadows.

We shall see shortly that, guilty as were the Central Empires and heavy as was their responsibility at the last moment, in the confusion born of their act, they were even more guilty and even more more heavily responsible before that owing to underhandedness, hypocrisy, dishonesty and unfairness of their acts.

RESUME OF DEEDS

We have sought to assemble here, in the form of summaries, all the things that were done, so that they may constitute an exact though incomplete resume. What did England, France and Russia do beyond drawing together for the purpose of mediation—which was frustrated by Germany? What else did they do, from the very day when the delivery of the ultimatum to serbia became known?

Here is a list of their acts.

(1.) The British government advised the Serbian government, which heeded the advice, "to be very moderate in its answer to Austria (Blue Book, 12-15 et sequ.)

(2.) In agreement with Russia and France and feeling that the time-limit of two days granted Serbia is no better than strangling her, the British government asks for an extension of this period. (Blue Book, 13, et sequ.) The Central Empires absolutely refuse this request.

(3) The British government asks extension of the time granted. (German Documents, 157) pointing out that the shortness of the time makes war inevitable. Herr von Jagow makes an incomplete report to the Kaiser regarding this petition. Austria emphatically refuses the proposal of a four-nation conference (Germany, France Italy, England,) alleging that Austria cannot be tried by a European tribunal. (German Documents, 348.)

(4.) Desirious that some sort of conference be held, Sir Edward Grey, after the setback suffered by the proposal for the holding of the four-nation negotiations, accepts in agreement with Russia and France, the proposal that there be a private conversation between Russia and Austria (Blue Book 45-74 et sequ.) Answer: Declaration of war by Austria on Serbia, despite the latter's satisfactory answer, and refusal by Austria to discuss.

(5.) Serbia having been invaded, Sir Edward Grey, acting in agreement with Russia and France, acquiesces in the occupation of Serbia by the Austrian armies as far as it has gone, and in Austria's making known her terms while maintaining the occupation, the said terms to be transmitted to the powers and recommended by these to Serbia, provided the independence and integrity of the latter be respected (Blue Book, 88-95 et sequ.) Answer: The Central Empires refuse to reply to this proposal.

(6.) The British government, on July 31st, maintains the necessity for holding the Austro-Russian conversation begun on July 31st, and seeks to succeed in satisfying Austria and securing the suspension of all military preparations (Blue Book, 100-111 et seque.)

(7.) On August 1st, that most fateful day, on which war was declared against Russia, Sir Edward Grey sends seventeen dispatches to all the Foreign Offices urging an entente among the various nations. Answer: Germany and Austria start the war.

What is there to be added to the above? What Russia did? Very well. Let us see what were the acts of the Russian government:

WHAT RUSSIA DID

(1.) After coming to agreement with Sir Edward Grey and France, and despite the excitde Slavic sentiments of the Russians and the menace to Russia, the Russian government counseled Serbia to seek conciliation and from the very first day advised that she send an answer to the Austrian demands such as would be satisfactory to Austria.

(2.) On July 26th, after having asked for extension of the time allowed Serbia (as France did) the Russia government asked that the Austrian Ambassador at St. Petersburg be allowed to talk directly to it. (Orange Book, 38-45 et sequa.) Answer: War by Austria against Serbia.

(3.) The Russian government refuses to be discouraged and supports the Grey proposal (Orange Book, 32-48.)

(4.) In case of nonacceptance of the proposal of having a private talk between Russia and Austria, Russia states that she awaits proposals from the powers. (Blue Book, 55-73 et sequ.; Orange Book, 33.)

(5.) Following a request from the King of Serbia, the Czar, on July 27 advised him to be calm.

(6.) On July 30, Mr Sazanoff dictates to Count Pourtales, German Ambassador at St. Petersburg, a compromise formula and binds itself to suspend defensive measures (Orange Book, 60.) Answer: Herr von Jagow refuses to transmit this formula to Austria.

(7.) M. Sazanoff even goes so far as to acquiesce, with Grey and ourselves, in the occupation of Serbia by Austrian troops, adopting a policy of waiting (Orange Book, 67.)

(8.) On July 31, the said government agrees to enter into discussion with Austria and telegraphs to that effect to London (Blue Book, 110 et sequ.)

ASKS TO NEGOTIATE

(9.) On August 1, after having received Germany's declaration of war, the Russian government again asks to enter into negotiations, provided that Russian territory be respected, adding that Russia will not attack. (Blue Book, 139.)

(10.) On that same day, Russia declares that she will take no aggressive step so long as discussions with Austria, just resumed, shall continue (White Book, 13-15 et sequ.)

There, then, is what Russia did. And France? And France, so far is she did not take the initiative herself, adhered heart and soul to the line of action adopted at the initiative of England and Russia.

Before throwing light on certain of her acts, I wish to call attention of her acts, I wish to call attention to the fact that their principal witness, he who watched them close at hand — Herr von Schoen, German Ambassador at Paris—has paid them striking homage in his dispatches (See the Memoirs of Herr Von Schoen.) On a number of occasions he brought to the knowledge of his government France's efforts in the direction of peace.

As for the said efforts, here they are:

(1.) As far back as July 24th, 1914, at 1 o'clock in the morning I telegraphed, while on the way from Cronstadt to Stockholm, to the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, asking that it seek, through our Ambassador to Austria, to calm down Austria and suggest to England that mediation be attempted by the four nations in order that the dispute might be arranged peacefully. (Yellow Book, No. 13.)

MEDIATION SUPPORTED

(2.) France supports Sir Edward Grey's proposal.

(2.) (Yellow Book, No. 29) The French government supports the request for extension of the time allowed Serbia.

(4.) It renews its request on July 27th (Yellow Book, No. 61.)

(5.) Same request, July 29th (Yellow Book, No. 85.)

6. On July 29 (No. 97) France urgently asks at London that Sir Edward Grey renew the proposal of meditation by the four nations, in whatever form he may deem best.

7. On July 30 (No. 101) the French government suggests to Russia, that, if she adopts defensive measures against the mobilization already carried out by Austria, she give Germany no excuse for meddling.

8. On July 30, a telegram is sent to England to inform the latter that the French government has just given the order to have the French troops drawn back from the frontier a distance of ten kilometers.

9. On July 31 (No. 112) the French government urges all ambassadors to support the English proposal of mediation by the four nations.

10. August 1, 1914 (No. 122) France renews her declaration that she will respect Belgian neutrality.

What more could be done? And why did all this fail? We shall answer this question in the clearest and most concise form, by making a series of summaries based on all the documents in the case, which will show, date by date, day by day, the principal burdens of responsibility that fall upon Germany, since it is very difficult to see and assemble all in this frightful hodgepodge, when belated truths have taken the place of the original falsifications.

AGREEMENT ON FISHING IS SOUGHT

Spokesmen of Japanese Guild to Dicker With Russian Officials

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, Jan. 17.—Three representatives of the Japanese fishing guild have left for Vladivostok to attempt to arrange a temporary agreement for the coming season direct with the Russian authorities.

The Japanese government indorses the trip, hoping to avoid the necessity of again enforcing the regulations as during the last two seasons when the Japanese fished regardless of Russian protests. The fishermen paid license fees to Tokio which still are held pending the reaching of an agreement with Moscow.

During the last seasons three Japanese warships guarded the fishing fleet. Should the fishermen fail to reach a direct agreement with the Russians, Japan will reinforce the old rule and send warships again to the fishing waters.

Government Reply to New York Greetings by Cable Brings Out Ridicule

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 17.—London is decrying British inability to answer New York's wireless "Hello" with "Hello Yourself." Wireless enthusiasts and the press are heaping ridicule on the sloth of commercial and governmental enterprise which the necessity of replying to New York's greetings by cable revealed.

The government is reminded that the first suggestions of the press and other interests for a British system of wireless telegraphy linking up the empire were made ten years ago, yet the Postmaster-General last week told a deputation "the plan still is under consideration."

In connection with the New York-to-London talk, many comment on the potential peace-making agency which is demonstrated. "If the nations of the world would spend on communications a tenth of what they lavish on armaments they might save the other nine-tenths altogether," is the comment of one editorial writer.

LONDON WATCHES FRONTIER

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 17.—It is confirmed that Great Britain has addressed queries and warnings to both the Hungarian and Rumanian governments against their frontier quarrels, which however are not taken seriously here.

Stomach in Fine Condition Now, States Reene

"Indigestion and neuritis, rheumatism, almost made a wreck of me," said J. V. Reener, a well-known carpenter, living at 1 West 33rd St., Los Angeles, C... In a recent statement regarding Tanlac.

"My food would invariably ferment, causing gas, bloating and awful pains. I was also subject to bilious spells and would get terribly dizzy. My elbows and hands hurt so bad I could hardly use my hammer and saw. I could not do a lick of work without suffering agony.

"I had about lost faith in medicines when a friend talked me into trying Tanlac. My stomach is in fine condition now and my appetite so keen I can hardly get enough to eat. The neuritis is all gone, too, and now I can do as much work as I ever could. My friend couldn't have done me a greater favor than he did in getting me to take Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—[Advertisement.

Lift Off with Finger

It doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.—[Advertisement.

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything.

It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N.Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—[Advertisement.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and does the good work right away. It prevents a cold from developing into "flu" or pneumonia. Just rub Musterole with the finger tips and you will feel all the good work of a mother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made of oil of mustard and other simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, stiffness, soreness, pleurisy, stiff neck, tonsilitis, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, colds, chilblains, frosted feet—and chilblains. Seldom fails to relieve. 30c and 65c, jars and tubes; hospital size, $2.00. More than a mustard plaster.

Paradoxical as it may appear to those who have not fully understood the principles and working of autosuggestion, the education of a child begins even before it is born! Without going back to explanations which I have given in previous articles, I need only say that the imagination plays the supreme role in every function of life, and that by disciplining it, or, in other words, by exercising autosuggestion, a prospective mother can not only determine the sex of her child (that has been demonstrated by certain medical authorities) but also, to a large degree, its physical and moral characteristics. She has only to let her imagination deposit in her subconscious mind the image of the son or daughter she desires and the qualities she wishes the still unborn infant to possess. The result is assured.

WILL YIELD READILY

Even more important, perhaps, is the fact that such a child will yield more readily than most to suggestion. Which does not mean that its character is likely to be weak. On the contrary the probabilities are that it will, as it grows up, exchange suggestion for autosuggestion, and achieve perfect self-mastery. Only it must be remembered that our acts and deeds are, for the most part, the result of past outside suggestions or example. The importance of beginning a child's education early, and of controlling the suggestion destined to influence and mold the young mind, therefore must be obvious to all. Parents and educators must be careful to implant in it only good suggestion and preserve it at all costs from bad ones.

How is that to be done? I will try, to give a few indications—or suggestions. They must be taken as general ones, of course; they may be modified or adapted to individual subjects and circumstances.

NEVER BE ROUGH

Be of an equable temper with them, speaking in gentle tones, but firm, persuading them to obey without giving them the temptation to resist your influence. Never be rough with a child, for to do so is to risk provoking a sentiment of fear, accompanied by sullenness or even hate.

Avoid talking ill of people in the presence of children; the latter would inevitably follow your example later on. And backbiting often leads to disaster.

Seek to awaken in their minds the desire to understand nature. Keep them interested. Answer their questions clearly, with good humor. Do not put them off, as so many of us are tempted to do, with such replies as "Oh, you bother me," or "You'll know about that later."

Above all, never on any account tell a child that he or she is a story-teller, or lazy, or a dunce, or worse. Remember that such suggestions have a very strong tendency to become realities, just as the better kind of suggestions have.

IDEA WILL TAKE ROOT

Rather say one day to a child inclined to be lazy or negligent: "Well, you have done much better than usual today; I am very pleased with your work; you are improving." It may not be true. No matter. The idea of improvement, of excellence, of endeavor, will sink in the child's mind and gradually, with judicious encouragement, will be transformed unconsciously into fact.

Avoid discussing diseases in front of children; autosuggestion is quick to transport the idea to the physical plan and develop the very illness you wish to avert. Teach them, on the contrary, that good health is normal; sickness an anomaly, a humiliation which is only a consequence of the non-observance of Nature's laws.

Do not let a child fear the elements; man is made to support cold, heat, rain, wind, etc., without ill effects; it's merely an idea that creates weakness. It is a cruel thing to frighten children by talking of "bogies" and goblins and the like; fear thus instilled may persist in after life and ruin a child's later life and destinies.

LOVE OF LABOR

It is easy to make a child like work and study by making the lessons attractive by means of anecdotes appropriate to the subject, and by explaining the difficult points with a smile and conveying the impression that it is all quite simple. The educator's ideal should be to make his pupils look forward to the next lesson.

Naturally, one must instill the love of labor, with the idea that labor is natural and indispensable; that idleness is abnormal, unhealthy, and conducive to every kind of physical and moral evil. A child's pliable mind easily assimilates such suggestions, which become permanent and will mold and build his character.

It is unnecessary, and not in the scope of these articles, to enumerate all the qualities which a child should possess. What I want to explain is the employment of suggestion and autosuggestion in his education and training. We all know that "example is better than precept," but we realize the truth of it with greater force after studying the power of autosuggestion. And children are particularly sensitive to suggestion; they are always ready to copy what they see, good or bad. So the first duty of parents and educators is to set only good examples.

DEFECT CORRECTION

Suggestion may be practiced with wonderful effect to correct any defects in a child's character, and to develop missing qualities. Every night, just as the child is about to fall off to sleep, or when it is already asleep, stand about a yard away from the bed, and murmur in a low undertone what you wish to obtain; repeating fifteen to twenty times the qualities it is desired to provoke and the defects to be corrected. Do not be afraid to repeat the same phrases monotonously; that is the most powerful means of reaching the subconscious. The latter needs no eloquence to be impressed. A plain statement of the idea is sufficient. More than that defects the ends to be attained.

In schools remarkable results should be obtained by teachers practicing suggestion on their classes every day before beginning lessons. The pupils should be told to shut their eyes and then they might be addressed something after the following fashion:

"Children, I am sure you are all going to be good, polite and amiable to everyone, and obedient to your parents and teachers. You will always take note of their observations, because you know that it is for your own good. You are intelligent, so you love your work, even the subjects which you used to dislike. In class your attention will be always alert and attentive to what your teacher says. You will only be sorry for other children who may be foolishly wasting time and playing during the lesson. So, as you are very intelligent, you will have no difficulty in understanding the lesson, no matter on what subject, and you will remember everything you are told. It will all be stored away in your mind ready for use directly your knowledge is called upon."

Of course the above is merely a sample of what might be said in the way of suggestion. It can be modified and certainly improved by teachers to suit their particular needs. The important point is to practice suggestion in this form.

CHILDREN WILL LISTEN

It does not matter if the children laugh a little at first, or if their attention wanders, or if when the morning suggestion (it is not desirable, naturally, that they should know the purpose of it) has become a regular thing, they listen automatically to the words without hearing them. The words reach the subconscious mind all the same, and the ideas conveyed do their work just as efficiently.

In a word, it is essential that a child should be impregnated with the right kind of suggestions. Everything depends upon it. Play upon the imagination. Character is formed by imagination. More often than not that which is attributed to heredity, in the moral domain as well as in the physical, is the consequence of ideas germinated by example. It is impossible to believe a child is born a criminal. He becomes one by auto-suggestion, just as he may become a valued member of the community as the result of auto-suggestion guided in the right direction.

TERRITORY PLAN GETS NO CHEERS

Harding Not Enthusiastic Over Payment of Islands on Foreign Debts

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President Harding would not regard with enthusiasm any proposal for the surrender of French and British Islands in the vicinity of the United States in payment of the debts of Great Britain or France to the United States, it was stated at the White House yesterday.

While it was admitted that suggestions that French or British possessions in the West Indies be turned over to the United States "takes us into rather an interesting field," the White House spokesman declared the administration is not eager to acquire new territory.

This attitude, it was stated, probably would be appreciated by all those who are familiar with the difficulties which have confronted the administration in the Philippines and in Porto Rico.

Iowan Arrested for Attempt to Abduct His Wife

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DOWAGIAC (Mich.) Jan. 17.—R. E. Ryder, 6-foot farmer and professional baseball player from Rowen, Iowa, swooped down on Dowagiac yesterday and attempted to abduct Miss Gladys Toyne, a school-teacher, who makes her home here with Mrs. Carrie Frost Herkimer.

Ryder was arrested on a charge of attempting to abduct and molest the young teacher. He told authorities that Miss Toyne was his wife and he wished to take her home with him where she belonged. The teacher, who is 25 years of age and attractive, admitted marrying Ryder, thirteen years her senior, but left him shortly afterward and is establishing residence in Michigan in order to secure a divorce, which she says she will ask for on grounds of cruelty and nonsupport.

Wood, Islands Governor, Now is Grandfather

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MANILA, Jan. 17. — Gov.-Gen. Wood became a grandfather today. A ten-pound baby boy was born to Lieut. and Mrs. Osborne Wood at Malacanan Palace. The mother is reported doing nicely. She is the daughter of a Delaware textile manufacturer.

Gen. Wood's plan for the establishment of government hospitals in each of the Philippine Island provinces has been indorsed by the American Chamber of Commerce of the Islands.

ASSISTANT IN JESUIT ORDER DIES

"Black Pope," American Leader, Mourned Deeply at Vatican

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, Jan. 17.—The Rev. Joseph Hasselman, head of the American Jesuits and assistant to the Jesuits in general and who was known as "the Black Pope," died yesterday morning in Rome.

A week ago the attending doctor said he needed new blood and several young students of the American Theological College here offered their own blood. A transfusion of two pounds of blood was effected from one of the strongest youths, but this served only to keep him alive another week.

The Rev. M. Hasselman was born in Brooklyn in 1856 and was president of several colleges in the Eastern States before coming to Rome five years ago. He held the highest consideration in the Vatican where his death is mourned deeply. American Catholic circles in Rome received the news as a great shock.

Funeral services were conducted today at 7 a.m. in a most quiet manner, in accordance with Jesuit customs.

Link Yourself WITH SUCCESS

For 17 years the Fontana Farms Company has been engaged in developing one of the greatest fruit growing properties in the world.

In purchasing acreage units in this wonderfully attractive property you have absolute assurance that there is no pioneering work to be done at this time. You do not have to wait for the land to be cleared and cultivated or for a water system to be installed or for trees to be planted and roads to be improved or for a single development to be made that would usually require years of effort and the expenditure of large sums of money.

The Fontana Farms Company offers today either as an investment or a homesite a property beautiful, that through years of development and the expenditure of millions of dollars has been made one of the most magnificent and outstanding developments of its kind in the world.

Considering this accomplishment, pictured herewith in the links of our success, it may be surprising for you to know that the Fontana Farms Company offers a planted, irrigated vineyard, with a share of water stock with each acre, and with maintenance furnished free for a period of 3 years, at the unheard-of low price of $500 per acre, payable upon the easiest possible terms extended over a period of five years.

We would be glad to have you link your success with ours, to tell you something of the wonderful opportunity which awaits you at Fontana. Ask us for complete information.

PLANS COSTLY IMPROVEMENTS

Pacific Electric in Step With Advancing City

Tire Industry Prepares for a Record Year

Textile Problems; Power Bonds; Business News

In order to increase its facilities for handling expeditiously the continually growing freight traffic at the harbor D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric Railway, explained yesterday that the company is rushing to completion increased storage capacity of its local freight yards, construction of three freight-passing sidings, renewing sections of track and rock ballasting of ten miles of track.

The work now in progress, Mr. Pontius pointed out, involves an expenditure of $318,000 and will materially aid in expediting freight movements and eliminate delays to passenger service. "The growth of the harbor in recent months has exceeded the most optimistic predictions," said Mr. Pontius, "but no fear need be entertained regarding the adequacy of improvement plans of the railways entering the harbor and their desire to keep pace with the development of harbor traffic."

The storage capacity of the Pacific Electric's Butte-street storage yards is being increased approximately 100 per cent and when completed will provide facilities for storage of 500 cars. The Butte-street yard of the Pacific Electric is used as a classification and interchange yard with the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe and Union Pacific railways, and its enlargement will facilitate the rapid handling of freight to and from the harbor.

Three freight-passing siding are now under construction between Los Angeles and the harbor and represent an outlay of $67,000. Two of these sidings in the vicinity of Nadeau will care for seventy cars, being 3600 feet in length. Another is being constructed near Abila Station and work on a 2000-foot siding near Domingues Station is shortly to begin. The sidings will provide more flexibility in the movement of freight and eliminate to a minimum delays to passenger train movements.

At the present time the Pacific Electric is replacing 6460 feet of track between Willowbrook and Abila Station with seventy-five-pound rails, and the rock ballasting of all four tracks between Ninth street and Slauson avenue is rapidly nearing completion. The cost of these two projects is $170,000.

Early delivery is expected on 200 dump cars and in addition the company recently ordered 500 box cars, 150 flats and 200 additional dump cars. The cost of freight equipment ordered will approximate $1,750,000.

TIRE INDUSTRY

Because of the constantly increasing demand for tires further advances in prices will be made by leading manufacturers is the prediction advanced by the Standard Daily Trade Service in a survey of the tire industry. The volume of business that will be handled by the tire companies in the next twelve months will be the greatest in the history of the industry, it is asserted, and from this standpoint, the securities of the leading companies are held to be in satisfactory positions.

The spring business enjoyed by the manufacturers has taxed the facilities of the leading plants and has led several of the companies to construct additions. The General Tire Company has completed another unit to its plants which will double its capacity, and the Firestone company is considering plans for enlargements. Nearly all of the large companies have found it necessary to employ additional workers, the Akron district alone reporting that more than 10,000 persons have been added since January 1. The volume of business in some of the plants has caused the institution of operations on a three-shifts-a-day basis.

Trade leaders are estimating that 1923 automobile production will aggregate 3,000,000 cars, or ap-

RECORD BUILDING IS DONE IN PAST YEAR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Last year showed a record building year for the United States, Bradstreet's announced today, publishing reports from 104 cities throughout the country showing a construction cost total of $3,514,635,467. This was 51 per cent greater than the 1921 total, which represented the country's record to that time. It was 66 per cent greater than in 1920, 91 per cent in excess of 1919, and nearly six times the total recorded in the last war year, 1918.

Overdue New York reported one-fourth the country's entire construction.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Rail Chief Boosts Good Roads; Eternal Vigilance in Oil Promotion; Financial Situation

BY CHAPIN HALL

Good highways are a benefit to railroads, because they increase travel and shipping.

This is the new viewpoint which rail executives have come to take in recent years. It was not always thus.

William H. Finley, president of the Chicago and Northwestern, was discussing yesterday the elaborate road-building program uponwhich the State of Illinois has embarked. His remarks could be very easily made to apply to California.

For instance:

"Properly built, properly regulated and equitably maintained as regards the tax payer, they (good roads) cannot work an injury on anybody, but will remake our State physically.

"The people must realize, however, that all final results are based on taxation. We must all see that the use of State highways is such as to distribute their benefits and costs equitably. Truck loadings should be regulated by law, and trucking companies should be licensed to bear their share of the maintenance of these roads."

OIL FRAUDS

Oil frauds have become of startling magnitude, according to the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

It is charged that fraudulent stock promotions last year collected more than $600,000,000 from widows, orphans and others unversed in business methods. Texas operators by one stroke are said to have cleaned up $30,000,000 through reorganizing defunct concerns.

Congress is to be urged to make an appropriation for the curtailment of fake promotions. National, State and city officials are asked to give more attention to the subject. California supervision through the Commissioner of Corporations is better than the average, and the business of promoting new production is probably on a cleaner basis in this field than elsewhere.

But it takes a lot of watching.

WALKING A LOST ART?

The automobile industry finds reflection in the boot and shoe trade.

Los Angeles dealers, and manufacturers and jobbers throughout the country assert that in spite of increased population per capita sales have declined in volume.

They lay the fault for this condition first, at the door of the automobile, and second, to the fact that the public is buying stouter material and that women's footgear is less perishable than it was a few years ago.

The Department of Commerce backs up the statement with statistics, which show that production for the year was 344,940,000 pairs of boots and shoes, as compared with 331,225,000 pairs in 1913 and 323,666,000 pairs in 1914.

The greatest reduction is in mens' shoes, the production of which has declined from 94,031,000 pairs in 1914 to 69,358,000.

If this rate is maintained walking may become more or less of a lost art in a few years.

FINANCIAL SITUATION

The financial situation both locally and at large continues to be very satisfactory. This, in spite of the disturbing conditions overseas; conditions which the business world on this side of the water positively refuses to take with the degree of seriousness they appear to warrant.

Money continues plentiful and corporate needs are financed without much trouble. Domestic trade is holding up beyond seasonal averages, and the outlook for the first six months of the year, as seen by local economists, is for continued prosperity. They are not so confident about the last half, but assert that if there is anything like a reasonable adjustment of the European situation there will be nothing to fear.

In any event it is probable that the impetus Southern California has already received and that which will accrue during the next six months will carry this community far toward discounting any depression which may follow a protracted disarrangement of foreign trade and exchange.

At this outlook our own crops appear to good advantage. Rain is needed, and seems likely to be forthcoming soon, and, barring late frosts of serious proportions, some new record figures will be established in fruit, nuts and agriculture.

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The pressure on the markets in connection with the France-German situation was less in evidence on the Stock Exchange today than the day before, but more in evidence in foreign exchange. Speculative selling of stocks occasioned early declines, but at the lower prices buying orders turned the market and the closing, although irregular, was generally above the final prices of Tuesday. In the foreign exchange market, however, the declines were substantial and the recovery very slight. The German mark again led the decline; it fell to 48-10,000 of a cent, as against 53at Tuesday's closing and 93 at the close of last week. This, it will be observed, represents a depreciation of nearly 50 per cent within three business days in the internally-quoted value of the German currency.

Declines in rates on other European markets were far less sweeping, but francs fell nearly ¼ cent to the lowest rate of last week, though not the lowest of the season. Italian lire touched the lowest since last November, and even sterling declined nearly 3 cents. In these exchanges the day's downward movement probably embodied both hesitancy of ordinary commercial buyers to place orders at the market and resumption of active speculation for the decline. In the case of the mark the dominant influences were the same as have prevailed on every day this week; it is undoubtedly a "currency panic" at Berlin, with immediate consequences on the German stock markets and in the field of German commodity prices of which Wall street was not informed today, but which must have been of a somewhat portentious character.

On the Stock Exchange the selling showed signs at noon of having for the time spent its force, and the recovery, at first irregular and uncertain, became rather vigorous at the last. The day's transactions were 25 per cent less in amount than Tuesday's, and barely one-half of Monday's; they were in fact not much larger than those of the first half of last week. The day's final prices showed both net advances and net declines, but the advances largely predominated in the stocks which were dealt in during the later hours. In the bond market there was considerable unsettlement.

Railway shares again failed to participate in the early weakness; they changed little for the day. The car-loading statement, published today and covering the first week of January, showed considerable decrease from the full weeks of early December, but its figures have been exceeded in the first week of a new year only by the early January achievement of 1920. Loadings of general merchandise, which are still the best measure of the business situation, exceeded by 78,041 cars, or 22 per cent, the corresponding week in 1922. They ran beyond 1921 by 56,633, or nearly 21 per cent.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—There was plenty of news today indicating good business for the near future. The steel industry is continuing operations at practically capacity, but is unable to meet the demand, and steel prices show an advancing tendency. Railroad traffic in the first week of this year was the heaviest in history for the season, except for the first week of 1920. More heavy purchases of railroad equipment were announced. A further advance in crude oil prices in the Midcontinent field was made. Price advances also were announced on several cotton products. A public offering of $100,000,000 bonds of an industrial corporation was snapped up by investors. Several other companies added cheering dividend announcements.

"Steel companies are becoming so well sold up for the first quarter of the year that they are naming higher prices on what they have left for that delivery, and are selling sparingly," the Iron Age says. "Manufacturing consumers have been increasing their production schedules and are seeking to place new orders.

"Mills have had heavy specifications from the automobile industry. Other sources heard from are the agricultural works, which now are planning a 50 per cent operation, and builders of tanks and barges, steam shovels and cranes. Large expectations of house building are seen in the effort of distributors of merchant pipe to enter orders, which in some cases represent twice their average allotments."

"Students of the international steel situation," the Iron Trade Review says, "see in the French invasion of the Ruhr district a possibility of a check on Germany's export activities and consequent diversion of business to this country."

Although loadings of revenue freight for the first week of this month declined from the early weeks of December, the current figures are highly satisfactory. Loadings of general merchandise, which are the best criterion of the business situation, ran 78,401 cars, or 22 per cent above the same week last year, and 56,633 cars, or 21 per cent, above the corresponding week in 1921. Excluding coal, the railroads last year carried more traffic by 16 per cent than in any previous year.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is purchasing $18,700,000 of new equipment, representing fifty-two locomotives and 3000 freight cars. It asked approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the issuance of $13,883,000 in 5 per cent equipment trust certificates, to be sold in the open market, and to be used in paying for the equipment. The Union Pacific announced nearly $45,000,000 was expended in betterments last year, and $23,500,000 worth of new equipment has been ordered for delivery during the first half of this year.

COTTON MAINTAINS FIRM UNDERTONE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The cotton market improved today following an early dip. There was early pressure from profit-taking longs and the South, but quick improvement followed as 8 to 13-point depression and in the second hour the market was 8 to 18 points net higher. Business was only moderately active, traders on the whole showing caution. In the face of disturbing rumors from abroad the market maintained a firm undertone and in the late afternoon made new highs for the day. Trading was fairly active then, shorts showing increased uneasiness over the market's failure to move lower. Final sales were close to the best and 10 to 32 points above the previous close.

Spot was steady, 20 points advance, 27.60 for middling uplands.

SAN BERNARDINO RAPS AT DOOR OF COAST LEAGUE FOR ADMITTANCE

WOULD ACQUIRE REE FRANCHISE

Agnew Proposes to Purchase Salt Lake Club

Judge McCarthy Asked to Sanction Transfer

Business Men of Gate City Back Enterprise

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 17.—In all but name San Bernardino is knocking on President William H. McCarthy's door demanding entrance into the Pacific Coast League, through the proposed purchase by Sam Agnew, the Seal's former owner, of the Salt Lake City club.

Agnew today announced that he had wired President McCarthy asking the league's sanction of transferring the Salt Lake franchise to San Bernardino, contingent on his success in purchasing William Lane's ball club. Backed by submitted financial interests, Agnew said he was prepared to bid for the Salt Lake club, balls, bats and players.

This is not the idle talk of the press but a cold cash proposition, in which San Bernardino, with a population of 75,000 people within a fifteen-mile radius clamors for admittance in the Coast League, Agnew declared.

"I have written President McCarthy," said Agnew, "asking if the league will sanction San Bernardino's admittance into the league. I am backed by business men who are anxious to see a Coast League club in San Bernardino and am ready to begin the 1923 season now."

Agnew stated that a baseball grounds within three blocks of the heart of the city is under option and that stands and grounds can be constructed before the playing season starts.

San Bernardino is sixty miles from Los Angeles. Its entrance into the circuit would chop down the heavy traveling expenses sustained by all clubs in the circuit with Salt Lake included in the eight teams. Agnew has gone his release from the Seals, he said.

LANDIS WIRES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. — Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis today sent acknowledgment of receipt of the statement sent to him by the five clubs which opposed the action of President William H. McCarthy at yesterday's meeting of the Pacific Coast League at Portland, Or.

OWNER OF FAMOUS SIR TOM IN TOWN

L. L. (Ted) Geary, owner of the famous R type boat, Sir Tom, which won the Isherwood cup which was up for competition last August at the big regatta held here at that time, is now a visitor in this city.

Geary is a yacht designer of fame and claims that he is merely visiting Los Angeles for the purpose of seeing how the local fishermen are getting along with their yachting. While he is in the city Geary will stay at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Above, we have Gene Sarazen doing his stuff

Yesterday afternoon at Griffith Park, the boy wonder entertained a large crowd with his exhibition of what to do and what not to do. Seated in the foreground, club in hand, we have Jock Hutchison, first American to hold the British open championship.

Sarazen and Hutchison Thrill Great Audience at Public Lesson

STARS GIVE FINE SHOW

Professionals Perform Standard Shots Before a Big Crowd at Griffith Park

Before a crowd of more than 1500 persons, Gene Sarazen, national open and professional champion golfer, and his partner, Jock Hutchinson, former British open champion, demonstrated all the principal shots of golf at the Municial course in Griffith Park.

At 2:30, when Sarazen put in appearance on the first fairway, a great round of applause went up and then Dan Tobey did his stuff. Sarazen after a short introduction demonstrated how he uses the interlocking grip, the most powerful and at the same time the most difficult to master.

His first shot was with a mashie. High balls, low balls, slices, hooks and straight balls seemed to be nothing in the life of this young man. Following this exhibition he used the mashie iron, midiron, and finally a driver and brassie. With each club he did the same thing and apparently with the same amount, or rather the same lack of, effort.

The keynote of Sarazen seems to be ease and gracefulness. Grasping his club, Sarazen swings through his stroke and the ball flies down the fairway for two hundred or more yards. Without turning a hair these strokes are accomplished. The epitome of ease.

The co-ordination of bodily movements is also a great factor of Gene's success. No jerky movements are to be found in his swing, but only a perfectly free and well-timed circle of movements.

With a combination of these factors which are all embodied in Sarazen the youthful expert has perfect control over his ball. If he wants a low straight ball he gets it, and not only that, but he can do the same thing with any club in the bag, including the putter. A slice to most "dubs" is a fault, but to Gene it is a science. Shooting at a tree a hundred and fifty yards down the fairway he hooked or sliced the ball on either and both sides of it. As to accuracy Gene has no peer. With all clubs he puts the ball so straight down the fairway that it is impossible to see any curve while the ball is in flight.

Jock Hutchison proved to be a great success as an entertainer and seems to have missed his calling when he took up golf. Any vaudeville circuit would pay John D. prices to be able to bill him. With his true Scotch brogue and his true Scotch thirst he proved a great help to the great Gene.

However, when it comes todemonstrating the fundamentals of golf Jock is supreme. Showing a large crowd what to do and what not to do is no easy task, but Jock put over his lesson and from the applause of satisfaction that went up they evidently got the point of the lesson.

From every point of view the first public golf lesson of Los Angeles was a great success and it's a sure bet that the golfing fans would appreciate a return trip of these two stars.

DATES ARE SET FOR HANDBALL TOURNEYS

NEW YORK, Jan. 17. — Dates were announced today for the Amateur Athletic Union national junior and senior four wall-court handball championship tournaments. The junior event will be conducted by the Pittsburg A.A., Pittsburg, on February 12, and the senior tournament will be held in St. Paul under the auspices of the St. Paul A.C. during the week of March 19.

ALLEN FORCED TO QUIT TRACK

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 17.—Fleet-footed Bob Allen, one of the greatest track men Southern California has ever produced, will not don the spiked shoes this year. Doctors today issued an edict, after studying X-ray photos of the knee which Allen injured in football a year ago and injured again this year, that Allen should give it a rest for at least a year if he expects to continue his athletic career. And that means he will not be seen in the conference track meets this year.

Londos and Romanoff Getting Ready for Stadium Match January 24

Local followers of the wrestling game can congratulate themselves upon the treat which is coming to them next week, when Lon Daro, matchmaker, brings his triple star feature here to the American Legion Hollywood Stadium wrestling bout Wednesday evening, January 24.

All of the sport world knows Jim Londos, the Greek champion, who has won many hard matches, including a bout in St. Louis, Mo. in 1921, when he defeated Ed Strangler Lewis. At that time Stanislous Zbyszko was champion, so Jimmy missed getting the title.

Londos meets Constantine Romanoff, who is one of the top-notchers in the wrestling game, is well versed in the grips and breaks that go with the offense and defense of wrestling. He is aggressive and game to the core. The heavies will wrestle best two out of three falls to two hour limit.

Angelo Taramaschi and George Vasell, who are to appear in a one-hour tustle, best two falls out of three, to win, are also high-class contenders, and will furnish the fans with some good competition in their special event, which will immediately precede the main bout.

Tero Mikaka, the Japanese jiu jitsu expert, who is far superior to all other Japanese grapplers in the art of applying the jiu-jitsu holds, takes on Cyclone Burns of Ogden, Utah in a mixed style match, which in itself, is well worth the price of admission.

JEWTRAP EQUALS SKATING RECORD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PLATTSBURGH (N. Y.) Jan. 17.—Charles Jewstraw, of Lake Placid, made a clean sweep in the Adirondack gold cup skating championship races here today, winning both the 220-yard and three - quarter mile events of the opening program. Jewtraw equalled the world's eight-lap track record in both the semi-final and final heats of the 220-yard event. Jewtraw leads in points scored with 60. Nusher and Donovan are tied for second with 20 each and Stevenson and Corcoran are third with 10 each.

LONG BEACH FIVE IS VICTOR UPON COURT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 17.—The 110-pound basketball squad of Long Beach High defeated the Pasadena flyweights, 11 to 8, after a fast tussle played today in the winning team's gym. Boyer and Newbold featured for the winners, while Dutcher loomed up the best for the visiting quintet.

YORK REINSTATED

KEELER WONDER BATTER

His Remark of "Hit 'em Where They Ain't" Became Famous; Orioles Greatest of All

"MY THIRTY YEARS IN BASEBALL"
ARTICLE XII
BY JOHN J. McGRAW,
Manager of New York Giants, (World's Baseball Champions 1921-22)

[Copyright, 1923, by the Christy Walsh Syndicate.]

In the spring of 1894 we again arrived at New Orleans for training to find that Manager Hanlon had given us the needed cog to our machine—the key to the combination that made the Orioles the most famous of ball clubs. During the off months he had put through what I consider one of the greatest trades ever made in baseball. It was certainly the greatest ever made by Hanlon—and he made many.

Hanlon had traded Shindle and Treadway to Brooklyn for Willie Keeler and Dan Brouthers. As I remember, it was an even swap. I mean Brooklyn thought it an even swap. As a matter of fact, Hanlon in a couple of trades like that laid the foundation for baseball fame and fortune. He was a wonderful trader.

Dan Brouthers was one of the heaviest hitters in baseball and Keeler developed into one of the most scientific players the game has ever known. To this day one of Willie's remarks about hitting is a classic epigram of the diamond.

When asked the secret of batting the little fellow replied "Hit 'em where they ain't." That was all.

In addition to Keeler and Brou-

Something like 14,000 rabid fans saw Bill Brennan definitely removed as official trial horse for the heavyweight championship contenders when Floyd Johnson, a 21-year-old Iowan, decisively whipped him in a fifteen-round battle in New York last Friday night. This photograph shows Brennan flat on his back—but he wasn't knocked that way; he merely slipped after a hot mix-up in the fifth round.

Coach Fred Cady Lines Up a Classy Program

Aquatic Event Will be Held Next Wednesday

Water Polo Contest Also on Winged-Foot Bill

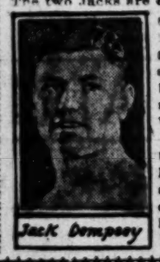
Aquatic fans have a real treat in store on January 24th in the big plunge at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Coach Fred Cady has lined up a program of unusual interest, the big event being a water polo game between the newly organized teams of the L. A. A. C. and the Redondo Club. The Athletic Club polo team is composed of the real class of swimmers in the West and numbers among its squad the one and only Duke Kahanamoku, and that peerless sterman Lady Langer, Ralph Hammerli, Rusty Williams, Eddie Vint, Bobby Vint, Eddie Rawlings and John Doughty. E. J. Tuttle, former member of the British polo team which won the last Olympic championship, will referee the game, which will undoubtedly be fast and furious. There will also be competitive diving for men from the ten-foot board. Entries have been filed by Hammerli and John Setzer of the L. A. A. C.; Fraser, Cohen, Jimmy Ryan, Ambassador Club; James Ryan, Cleve Morrison and Roy Thoen, unattached. Jensen until recently was a member of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. aquatic squad. It should be a hot contest, with Ralph Summerfl, L. A. A. C., picked as the favorite.

Events for women include 50-yard free style, 50-yard back stroke and 100-yard handicap swims. All Cady's famous mermaids will be entered. Frank Rivas, late of Venice, who has recently undertaken to coach the San Diego Rowing Club waterdogs, is expected to enter some of San Diego's fair natators.

Entries close Saturday, January 20, with Fred Cady, Los Angeles Athletic Club.

JACK IS OFF FOR GOTHAM

Jack Dempsey, world's greatest heavyweight boxer, will leave here this morning for New York with his manager, Jack Kerns. The two Jacks are expected to have a busy time in Gotham when the dear old burg is reached. It is more than likely that at least one bout for the near-future will be signed up. The champion is sadly in need of some real ring stuff and this leads one to the belief that the commission may repent of its recent action and give Jess Willard a chance to regain his lost laurels.



Jack Dempsey

One thing is sure, however, and that is the public will be made wise as to just whom Dempsey's next opponent will be. Willard, although pretty old, seems to be the logical candidate for Jack's next bout. It is hardly likely that Harry Wills and Jack Dempsey will ever meet in the squared circle.

KELLER CALLED WONDER BATTER

thers Hanlon also had secured Bill Clarke, the catcher, and Heinie Reitz, the second baseman, from California.

NEW LINE-UP

With that group of talent Hanlon immediately formed a new line-up—the line-up that made the Orioles a historical institution. The batting order was: McGraw, 3b; Keeler, rf; Kelly, lf; Brouthers, 1b; Jennings, ss; Brodie, cf; Reitz, 2b; Robinson, Clarke, c; McMahon, Esper, Hoffer, Gleason, Pond and Clarkson, pitchers. Later Kid Gleason came from St. Louis and joined us. That, believe me, was a ball club.

This was a new combination, all young players, full of pep, fire and ambition. They surely could play ball. It was easily the best team of its day and time. I still hold the opinion that, from many angles, it was the best of all times. Teamwork was our middle name; everything had to give way to that.

ALL OWNED TEAM

The great thing about that team was that every one of us, individually, felt that it belonged to us. Hanlon didn't have to scold or punish a player for failing to do his part. We attended to that ourselves. No player could come back to that bench after a bad play and expect to take it easy.

Another evidence of the greatness of that ball club is that it is the only one that remains in spirit a team to this day. Every year we have a reunion. The players have looked after each other all these years. It is like an old college football team. You can remember that team as a unit. Others you can not. On other ball clubs the players have forgotten where it members are. On the Orioles we always know.

Dan Brouthers, for instance, is now watchman at the Polo Grounds. Dan is growing old, but he always will have a job. Keeler died about two weeks ago.

INTEREST TO WIN

The old Orioles thought of nothing but baseball. Our interest was to win. Salaries were secondary in consideration. We met every night and talked over our successes and failures. If it was a trip to a theater all of us went and sat together. Nowadays one or two ballplayers may go out together at night. In those days we all went together.

We knew that we had a great ball club and for that very reason I think we won a lot of ball games. We fought each other, of course, but such rows were the result of some players making a mistake. We fought for the welfare of the team. Each player regarded himself as the manager of the other. Hanlon had little to do other than encourage us to keep on. He had built well.

During the training period we perfected many inside plays, such as the hit and run, the unexpected bunt, and so on. Keeler was a marvelous place hitter. I was not so bad at it myself. My long suit, though, was my eye. I was a good waiter and rarely hit at a bad ball. For that reason I led the batting order. Keeler, on account of his place-hitting ability, followed me. I think, with all due modesty, that we worked the hit and run play more perfectly than I have seen since. If I reached first I would give the sign and Keeler, almost invariably, would hit the ball in the right place. Then we had Kelley and Brouthers, the long hitters, to clean up. If we slipped, there were Brodie and Robinson at the other end of the batting order to clean up after Jennings and Reitz had started something.

Word had reached other clubs of our new style of play—this trick stuff by kids, as they called it. All over the league the old-timers were disposed to kid us. I shall never forget our start that year.

We went up against the New York Giants, managed by John Montgomery Ward, in a four game series. They had trained at Charleston and had come direct to Baltimore from the camp to start the season. The Giants had been touted as sure pennant winners. They had a staff of famous pitchers—Amos Rusie, Jouett Meekin, Dad Clarke and Hyler Westervelt.

All baseball was astounded by our feat of winning four straight games from the famous Giants. Right off the reel, in the first game, Willie Keeler and I stood them on their heads by pulling the hit and run play.

BIT OF LUCK

They thought it merely a bit of luck that we should happen to hit the ball through a hole just left by the baseman going to cover the bag. Not for a moment would they believe such a play was prearranged.

"Just a lot of horseshoe luck," said John Ward, dumfounded at our victory.

Not until we had won four games by these so-called tricks did Ward grasp the system of team work and new plays that had been sprung on him. He sincerely believed them to have been accidents. Later he awoke and acknowledged that we really had pulled something new in baseball.

HIT IN NINTH

What we did to his four star pitchers was a-plenty. It happened to be my luck to win the last game by a hit in the ninth inning.

That one series made the Orioles. Seeing that our stuff had worked, we were full of confidence and cockiness. Jennings, Keeler, Kelley, Robinson and myself organized ourselves into sort of committee. We were scheming all the time for a new stunt to pull on our opponents. We talked, lived and dreamed baseball. That was the secret of our success. Woe betide the player who failed us! His life on the bench was not a pleasant one. He never forgot the roasting and never failed to deliver one if somebody else failed.

WIN EIGHTEEN

Last fall I heard much of the sensational invasions of both the Giants and the Yanks in the West. Well, that year the Orioles made an invasion that was even a greater sensation. We started on the last Western trip a half game in the lead. We finished four games ahead, having won 18 straight games and twenty-four out of the last twenty-five. But for an accident to Wilbert Robinson, who slipped in the mud while about to make a play, we would have won the whole twenty-five.

Our best wor kwas at pittsburg here we gave the prettiest exhibition of place hitting that I ever hope to see. The lefthanders poked the ball into left field and the righthanders poked it into right, time and time again. The Pirates were completely confused and dazed. They had never seen anything like that before—neither had we.

That fall we lost the Temple Cup series to the Giants, but Jennings and I got back to St. Bonaventure as heroes. We were champions. It was a royal reception. But speaking of receptions—well, tomorrow

BUSHERS IN NUMBER OF FAST TILTS

Palomar Meets Norwalk; Clearys Go to Azusa; Big Confab Tonight

BY JOE BUSH

Several good games are lined up for next Sunday's bush baseball program, with the Palomar-Norwalk tilt taking the limelight. The Cleary Athletic Club-Azusa scrap is also slated to provide a lot of amusement for the semipro followers.

The Palomar club upset the Norwalkers in the first game between the two speedy nines and a hot battle should result on the Norwalk diamond Sunday when the teams meet again. "Lefty" Cruse will be on the mound for Palomar opposing Ray Keough, recent acquisition of the Los Angeles Angels. Both twirlers have been dealing a nifty brand of ball lately and a hurling duel par excellence should be resultant when they hook up. If "Moose" Trautwein, Cleary pitcher, is in the same form he displayed last Sunday against the Redondo-Hermosa Merchants, whom he allowed but one hit, the Azusa gang will probably wonder what it's all about.

The Greater Southern California Baseball Association will hold its weekly meeting at A. G. Spaldings sporting goods store tonight. A large crowd is expected and much business will be brought up.

Third baseman Lowe of the L. A. Chinese, league leaders of the City League, had a pretty busy time around the difficult corner last Sunday. The oriental infielder handled nine chances without a sign of a bobble.

Manager Barrows, who plays second base for the Kant Skore Pistons when he is not busy managing, showed his players how to do it last Sunday by banging the onion for a round trip with two men on the bases. The wallop tied the score and his team won out later.

Castenholz had a good day at the bat last Sunday against Joe Pirrone's All-Stars, slamming out three hits out of four times at bat.

Coach Daugherty's Franklin High casaba chasers and Coach Mallette's Lincoln cagemen will meet this afternoon in the Railsplitters' gym in the only City League tilt on for the afternoon. The lightweight squads of the same schools will also hook up in a preliminary contest.

Somehow or other the local dopesters seem to feel that the Lincoln fives will cop a double victory, but there are quite a number of Franklin boosters that predict a win for the Kiteflyers in the unlimited struggle. Last Friday the Franklin heavyweights dropped a 28-to-12 tilt to the Manual Arts quintet while the Lincoln five was nosing out the L.A. High crew, 18 to 16. The Franklinites showed little offensive strength against the Artisans, but will propably be a little better versed in the art of point scoring for today's game. The Lincoln men, with Pete Thompson, Jimmy McCue and George Dyer in fine shape, should give the Kiteflyers a regular battle. Mallette's men have been working hard for today's game and mean to make it two wins in a row. Bob Lee and "Midget" Harris are expected to star for the Franklin squad. Crandall, the regular center for Daugherty's team, will probably not play, as he injured his foot in the game against Manual. The Railsplitter lightweights, coached by Leo (Papa) Livernash, are topheavy favorites to trim the Franklin babes.

Tomorrow's games bring together Pasadena at Long Beach, Hollywood at Jefferson and Manual at Poly. It will be the Jackrabbit squad's debut in the City League this year, the Seasiders having drawn a bye last week. The Long Beach line-up will probably be Anderson and Price at forwards, Bennett at center and Eaton and Don Hill at guards.

Hollywood and Manual are favored to win their heavyweight games easily, while the lightweight squads of Jeff and Poly are figured to win after hard battles.

Name Lineups of Jackie Tilts on January 24

Here is the line-up of scrappers and grapplers who will meet on board the superdreadnaught California on the 24th inst., to determine the championships of the U.S. battle fleet:

Flyweight, Rautila, U.S.S. Mississippi, by default; bantamweight, Stierp, U.S.S. Pennsylvania, vs. Sargeant, ir squadrons; featherweight, Hackley, U.S.S. Procyon, vs. Lucas, air squadrons; lightweight, Fisher, U.S.S. New Mexico, vs. Renner, destroyer squadron; welterweight, Vincent, U.S.S. Arizona, vs. MacGowan, destroyer squadrons; middleweight, Rogge, U.S.S. Tennessee, vs. Hector, destroyer squadrons; light-heavyweight, Frye, U.S.S. Idaho, vs. Shanks, destroyer squadrons; heavyweight, Snyder, U.S.S. Mississippi, by default.

Lightweight, Lawing, air squadrons, vs. Borodziez, U.S.S. Arizona; Kendall, air squadrons, vs. Brundage, U.S.S. Mississippi; middleweight, Glazier, air squadrons, vs. Brundage, U.S.S. Mississippi; light-heavyweight, Mulliken, U.S.S. California, default; heavyweight, Lockridge, destroyer squadrons, vs Mulliken, U.S.S. California.

The San Diego entries will arrive tomorrow and will be quartered and trained on the fleet flagship, it was announced last night by Lieut.-Commander E. D. Langworthy, in charge of plans for the Navy's greatest ring carnival. While the fleet ring and mat championships are being decided on the California, the basketball squad of the U.S.S. Mississippi will meet the quintet of Destroyer Division 31 at North Island for the battle fleet title. The game will be played on the naval air station court.

Marks to Risk Banty Title in Griffin Battle

Little Georgie Marks will hurl his Coast bantamweight title into the ring at the American Legion Hollywood arena tomorrow night and defi "Dandy" Dick Griffin of Fort Worth to grab it. Griffin is primed for a real mill and hopes to knock the throne from under his rival and incidentally earn the right to meet Johnny Buff, former world's champion, in a bout to be staged at Hollywood in the near future.

Sailor Billy Vincent and Bud Soules, two of the toughest 145-pounders who ever trod a boxing ring, will tangle in the semi-windup. Matchmaker Frank Crowley has selected Kid Moha, the tough Filipino, to do battle with Willie O'Brien, a 126-pounder, in the special event.

Charley Sullivan vs. Danny Sirlos, 138 pounds; Johnny Kenny vs. Sid Bernard, 128 pounds; Benny Demske vs. Billy Morrisette, 158 pounds, and Sailor Listen vs. Benmon Woods.

REDUCING THE HIPS

Barclay L. Severns Explains in His Health Talk How to Take Off Excessive Avoirdupois

ARTICLE XXI

BY BARCLAY L. SEVERNS

The obese abdomen and large hips are caused by too much food and a weakening of the abdominal walls through lack of exercise. The condition requires persistent and regular exercise, will-power and some self-denial to remove it and bring the health and figure back to normal condition.

In the previous articles I explained that the exercises for the muscles of the trunk were most important at all times, for any and all conditions, as the vital organs within must receive some attention to keep them in good working order, so that they can perform the important duties intended for them by nature.

When trunk exercises are not indulged in regularly the muscles in the immediate region shrink and become soft and flabby, and the superfluous fat, which is inert tissue, naturally gravitates and settles at the point of least resistance.

BROUGHT INTO PLAY

The muscles of the arms and legs are naturally brought into play many times each day in our regular duties and therefore do not require the same amount of energy and time to keep them supple and shapely.

Many dangerous conditions arise through a weakening of the abdominal walls, as when this condition is permitted to exist, the important organs, such as the heart, lungs, liver and kidneys, are thrown out of their rightful positions and either hang loosely and unsupported or are crowded together wholly incapable of properly performing their duties, thus throwing the entire delicate machinery of the system out of gear.

Indigestion, constipation, heart palpitation, liver and kidney disorders are often the direct result of crowding of the vitay organs and weakening of the abdominal muscles and wall.

AN ESSENTIAL RULE

Many times I am asked if the deep breathing exercise really aids in the reduction of superfluous fat, and to this question I can only reply that it is one of the most essential rules to follow during the course of exercise, as fat is carbon and must be burned up in the system through the medium of oxygen in fresh, pure air.

Of course deep breathing exercises alone will not accomplish a speedy reduction, as they do not stimulate the action of the heart to any great extent. More strenuous exercises, therefore, are necessary to excite the heart to greater action, because the increased action of it tends to pump the arterialised blood with greater rapidity from the lungs to the tissues, where the oxygen is speedily used up, and back again from the tissues to the lungs, where the blood throws off the waste matter in the form of carbonic acid gas, and gathers up a new supply of oxygen.

So my readers will understand that when deep breathing is combined with other forms of exercise both the action of the lungs and heart are stimulated and invigorated at the same time, bringing about better health and normal figure.

LOADED DOWN

The average woman of forty, realizing that she is physically unable to appear attractive, tries to make up for the shapelessness of her body and the flabbiness of her muscles by loading herself down with artificial attempts at beauty.

A great deal of time and money is spent in selecting clothing as a substitute for beauty. No gown, regardless of cost, can cover or conceal ugliness, any more than paint and powder, as it is used by many whom we pass daily on our streets. It would be a task to find a man or woman who down deep in their hearts do not wish to look and feel young. Yet when the fat starts to accumulate at the hips and waistline, one must realize that now is the time to check it. As the fat gains, the beauty of figure is lost, and the inclination to exercise grows less each day. What is there on this earth that can compare to vigor, grace and the loveliness of a youthful body? Yet how easy it is to make excuses. You are going to start tomorrow, or next week, but the weeks run into months, months into years, then it is a great task, requiring all the will power one can muster up, and then some, as it requires a systematic program each day to do the work, but it pays; the time to start, however, is before the fat accumulates.

EXCESSIVE FAT DANGEROUS

Many deaths can be traced to excess fat. The average man dies at 56 and the average woman at 61. Both sexes reach the peak of vitality at 31, vitality begins waning after 30, and women, with the exception of professional beauties such as Sappho and Cleopatra, hit the down grade faster than men. Athletes generally have shot their bolt at 30.

Excess fat is nearly always the cause of shortness of breath, and furthermore, this condition usually occasions a large deposit of fat, because the shallow breathing prevents the burning up of it. Regular and deep breathing practice is absolutely essential to the obese, as the health-giving oxygen can reach the lowest portion of the lungs and burn up the fat through no other method. Practice the exercise shown above, starting with five times, night and morning, increasing after the first week. It is done as follows:

FIRST POSITION — Lie on back, arms extended straight above head.

FIRST MOVEMENT—Raise the body to sitting position, bring arms down as shown in cut.

SECOND MOVEMENT—Return to first position. Inhale on first movement, exhale slowly on returning to first position.

Do not bend the knees, nor raise the feet off the floor in either movement.

Vital statistic—This column is one year old today. Twelve months ago it started on an experimental existence, and has managed to toddle along into the teething period.

Commercial note—Twelve typewriter ribbons have been worn out producing it, and said ribbons may be likened to its swaddling clothes. Hope the readers have fared better than the ribbons. Anyway, it can't have been much harder on the readers than on myself.

Industrial comment—During these 365 days, the column, I believe, has appeared 360 times. Sometimes it takes a little over an hour to produce the column, sometimes a little less. Average is probably an hour, or forty eight-hour days passed in manual labor at the typewriter. In addition I wrote about 225 baseball and football stories, etc., averaging something more than a column each. These, added to the assorted Shrapnel columns would be about equal to a book of 1200 pages, as the average book is printed.

This is not a boast, but merely to show the large amount of space allotted in which to make mistakes. That probably explains why so many sporting writers go wrong. The main thought of an article may be wrong, and all its related ideas. Every sentence, every letter, every space, every figure, every punctuation mark is potential of error and wrongdoing. If the heart is right the head may be wrong, and if the head is right, which it seldom is, the fingers may slip a few cogs. Things are not always what they seem. Half a dozen persons may put half a dozen constructions on the same paragraph.

The column has been a sort of clearinghouse for opinions in the sporting world and related domains, and every person capable of expressing himself in fairly courteous language has been given a hearing when sought.

Commendatory letters have outnumbered the other kind about twenty-five to one. But, oh, boy, some of the latter would put a blister on a mule. However, a mule is mellow compared to a newspaper man, and both kinds are welcomed impartially and joyfully. Commendatory opinions encourage, but it sometimes takes the hot shots to set one right. Shrapnel, thanking you for your good and bad opinions, will strive to stick around for another year or two.

TIJUANA RESULTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 17.—Krewer, a New York sprinter of note, scored an easy victory in the feature event of the day at Tijuana, winning eased up over Motor Cop, with Brilliant Ray showing. The time for the five and a half furlongs, 1:06, is the fastest recorded at the track in two years.

The surprise of the day was furnished by Silk Sox, which, at heavy odds, handily beat the odds-on favorite, Herder, in the fifth. Purl, a "hot thing," came from behind the field in the stretch to win the fourth race from the outsider, Horace Lerch. Yukon furnished the unexpected by beating De Lancey in the second race.

First race, five and a half furlongs: Prophesy, 108 (Feland,) won; Nenault, 113 (Carter,) second; Flama, 111 (Chiavetta,) third. Time, 1:06 1-5.

Second race, five furlongs: Yukon, 115 (P. Hurn,) won; Delancey, 115 (Martinez,) second; Phyllis K., 110 (Slaughter,) third. Time, 1:02 3-5.

Third race, mile and seventy yards: Cafeteria, 108 (Grenald,) won; Miss Fox, 106 (Stevens,) second; An Revoir, 113 (Long,) third. Time, 1:47 1-5.

Fourth race, six furlongs: Purl, 115 (M. Anderson,) won; Horace Lerch, 115 (Rae,) second; B., 115 (Long,) third. Time, 1:14 1-5.

Fifth race, six furlongs: Silk Sox, 113 (Claver,) won; Herder, 115 (D. Hurn,) second; Barrishaas, 113 (Carter,) third. Time, 1:13 4-5.

Sixth race, five and a half furlongs: Krewer, 106 (Taplin,) won; Motor Cop, 118 (Martinez,) second; Brilliant Ray, 99 (Stevens,) third. Time, 1:06.

Seventh race, five furlongs—Purse, 110 (Fitzgerald,) won; Dark Ages, 115 (Claver,) second; Flamenco Dame, 110 (Long,) third. Time 1:01 4-5.

Eighth race, mile and seventy yards—Summer Sigh, 102 (Stevens,) won; Redsover, 110 (Peter,) second; Black Betty, 104 (Long,) third. Time 1:50 2-5.

Big Leaguers to Arrive in Los Angeles

Bob and Irish Meusel will arrive in Los Angeles on February 7. Upon their arrival they will be wined and dined at the Alexandria by the prominent sportsmen of the city. Landis, high mogul of baseball, will be on hand to do the honors.

Bob and Irish are probably two of the biggest big-league players in the country and as they are both Los Angeles boys and as they have never been entertained here before the city should turn out in full force to greet them.

Johnny Rawlings will also be in down at the time to help celebrate the big event. Rawlings is somewhat of a star himself and will be a big aid to the party.

Even in New York

The Automobile Show in New York is now going on. My boss, Fred Wagner of the Express and many other local celebrities have gone on to watch the doings. And I have to stay here in Los Angeles and visualize the new cars. I saw a couple of photographs, however, of the new models on display there and they look like the Stewarts exhibited here both fitted out with the Luxe double bar STEWART AUTOGUARDS. Evidently Los Angeles isn't the only place they're popular. There's a reason though. STEWARTS really do protect a car.

Wiseacres Think Monte Blue Should Play Deburau

"Gimme" Registers Brightly in New York

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Screen or stage-screen or stage? Everyone seems to be trying to decide between them. Leatrice Joy, who is getting better and better every day in pictures, is being offered every inducement, it is said, to go in the speakies. And Helen Mackellar, leading woman of "The Masked Woman," is being urged with equal fervor to cast her lot with the silent drama.

It seems sometimes as though Glenn Hunter is the only real contented person on Broadway. He is appearing in both pictures and on the stage, working in "The Scarecrow" for the film guild by day and in "Merton of the Movies" on the stage at night.

Incidentally, young Mr. Hunter has only two more pictures to make for the film guild and then he will be launched at the head of a unit, probably with First National release. Whatever offer he decides to accept, "Merton of the Movies" will be one of his first productions.

The astute young man holds the film rights to that himself. The rest of the country might endure some other player in the role, but Broadway never could. Merton belongs to Glenn Hunter as wholly as Kiki belongs to Lenore Ulric.

And for a while it was feared that Charles Ray might get the film rights to Merton.

Ramon Novarro and Glenn Hunter have become great friends during the last few weeks, and no one was more pleased over Mr. Novarro's star contract with Metro than young Mr. Hunter. They are both poetic youngsters of diverse accomplishments and much is expected of them.

This has been a week of planning rather than accomplishment. The films that were shown contributed little toward the progress of the motion picture, but the news that David Belasco had sold the film rights to three of his productions to the Warner Brothers promised much. These three are "Deburau," "The Gold Diggers" and "Daddies," and it is said that the original stage casts will be used in the picture productions wherever possible.

VOTING FOR MONTE

Now Broadway is faithful to the players on its stage as a rule, but the wiseacres who gather in the Algonquin, the Astor and the lobbies of the theaters can see no good reason for Lionel Atwell or anyone being imported to play the role of Deburau when the Warners have Monte Blue right on their own lot. It is just such a role as would make Monte Blue, whereas Lionel Atwell would probably give only a noiseless version of his stage performance in the role. And that performance was strangely unsympathetic.

Perhaps it is the snowy, sleety weather that makes everyone here dissatisfied. One hears grumbling on all sides. Regular theaters are playing to capacity, but except for Sunday night motion-picture houses aren't doing very well.

ANITA A BLOND

Rubye De Remer and Bebe Daniels, the most radiant blond and brunette in New York, are wasting away to shadows in spite of the most expert medical advice. Marguerite Courtot has been operated on for appendicitis and is very ill, and Flora Finch still lies in a plaster cast in a hospital. She fell on an icy sidewalk a fortnight ago, and injured herself severely. For no reason that the innocent bystanders can understand, Anita Stewart seems to be becoming a blond.

But (by way of being more cheerful) there are breaks in the gloom now and then. Last Sunday being the birthday of Bebe Daniels and Hal Roach, the latter gave a party at the Biltmore to celebrate. About thirty-five people were there—including, of course, Bebe and Mr. and Mrs. Roach.

Will Rogers and Will Hays were among the guests, as were Whiting and Burt of vaudeville fame and several men prominent in Wall street. It is a heart-breaking discovery for New Yorkers that Bebe Daniels will spend her evenings quietly at home while she is working on a picture, except Saturday nights or when some one has a birthday to celebrate.

When Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne signed a few weeks ago with Whitman Bennett to make a picture, it was erroneously announced that they were going to appear in support of Betty Blythe. That is not the case. They are going to be featured in a production called "Should Men Forgive?" and when it is completed they will appear in person in connection with it. Their long vaudeville tour has made them good troupers.

LOUISE LOVELY IN TWO-A-DAY

Louise Lovely, too, has been claimed by vaudeville. She is making a great hit in an act wherein she invites the audience to come to the stage to have a test film made. The following week the tests are shown at the theater and to date no budding Pickfords or Valentinos have been discovered, but the audiences seem to have the time of their lives seeing themselves on the screen.

Several pictures are being held over on Broadway this week. "One Exciting Night," Mr. Griffith's most recent picture, is doing pretty good business at the Strand, and "Salome" is doing well at the Criterion. The new films are Rupert Hughes's "Gimme," "The Third Alarm," a fire department thriller, offered by the Film Booking Office, and "Drums of Fate," Mary Miles Minter's latest—and if it were only last!—picture for Paramount.

"GIMME" REAL HIT

"Gimme" has brought back all the faith in Rupert Hughes, which tottered when "Remembrance" was shown. It is a sparkling and human little drama of the girl accustomed to earning her own living who marries and has to ask her husband for money. Helene Chadwick made a great impression on the film reviewers; in fact, one of them admitted that he was looking furtively around for a few of the superlatives that he so rashly discarded after his first six months of criticism.

It doesn't seem just right to knock a girl when she seems to be having not too good a time anyhow, but really the latest Mary Miles Minter concoction is the limit. She is over normal weight and under normal in intelligence and that ought to be enough to disqualify a screen actress.

"The Third Alarm" is as thrilling—and about as intellectual—as the mad careening of an old-fashioned horse-drawn fire engine on its way to a big fire. It is packed with sentiment, and the rush and swing of it seems to get even the most blase audience.

A revival of Theda Bara's "Salome" was promised for this week, but has not as yet been shown. Broadway needs some such excitement.

Christie Has New Star for His Comedies

Al Christie has engaged Hazel Deane, one of the rising young leading ladies of the film world, to play in his comedies beginning with the next picture which Mr. Christie will personally direct.

Miss Deane came to Los Angeles from Vancouver a little less than eleven months ago and has already played leads in comedies—with Mack Sennett—and was recently the leading lady in a series of western features. Although in pictures less than a year she has been pretty much in demand. She is said to be "personality-plus."

The new leading lady has recovered from her injuries sustained several weeks ago when she was struck by a street car while crossing Hollywood Boulevard. Although she was severely cut and bruised so that she had to remain in the hospital some time, fortunately her beauty was not marred.

Miss Deane only a few years ago was attending the North High School at Columbus, O., her old family home. She is now 21 and is in Los Angeles to remain with the pictures.

Ruggles One of Those Too Busy to Eat

Wesley Ruggles is now among those who are "so busy they seldom find spare time to eat or sleep."

In addition to editing and cutting "Mr. Billings Spends His Dime," a Paramount picture starring Walter Hiers, the director, is preparing for his next production, "Contraband," in which Agnes Ayres will star. The story was written by Clarence Buddington Kelland and adapted to the screen by Albert S. Le Vino.

The common impression that directors have a period of rest between the completion of one picture and the start of another is certainly proven a mistaken idea in the case of Ruggles.

Love Theme of Clayton Production

Love, the greatest of all human emotions, is graphically depicted in "The Greater Glory."

Mother love, father love, the love of a child for its mother, the love of a woman for her honor and the simple enduring love of a grand-daddy have all been woven into the story that gives the beautiful Ethel Clayton what is probably the best opportunity of displaying her marked ability at emotional acting she has ever had.

James W. Horne is directing the production of "The Greater Glory," which was written and adapted for the screen by Wyndham Gittens.

LOU TELLEGEN AT ORPHEUM

The Orpheum announces the most distinguished star of its present season for the week beginning next Monday, Lou Tellegen, who will appear in his own version of "Blind Youth." Mr. Tellegen is well known in this city, where he made his first appearance as leading man for Sarah Bernhardt on her first Orpheum tour. On the same bill is Walter C. Kelley, the "Virginia Judge," and Bert Fitzgibbon, the original daffy-dil, in his own style of comedy.

CAREWE TO START

Edwin Carewe will start production of "The Girl of the Golden West" early next week. The picture has a cast headed by J. Warren Kerrigan, Sylvia Breamer and Russell Simpson.

He Used to Play Opposite Sister Lillian scene from "Fury"

In which Dick Barthelmess and Dorothy Gish are appearing this week at the Kinema. Dick was seen in "Way Down East" and "Broken Blossoms," with Lillian Gish, but this is the first occasion he and Dorothy have played opposite each other. Dick, of course, is the star this time.

Edward Uses Canned Music for Comedies

Comedians are permitted to have their likes and dislikes the same as other actors.

Neely Edwards, starring at Universal City in "Nervy Ned" comedies, and Bert Roach, the "heavy" tramp of the hobo fun films, are both musicians, but neither want the music that is supplied by studio orchestras. It doesn't, they say, reach the jazzy heights that music must to help in comedy making.

The music that is used when Edwards and Roach are working under the direction of William Watson, is the best of the "canned" variety. From 700 records in his phonograph library at home, Edwards has chosen thirty records that typify the unity of jazz and humor, and he plays them on a loud-voiced portable machine on the set.

The only discord enters when Edwards and others on the set disagree over the relative merits of two different records in promoting the correct spirit for the scene.

"GYPSY PASSION" AN ARTISTIC PICTURE

High-lighted here and there with scenes of distinct artistic merit, "Gypsy Passion," a French film of doubtful vintage, is on view at the Philharmonic Auditorium this week.

The picture serves to bring Mme. Rejane to the screen in the role of Romany Kate, an old gypsy woman. She is convincing in the part.

Another addition to the matinee-idol class (and one that Valentino-substituting producers may some day bring over to this side of the world) is Jean Richepin as Ivor, the young hero of the story. Richepin has a pleasing appearance, and on several occasions displays a tendency really to act.

The story itself is slow, but interesting. Excitement loving fans will do well to stay away. Artistically inclined people should welcome the showing. Rich, deep shadows filling the greater part of the screen lend a charming and mystic air to many of the scenes.

A huge prologue, entitled the Gypsy Camp with a personnel of some seventy-five persons, serves to provide atmosphere for the picture and to introduce a number of dance and song specialties.

ANNOUNCE COMING LOEW ATTRACTIONS

Manager E. C. Bostwick of Loew's State Theater announces that he has booked nine productions to follow "Hearts Aflame" the current attraction.

The first is Viola Dana's production of "June Madness," in which Bryant Washburn plays the hero. Next is the Metro special, "All the Brothers were Valiant."

To follow these will be Mae Murray in her spectacular film of "Jazzmania;" the special production of "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," with an all-star cast; Clara Kimball Young in "The Woman of Bronze; Rex Ingram's "Where the Pavement Ends;" the picturization of Marie Corelli's novel, "Thelma," with Jane Novak and all-star cast, and Dorothy Phillips in "All the World's a Stage."

Another special will be "Toll of the Sea," a beautiful story done in a new color process.

ANOTHER CELEBRITY

Edward Everett Horton in Sketch at Hillstreet

The Hillstreet Theater is building for itself a reputation of introducing more local celebrities than perhaps any other theater in town.

Its latest claim in this respect is the announcement that next week Edward Everett Horton will make his reappearance before the footlights. For over three years Eddie has been a favorite with local theater-goers.

His engagement at the Hillstreet is a special occasion, for he is under contract to make pictures for Jess Robbins, to be released by Vitagraph. Having just finished one, Ben Piazza, manager of the Hillstreet, secured the consent of both Mr. Robbins and Horton for the latter to appear in the sketch "Ask Dad—He Knows," a comedy written by Joseph Jackson of the Goldwyn publicity department.

Supporting Horton will be Stanley Taylor and Bernice Barnes, the former remembered for his work with the Majestic stock company, when he appeared with Horton in "Clarence."

FLASHES

STAR OF "EMPEROR JONES" TO PLAY COMEDY

By Grace Kingsley

"No, I shall play no more heavy plays. The people want to laugh, and they are entitled to amusement. A young playwright in the East is to write a play for me, a comedy, full of froth and laughter."

That's what Charles Gilpin, noted negro actor, said the other night in course of an interview, while we were discussing "The Emperor Jones," now playing the Mason. "The Emperor Jones," was a sensation in New York and on tour. It landed Gilpin in stardom, and he was shrewd enough to know that a heavy play would strike with a bang where a lighter one might get him nothing.

"Shall you accept the offer you have received from eastern producers to play 'Othello?'" was asked.

"No,—as I said, no more tragedy for me."

Gilpin hesitated a minute. Then he went on courageously.

"There's another reason," he said. "If I played Othello, I feel I should be able to interpret the dark-skinned Moor's soul. But if I played the part as it should be played, I should make ardent love to the fair Desdemona. And I know that would raise race prejudice in many quarters. No, I should love to play 'Othello,' but it's not for me."

This is Gilpin's first trip to the Coast. He is accompanied by his wife and his two children.

"Are your children going on the stage?" I asked.

"I hope not," answered Gilpin. Then the dramatic always latent in the colored man came forth in his voice. "I don't want them to suffer the rebuffs and troubles that I have suffered. I shall give them fine educations for other careers."

Tully Chooses Trilby

It's all over now but the shouting. And Richard Walton Tully and James Young will attend to that. A Trilby has been engaged for the film version of Du Maurier's "Trilby," which Tully is to produce with Young directing.

Andree Lafayette, France's most beautiful film actress, has been engaged for the role, according to word received yesterday from New York, where Richard Walton Tully has just arrived.

Russell's Sister Here

They are immigrating to California, all their sisters and their cousins and their aunts. William Russell's sister, Mrs. Emma Schaffer, and her daughter and young son have arrived, and are to make their home here. Mr. Russell has bought a ranch for them, and is staying with them for the present.

"It's back to the farm for mine," said Russell, who is starring in Fox pictures. "Say, you should see how the chickens are laying for us!"

"Oh, well, the chickens always did lay for Bill," exclaimed Helen Ferguson.

Rex Ingram Soon

Rex Ingram is to arrive here February 1, and will almost at once begin work on "Scaramouche." In the cast will be Alice Terry, Barbara LaMarr, Ramon Navarro, Lewis Stone and Edward Connelly.

Einstein In Films

A film feature made in Los Angeles, bearing the awesome title, "The Reversibility of Relativity," based on the Einstein theories, recently was released in the East, and made its initial appearance in Washington, D. C. This feature has a local interest, as is was the first production attempt of Jess W. Orndoff, for several years a catcher on the Los Angeles baseball club, and who thus leaped right into the highbrow section at one long hop.

Morosco Successes

It looks as though Oliver Morosco is set for a successful season, back in New York. According to telegraphic advices received yesterday, Leo Carrillo scored a great hit in "Mike Angelo" on the opening night of the play at the Morosco. Coincidentally came the opening of "Lady Butterfly," the new Morosco musical comedy, which occurred at the Majestic in Brooklyn, following a successful tryout in Buffalo, and which took place also last Monday night. This comedy with music is to go into the Gobe Theater in New York next Monday night, and is said to be slated for a knock-out, according to is reception by both critics and public.

Mrs. Grassby In It

Gerrard Grassby, in private life Mrs. Bertram Grassby, has been added to the cast of "Trimmed in Scarlet," the all-star production which Jack Conway is directing at Universal City.

"Trimmed in Scarlet" is William Hurlbut's stage play, in the filming of which Kathlyn Williams, Raymond Hatton, David Torrence, Roy Stewart, Lucille Rickson, Robert Agnew, Philo McCullough, Eve Southern, Bert Sprotte and Phillips Smalley have the principal roles.

Sara Says 'Tain't So

From Sara Sothern, playing an important part in "The Fool," in New York, comes emphatic denial that she is engaged to marry Franklin Pangborn, of the Wilkes Stock Company.

"Mr. Pangborn and I are good friends," she says, "But I am absorbed in my work, and am not engaged to marry anybody."

Stroheim Cast

First announcement as to the cast of Eric Von Stroheim's first picture with the Goldwyn Corporation is that Jean Hersholt has been engaged to play the part of the villain, Marcus Scheuler, in the production. Mr. Hersholt has to his artistic credit the creation of one of the outstanding heavy roles of the year, that of Ben Letts in "Tess."

Lon Chaney, Too

Speaking of "The Hunchback," Lon Chaney is undergoing tortures as the hunchback, too, but of another order. It is his make-up which causes him discomfort. It takes him four hours to put on his make-up, and he says that the longest he can bear to work in it at a stretch is two hours.

The make-up consists of a heavy hump on his back, a crooked leg, and a facial contortion almost unbearably uncomfortable to maintain.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Price changes in today's relatively dull stock market were generally small and indecisive, large operators adopting a hesitant attitude pending further developments in the European situation and the public manifesting little interest in the course of quoted values.

Inability or unwillingness to meet margin calls caused a rather large volume of overnight selling orders which gave the market a week tone at the opening, the declines running from small fractions to 2 points. The stubborn resistance offered by some of the leaders caused a brief rally, but the comparatively large volume of stocks offered at the higher levels discouraged buyers and caused prices to sag again.

The midday period was exceedingly dull with bear interests seemingly afraid to depress prices further for fear that constructive developments abroad would find them caught short of too many stocks and with operators for the advance disinclined to bid up prices on the possibility of further trouble in the Ruhr Valley, which would be likely to bring about a large volume of outside selling and another sharp reaction. Intrepid traders who bought special stocks on the theory that domestic conditions warranted an appreciation in values regardless of developments in the foreign situation finally broke the apparent deadlock, extensive short covering accelerating the brisk advance that took place in the last hour.

Baldwin, Studebaker and California Petroleum were again the most active shares on the list, Baldwin sold between 131⅞ and 129 1-4, closing at 131¼, for a net gain of 5-8. Studebaker also fluctuated within a range of slightly more than 2 points and closed at 113 7-8, or 3-4 above last night's final figure. California Petroleum touched 80 3-4, but fell back later to 79, where it represented a net loss of 5-8.

Industrials were the first to rally as they were the first to decline, the average of twenty leaders showing a slight increase over yesterday. Rails were largely neglected in the early selling, but they succumbed to the second reaction and were slow in coming back. Losses of a point or more were recorded by Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred, Great Northern preferred, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, Peoria and Eastern, and Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred. Atlantic Coast Line dropped to 110¼ for a net loss of ⅝.

Packard Motors indulged in a sudden burst of activity, gaining 2⅛ points on transactions exceeding 16,000 shares. Buying by new interests was the only reason that the speculative community could advance for the sudden rise in this issue, which sells around $14 a share.

Beechnut Packing continued its rise to higher ground, showing a net gain of 3⅜ at the close. American Bosch Magneto, Dupont, Woolworth and Manati Sugar were conspicuous weak spots, all off 1 to 3½ points. Two of the outstanding strong spots were Nash Motors and National Lead, up 3⅛ and 3¼ points, respectively.

Call money opened and renewed at 4 per cent and eased off to 3½ during the fourth hour, maintaining that rate until the close. The government announced the proposed withdrawal of $31,000,000 from depository banks here today. The time money market was slightly firm. Some sixty-day loans were arranged at 4½ per cent and brokers bid this rate for all maturities, but bankers insisted on 4¾ for all dates.

Foreign exchanges were reactionary. Demand sterling got as low as 464½, but rallied at the close to 464¾, where it was off about 1½ cents on the day. French francs dropped 15 points to 6.65 cents and Italian lira were down 13 points to 4.76¾ cents. German marks dropped to another low level, being quoted at .005 cents, or 20,000 marks to the American dollar.

Today's total sales 776,000 shares. Twenty industrials averaged 97.05. Net gain .09. High, 1923, 103.43. Low, 78.59. Twenty railroads averaged 84.53. Net loss .07. High, 1923, 93.99. Low, 72.42.

SALIENT FEATURES

As Summarized from President's Letter to Us

BASIC BUSINESS Development of electric power through central stations and the distribution of energy through high tension transmission lines to surrounding communities.

GENERAL BUSINESS Upon the completion of this financing, the Company will operate directly or through its subsidiaries 32 central electric-power stations, as well as doing a gas, water, street railway, or ice business in 63 cities and towns in 10 different groups.

POPULATION AND CUSTOMERS The Company serves a population of about 210,000, having about 31,000 customers located in the Southwestern section of the United States in the States of Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE The proceeds from the sale of these bonds will be used to pay for properties, extensions, improvements, the retirement of short-term notes and provide additional working capital.

VALUATION The properties which the Company and its subsidiaries will own upon completion of this financing have a replacement value, as determined by Messrs. Hagenah & Erickson of Chicago, of $11,932,077.

SECURITY The total amount of mortgage debt outstanding against all of the properties of the Company, including this series of bonds, will be $7,244,800, which is about 60% of the replacement value. This issue, in the opinion of counsel, when this financing is completed, will be an absolute First Mortgage or First Lien on the physical assets or all bonds and stocks of subsidiary companies valued at $2,555,126, and by a mortgage or lien upon the balance of the property, having a valuation of $9,376,951, subject to $1,094,800 Divisional bonds on three properties and $3,150,000 First Mortgage and Prior Lien 6s of 1946.

CONSOLIDATED EARNINGS After deducting the amount of the First Mortgage and Prior Lien and Divisional Bonds, there is a value of over $2550 for each $1000 bond of this issue.

Years Ended	June 30, 1921	June 30, 1922
Gross Income	$3,090,409.42	$3,186,184.96
Operation, Taxes and Maintenance	2,333,635.23	3,233,566.45
	$ 756,774.19	$ 952,618.51
Net Income Applicable to Interest		452,914.00
Interest on all Mortgage Debt		$ 499,704.51

Balance for Federal Taxes, Depreciation and Dividends..

The Consolidated net earnings for the year ending June 30, 1922, were over double the amount required for interest on the entire mortgage debt, including this issue and were, after the payment of interest on the First Mortgage and Prior lien 6s of 1946 and on the Divisional Bonds, over three and one-half times interest requirements on these bonds.

LEGALITY Messrs. Storey, Thorndike, Palmer & Dodge of Boston for the Company and Messrs. Pam & Hurd of Chicago for the Bankers.

APPRAISALS AUDITS Messrs. Hagenah & Erickson of Chicago.
Annual audits by Messrs. Marwick, Mitchell & Company of St. Louis.

Bonds of the above issue are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of proceedings by our counsel.

PUTS & CALLS

Calls purchased during a temporary set-back in a bull market frequently show unusual profits, as the technical position of the market permits prices to advance rapidly upon receipt of any favorable news. Apparently the stock sold short during the past few days has been well bought, and higher prices should prevail. Phone, write, or call for booklet, "Puts and Calls"—it tells what they are, how they operate, etc.

Prompt attention to mail orders.

Let Your New Investments Earn 12%---Plus

Some cautious investors who usually purchase Mortgages and Preferred Stocks that do not participate in the profits of the business, are not accustomed to the idea that an Industrial Investment paying 12% Annually can be a Sound and Seasoned Investment, and not a Speculation.

Seven Years of Remarkable Success

Are back of the Common Stock offering of the Rio Grande Oil (Refining) Company, El Paso, Texas.

Each $1000.00 of the original investment (January, 1916,) has earned and the investor has received to date, $11,000 in stock dividends, and $4800.00 cash.

Present invested capital over $500,000. Book value after paying the above dividends is considerably above par. Annual sales approximately $2,500,000.

This Company confines its operations to refining and marketing. The management will continue under the men who have achieved so great success.

For the purpose of building its third refinery, to be located in Los Angeles, a block of its Common Stock will be sold at par $100 per share.

The Directors have established a policy of Cash Dividends at the rate of 12% Annually (3% Quarterly,) and stock dividends as surplus accumulates.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Trading was narrow and apathetic yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. The only exceptions were United Eastern, with a rise of 17½ cents to a closing quotation at 2.05, and General Petroleum, which jumped ½ of a point to 30⅝ on a considerable volume of dealing.

Telluride was in active demand in the mining list, but the net result was only an advance of ¼ cent on a closing quotation of 22½ cents. Tom Reed dropped 1 cent at $7 and Oatman Combination was firm at 8 cents. Oatman Gold lost ½ cent on a final quotation of 15 cents, while Virginia Louise maintained a steady level at 10 cents.

Aside from General Petroleum, the only active stock in the oil group were United States Royalties and Globe Petroleum. United States Royalties ended the day at 65 cents, unchanged from the previous day, and Globe Petroleum was ahead 1 cent at 32.

Southern California Edison common sold at 104.

IN BANKRUPTCY COURT

Mildred Buxton, probation officer, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday, giving her liabilities as $2800.11. She has no assets.

A petition was filed in the court praying that the following creditors are Fame Nut Company, with Baruch & Co., $564.96; Glaser Bros., $96.62; Hess and Merriam Bros., $17.66.

Creditors of Louis Goldstein, operating as Goldstein Bros., filed a petition asking that he be declared a bankrupt. W. H. Moore, Jr., was appointed receiver under a bond of $2000. Goldstein operated a ladies' wear factory on South Broadway.

A similar petition was filed praying that K. A. Burkhardt of El Centro be declared a bankrupt. The petitioning creditors represent claims amounting to $589.62.

William Miller, a plumber, filed a petition in bankruptcy. His debts amount to $4841.77, and he has no assets.

What does value mean to you?

When primitive man first coveted the possessions of his neighbor, value was born.

Barter—the exchange of those things which he had in plenty for those which he lacked—came into being. Man's progress was determined by his ability to discern true values, and to successfully exchange one value for another. Today, for convenient measurement, value usually is reckoned in terms of dollars.

But upon what basis? How can you, for instance, balance the desirability of your dollars against a unit of property? If it be a sack of flour or a motor car, it has a stated price—its value to you, as one of a group, has already been measured by the laws of supply and demand.

Valuing the unvalued

But, if that property be a manufacturing plant, a timber tract or a street railway, there is no price list for you to consult. Evaluation in such a case requires these things:

1. A careful analysis of the property which will reduce it to elements for which there is a stated market price.

2. A fund of statistical data which will be adequate for correctly pricing each element of property and for substantiating such prices when necessity demands.

3. A scrupulous regard for the responsibility assumed, a realization that an appraisal of property is in reality a counting of dollars represented by property—and a policy, a personnel and equipment adequate to assure a counting that is absolutely provable.

During the last 28 years The American Appraisal Company has been privileged to render appraisals incorporating these basic requirements for more than 20,000 properties in all parts of the United States and Canada.

Assuring accurate appraisals

The experience gained in the counting of the billions of property dollars represented by these appraisals, an unequalled library of basic pricing facts, and a trained organization of more than 800 specialists—these assure the utmost in appraisal service.

We will welcome an opportunity to discuss valuations as they apply to your business, and to review some of the American Appraisals whose provability has been attested by bankers, investors, insurance companies, courts, tax commissions and others.

An Old "Gasometer"

"THE new gasometer, just finished at the city gas works, is ready for use and has a capacity of 20,000 feet, which, with the old one, enables the company to furnish about 30,000 feet a day. The present consumption only amounts to about 8000 feet."

—From the Evening Express, February 24, 1873.

"Gasometer" was the old-fashioned word for gas holder.

Revised to date, that news item would read:

"The 10-million-cubic-foot gas holder put into service last year by Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation increases the storage capacity to 20 million cubic feet. Three new gas generators, with a total daily capacity of 21 million cubic feet, also were built. The Corporation is now able to deliver 100 million cubic feet of gas every 24 hours. The smallest demand for gas in any one day during 1922 was 19,000,000 cubic feet, and the greatest day's demand was 70,500,000 cubic feet."

Whether the year be 1872 or 1923, the problem is the same: To keep step with the demand of the Los Angeles community for ever-increasing quantities of gas.

proximately 500,000 more than were turned out last year. After adding the number of registered cars as of January 1, and deducting the estimated number that will be scrapped, it is estimated that the end of 1923 will see 13,000,000 cars in use. Allowing four tires for each new car and three and one-half casings for each old machine, it is estimated that consumption during the current year will total around 47,000,000 tires.

During December, the majority of manufacturers announced advances ranging from 5 to 10 per cent, and it is expected that similar advances will be placed in effect within a few months.

TEXTILE PROBLEMS

Although consumption of textile goods is increasing throughout the world, one of the problems confronting the industry is the exploitation of fields heretofore practically untouched against the time when the present consuming centers will have reached their limits of absorption. Textile manufacturers in the United States, according to the Department of Commerce reports, are planning to put this plan into effect by extending their markets to such remote sections as Egypt, the Near East, the Persian Gulf and Red Sea districts, West and East Africa, Australasia, the Netherlands East Indies, the Malay States, Siam, China and Latin America. Especially fertile markets are ready for development in these centers, it is said, and textile manufacturers anticipate that their attempts will meet with success.

The problem of simplifying the market mechanism is of importance to the textile manufacturers it is claimed, with the ultimate object of lowering production costs. Elimination of undesirable features in the present system of distribution will presage a larger margin of profit and it is held to be necessary to increased prosperity in the industry.

STOCK INCREASE

Stockholders of the Gold Dust Mining Company will meet January 29 to vote on a proposed increase in the capital stock from 1,000,000 shares to 1,500,000. It is planned to use the funds expected to be secured from the new stock for development purposes.

POWER BONDS

E. H. Rollins & Sons and F. L. Carlisle & Co. of New York are offering $1,000,000 Power Corporation of New York 7 per cent preferred stock. The corporation was organized in 1922 to supply power and otherwise assist in the development of the St. Regis Paper Company and the Hanna Paper Corporation. Net profits from the contracts with these two companies are said to be three times the dividend requirements on the stock. Stevens, Page and Sterling are the local participants in the offering.

NEW LOCATION

Removal of its offices to the Lane Mortgage Building, Eighth and Spring streets, is announced by the Lane Mortgage Company. The company will occupy the entire second floor of the new building.

NEW ENGINEER

Retention of William Zuich as mining superintendent and engineer is announced by the Oatman Gold Mining and Milling Company, to take effect February 1. Mr Zuich is credited with having an intimate acquaintance with the majority of the Oatman properties, and has been connected with several successful enterprises.

With the addition of the services of the new superintendent, the Oatman Gold Company states that development work will be energetically carried on. The company owns ten claims in the Oatman district, on which considerable underground work has been done.

TICKER TICKS

New York Stock Exchange strikes North American Oil from list.

Anaconda Copper Mining $100,000,000 6 per cent bonds fully subscribed at 96½.

Northern Pacific Railroad is to purchase 5280 new cars and forty-nine engines at a cost of $17,000,000.

Complete reports show car loadings throughout the United States for 1922 were 16 per cent above 1921 and 3½ per cent over 1920.

BUSINES GROWTH

Assets of the State Mutual Building and Loan Association increased $932,510.54 in 1922 to a total of $6,675,185.87 on January 1, 1923. The number of new loans, according to the report read at the annual meeting held Wednesday, numbered 1454 in 1923, representing a total of $2,726,850. New homes erected totaled 575, the houses being built by funds borrowed from the association. The directors were re-elected. They are: C. J. Wade, president; A. E. Pomeroy, vice-president; J. M. Elliott, vice-president; William Rhodes Harvey, vice-president; W. D. Woolwine, treasurer; Thomas W. Banks, and Fred L. Baker.

UTILITY ISSUE

A syndicate composed of Howe, Snow & Bertles, R. E. Wilsey & Co., Gillet & Co., Bradford, Kimball & Co. and Stephens & Co. is offering $3,000,000 Central Power and Light Company 6 1-2 per cent first lien and refunding bonds, due 1952 at 97 and interest to yield 6.75 per cent. Upon completion of this financing, the Central Power and Light Company will operate thirty-two central electric power stations, as well as doing a gas, water, street railway and ice business in sixty-three cities and towns in ten different groups, having a total population of approximately 210,000 and serving about 31,000 customers.

GROWING BANK

A sample of the rapid business development is offered by the report made yesterday at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Balboa. This bank, only a little more than three months old, now has deposits of $160,000 and other resources totaling $237,000. It has 600 depositors. George P. Edwards was re-elected president; F. J. Aldrich, vice-president, and H. C. Hookstra was reappointed cashier. The directorate elected at this meeting includes J. P. Greeley, George P. Edwards, F. J. Aldrich, W. A. Bonynge, Jr., Leo Meeker, Victor Peterson, D. J. Dodge, Dr. J. W. Wherry and George A. Waterman.

METAL MARKETS

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.—"Heavy demands with strong possibilities of still further increases continue to pile up in the steel market," says Iron Trade. "Against this situation is the virtual inability of steel works to extend production beyond present limits. Consequently available steel supplies and deliveries become the point upon which the scale of production in many leading lines of industry during the next six months will turn. In one line of wire products what amounts to a rationing of tonnage already has been adopted by leading mills.

"Students of the international steel situation see in the French invasion of the Ruhr district possibility of a check on Germany's export activities and consequent diversion of business to this country. Great Britain and Belgium Iron Trade Review adds advices this week state reports of interference with iron and steel plants, coal and iron mines are greatly exaggerated and operations are practically normal."

Iron Trade's composite of fourteen iron and steel products for this week is $41.13, compared with $41.05, last week, $40.15 for December, and $33.85 for January, 1922.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Foreign Issues Break

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—An extremely sharp break in French and Belgian bonds, which carried a number of issues to the lowest levels in all time, was the outstanding development in today's bond market, which was decidedly reactionary in tone. French 7½s dropped below 91, the previous low established last November and the French municipals broke through their record lows of March, 1921.

Boissons 6s slumped 4½ points and new low records also were established by Serbian 8s, off 3 3-4; Bordeaux 6s, off 2½; Lyons-Mediterranean 6s, Belgian 7½s and 8s, and Czecho-Slovakia 8s, all down 1 to 1¼ points. A dozen other issues also registered losses of a point or more, British bonds yielding fractionally on reports that the British debt delegation would leave the country without reaching a definite agreement for the funding of the British war debt.

Weakness of sugar company bonds in sympathy with the reactionary trend of the raw sugar market was the feature of the industrial list, losses of 1 to 2 points being recorded by South Porto Rican Sugar 7s, Eastern Cuban Sugar 7½s and Francisco Sugar 7½s. Cerro de Pasco 8s broke 2 points. Books were opened and closed on the new $1000,000,000 Anaconda 6 per cent issue and the bonds were quoted on the Stock Exchange at slightly above the issuing price, but this was not regarded as significant because syndicates invariably support their offerings until they are well distributed. The $50,000,000 Anaconda fifteen-year 7 per cent convertible debts will be offered tomorrow at par.

Speculative and investment railroad mortgages suffered alike in the reactionary trend in those lines. Texas and Pacific firsts broke 3 points; New Haven 6s, 1 3-4 and Erie convertable 4s, series D, 1 5-8, while a flock of other issues were off a point or more. Total tractions yielded the most in the public utility division.

United States government bonds were irregular, the Liberty 3½s and the third new 4 1-4s showing net gains of 2 to 4 cents on $100 and the second 4s and first and fourth 4 1-4s dropping 8 to 12 cents. The others were unchanged. Total sales, par value, were $13,746,000.

LONDON MARKET

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Business on the stock exchange was dampened by reports of a hitch in the debt negotiations at Washington, although the continental situation caused some nervousness. There was a consequent sending down of quotations, giving the markets a heavy appearance. The actual slumping was small, however, with occasional reparation. British funds relapsed sharply in the gilt-edge market. Dollar rails weakened. Tobaccos continued their recession. British-Americans being 3/6, 6d. Rubbers showed renewed weakness. Oils were stagnated. Shells, 2 15-16; Mexican Eagle, 1 15-16; Royal Dutch, 32½.

Enlargement of immediate credit still confronted the money market. Overnight money was unchanged and 1@1½ per cent. Five three months' bills were 1 15-16. Forward exchanges were dull. Cable transfers, 4.83.

"I am — SENATOR HIRAM JOHNSON

When Hiram broadcasts the world listens. AND WE ARE TO STATE that the way HAWK No. 1 units are selling shows that of people are listening to our gil proposition.

---CAN YOU BEAT THIS?---

Were you ever asked to come in on an oil deal where the money for drilling right down to the gusher sands was already underwritten? I guess not! Deals like that don't come to the small investor. He is usually asked to carry all the load and take all the chances.

Just the same, I am here to tell you that when you come into HAWKEYE No. 1, you are in on the real ground floor.

HERE'S WHY:—We got our land right in the center of things at Signal Hill. We can't miss. Then we all agreed to take enough units to finish the well. That's some load for just a few men to carry. It's to help us ease this load that you get your chance. We don't pretend to be unselfish. We are going to hang on to every unit we can carry. So, if you want to get in on this you'll have to hurry.

HAWKEYE NO. 1 UNITS ARE GOING MIGHTY FAST.

Now that Mexican Petroleum has been practically removed from the market, there is no single stock which can be considered the speculative leader. United States Steel, while recognized as the bell-weather of the entire market, is too staid a performer to fulfill requirements of the strictly speculative group. Other stocks more volatile in fluctuation, lack the stability and background which such a leader must have. Baldwin is ideal from both standpoints and in some quarters there is a disposition to believe that the present trend in Baldwin is due to the efforts of professionals to use this issue as a lever to depress the entire market.

Weakness in the stock market, while attributed in some instances to the efforts of pools to lighten their loads, can hardly be laid at the door of harsh money conditions. Despite substantial government withdrawals and other circumstances which might possibly militate against a free supply of money, the call rate again dropped to 3½ per cent today after opening at 4 per cent. Considering the volume of money offered at this rate, pools should apparently be able to secure all of the funds necessary to finance market operations, if such were deemed desirable at this time.

Expectations of an increase in steel business and earnings are borne out to some extent by the broadening of operations of the leading producer. During the past week plants of the corporation increased operations to about 88½ per cent, and it is believed that even this rate may be expanded within the next few months. This further increase in production will apparently be dependent only on the labor supply. So far the leading interest has been able to secure all of the effective labor needed.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The auction of eight cars of California raisins was the feature of dried fruit market. The eight cars, mostly recleaned Sultanas, were sold for the account of whom it may concern and were all of the association brand. The goods were sold to establish losses, it is understood, for suits against buyers who refused to take up their drafts on the consignments. Four carloads of recleaned Sultanas ex SS. Emley City sold at from 8 to 8 1-4 cents a pound. One car ex SS Robin Adair consisting of 1000 boxes of recleaned Thompsons and 500 boxes recleaned Sultanas sold at 8 5-8 cents a pound. Three cars of recleaned Sultanas ex Edward Luckenbach sold for 8 to 8 1-8 cents. All the raisins were 1921 crop.

New Bosnian prunes which are now arriving on the market are meeting with a fair call and are the subject of much discussion in the trade. Some factors believe that the low priced imported stock will put the California prunes of corresponding price "off the market," but this view is far from unanimous.

CALIFORNIA ORANGES

California oranges were unchanged six cars of navels being sold at a range of $1.35 to $5.50 per box according to size and quality. Florida oranges were 25 cents per box lower, 12,460 boxes being sold at a range of $1.25 to $6.50.

Florida tangerines were about 25 cents lower, 8910 half boxes selling at $1.60 to $5.25. There were 2130 boxes of Porto Rico oranges sold at $1.45 to $1.90.

Canned goods interest today centered in futures. Many canners and canners' sales representatives are in town looking over market conditions here before proceeding to Atlantic City for the convention and they are talking over the futures situation with the buyers.

The coming convention shares interest with futures, however, and it is predicted by many brokers that there will be considerable business booked during next week's sessions.

SUGAR DOWN AGAIN

Another decline of 1-16 of a cent occurred in the raw sugar market, bringing the spot basis down to 3 7-16 cents cost and freight for Cubas, or the equivalent of 5.21 cents, duty paid. Apparently the decline is orderly, although offerings in January position, said to have totaled as much as 75,000 to 100,000 bags, were apparently unplaced at 3 7-16 cents cost and freight at the close.

United Kingdom markets are comparatively dull, with duty sugar for January shipment offering at 16s 6d c.i.f. United Kingdom, and Cubas at 16s 9d to 16s 10½d, against 17s on Tuesday. Cuban production is gradually increasing, last cables from Mr. Himely reporting that 121 centrals are now grinding the crop. Buyers of refined sugar continue to hold off, the market, being unsettled by concessions, guarantees, etc., as well as the easier conditions in raw sugars. Most refiners continue to name 6.90 cents, although it was believed that a lower price might be put out by one refiner. Michigan beets have declined to 6.90 seaboard basis.

Trading in raw sugar futures was in somewhat larger volume. The tone was easy at the start, at a decline of 1 to 3 points, but buying of March by interests with Cuban connections was a stabilizing influence. The further decline of 1-16 cent in the market for actual sugar had little influence on the price of futures.

The market closed steady, unchanged to 6 points down, the latter being for January, for which the last notice day is the 24th inst.

COFFEE FUTURES

Easy conditions developed in the coffee futures market on the call with a decline of 6 to 12 points, as the result of the appearance of comparatively large outside selling orders in May.

A rally in the early afternoon, engineered by those bullishly inclined, who have recently been heavy buyers of May, put the market back over 8 points, and this demand persisted to the close, when all of the previous losses had been recouped. Over months fluctuated more or less in sympathy with May. Part of the trade buying was attributed to cables that quality at Santos was becoming poorer daily. Included in the estimated sales of about 46,750 bags were switches from March to May at 40, 42 and 43 points. The close was 1 point higher.

TEAS FIRM

Absorption of teas is reported to be going on in a quiet way, especially anything that looks like a bargain in the India, Ceylon and Java sorts. Cables were here yesterday from Colombo, Ceylon, reporting that the low grades were being moved at somewhat higher prices while the quality generally was said to be slightly better. The London market, according to last cables was about ½ to 1 cent a pound higher.

The buying of rice from metropolitan points continued limited in scope. It is true that there is a growing number of inquiries, but they are not materializing into business readily. Southern rice is reported to be firmly held in all of the leading primary points.

BUTTER AND EGGS

The butter market was easier and slightly lower on the highest grades of fresh creamery. The call on the mercantile exchange was lively with sales as follows. 100 extras, 51 cents, 100, 93 score, 52 cents; 25-25-25-25-25-50 extras 51 cents, 25 at 50½ cents, 100 at 51⅛ cents, 50 at 51⅛ cents, 25 at 51½ cents, 25 at 51¼ cents, 100 extras at 51½ cents, 50 at 51½ cents, all for spot delivery.

The egg market opened firm on fresh eggs and with increased demand and moderate offerings, prices were advanced 1 cent per dozen. Call sales were 25 cases California white No. 1 pullets at 36 cents, 25 at 36½ cents, 25 at 36½, 25 f.g. firsts at 40 cents, 50-25-25 at 42 cents; 50 f.g. extras at 43 cents; 50 California No. 1 pullets at 36½ cents per dozen.

SHADING ON COPPER

The copper market is easing and several producers today were shading the recent market level slightly. Although no producer has as yet quoted as low as 14⅝ cents, 14.70 cents for electrolytic delivered over the next three months has been done. Approximately half of the producers now are willing to sell at 14⅝ cents for entire first half delivery. Several second hands have sold small lots at as low as 14⅝ cents. London cables reported a further decline of 2s 6d in standard, spot closing at £63 7s 6d and futures at £64, but electrolytic was firm and unchanged at £70 7s 6d for spot and £70 10s for futures.

Sterling exchange declined 1⅛ cents between trading sessions in London.

More inquiry was evident from domestic consumers of zinc today and a large tonnage of the metal was sold for export. The price for prompt delivery was unchanged at 6.95 cents a pound, St. Louis, but the concessions on future deliveries narrowed down materially as against 44.457 at the beginning. In London yesterday spot advanced 5s to £35 7s 6d, but futures declined 2s 6d to £33 10s.

CRUDE OIL UP

All grades of Mid-Continent crude oil were advanced 10 cents a barrel at the wells today by Prairie Oil and Gas Company and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company. This advance was the second of 10 cents a barrel to be announced within the past five days, the same companies having raised quotations late last week. Changes in crude-oil posted prices have been numerous during the past week. Eastern grades have been increased 10 to 25 cents a barrel and further upward revisions are expected in the near future. Wyoming and Montana oils are up 10 cents and Mid-Continent crudes are selling 20 cents above levels of a week ago. In addition, there has been an advance of 10 cents in Canadian crude.

EXCHANGE SLUMPS

The bond market developed a sagging tendency at the start, influenced in part by the fact that the British debt-funding commission has been ordered back to London. Foreign loans led the decline, the French municipals generally swinging to new lows, together with the P. L. and M. P.s and the Belgian 7½s and 8s. The British 5½s finished irregular, the 5½s of 1920 up 3-8 and the 5½s of 1937 off ½. The reactionary tendency of foreign-exchange rates sent the South American and Scandinavian issues lower, although occasional issues showed some evidence of accumulations.

Profit-taking in rail issues was the favorite pastime today with final figures generally at or near the day's low prices. The active St. Louis and San Francisco finished irregular after a nervous session. There was a scattered request for Southern Railway issues on reports of a pool operating in the stock. L. & G. N. 6s, and the Missouri Pacific loans were among the losers for the day. Tractions were very irregular in limited trading. Copper issues commanded fair attention, Anaconda 6s holding up very well in the face of unsettled trading in the Chile and Cerro De Pasco bonds. Liberties enjoyed a more active market although not a stronger one than the previous day. Final prices were down 12 points to up 4.

COURT CRIER NAMED

U. S. District Judge Bledsoe yesterday announced the appointment of Gayles S. Crawford as crier to fill the vacancy caused by the continued illness of Alfred Moore. Mr. Moore, who resides at 663 South Sichel street, has not been on duty for several months. Crawford is a veteran of the World War and lost his left arm in France.

SINCLAIR TELLS OF DEALS IN OIL

Senate Committee Does Not Start Real Argument

Teapot Dome Controversy is Only Skirted

Noted Operator Tells Why of Price Rise

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—With Harry F. Sinclair again as its chief witness, the Senate oil investigating committee delved deeply today into the affairs of the various Sinclair oil companies, but again skirted the edges of the Teapot Dome controversy, in which Mr. Sinclair is one of the principals.

The committee, which is headed by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, one of the leading critics of the action of the Harding administration in leasing the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in Wyoming to the Sinclair interests, had Mr. Sinclair before it for more than four hours. During that time Gilbert E. Roe, the committee attorney, asked detail after detail as to the operations of the Sinclair companies, but those who crowded the committee-room expecting to see Chairman La Follette and the witness lock horns over the Teapot Dome matter had to leave at the end of the day without having heard the words "Teapot Dome" spoken either by the witness or his investigators.

EXAMINATION VEERS

The testimony of Mr. Sinclair at the start today seemed headed toward the controversy, but the committee counsel, after getting various facts as to stock ownership of the Mammoth Oil Company, the Teapot Dome operating concern, steered the examination into another channel.

Mr. Sinclair was asked in some detail as to the disposition of approximately 2,005,000 shares of stock he received from the Mammoth company in return for the lease to Teapot Dome. One million shares, approximately, he said, were exchanged for shares of the Hyva Oil Company, another Sinclair concern's 191,200 shares were given back to the Mammoth company and sold by it for $3,250,000 for development purposes, and the remainder still were held by him. He said the stock now had a value of $52 or $53 a share, according to New York curb quotations.

TALKS PRICE-RISE

The testimony regarding the crude oil puchasing company had much to do with prices paid for crude oil in the mid-continent field in 1920, when the price of oil rose within three months from $2.75 a barrel to $3.50, to continue at the higher price throughout a portion of 1921, and to be reflected in high gasoline prices.

Mr. Sinclair, in a long detailed discussion of this matter, told the committee the price increase, as made by his company, was due to indications of a crude-oil shortage, and although all the larger companies in the field made increases almost simultaneously, it was without conference. Incidentally he declared that higher prices for crude oil in the near future might be expected.

The examination of Mr. Sinclair as to the pipe line company had to do largely with its relations to the Standard of Indiana, and when the inquiry turned to the various Sinclair refining companies the witness was excused temporarily and several refinery officials were placed on the stand. Mr. Sinclair, it was announced after adjournment, would resume his testimony tomorrow.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Foreign Issues Break

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—An extremely sharp break in French and Belgian bonds, which carried a number of issues to the lowest levels in all time, was the outstanding development in today's bond market, which was decidedly reactionary in tone. French 7½s dropped below 91, the previous low established last November and the French municipals broke through their record lows of March, 1921.

Soissons 6s slumped 4½ points and new low records also were established by Serbian 8s, off 3 3-4; Bordeaux 6s, off 2½; Lyons-Mediterranean 6s, Belgian 7½s and 8s, and Czecho-Slovakia 8s, all down 1 to 1½ points. A dozen other issues also registered losses of a point or more, British bonds yielding fractionally on reports that the British debt delegation would leave the country without reaching a definite agreement for the funding of the British war debt.

Weakness of sugar company bonds in sympathy with the reactionary trend of the raw sugar market was the feature of the industrial list, losses of 1 to 3 points being recorded by South Porto Rican Sugar 7s, Eastern Cuban Sugar 7½s and Francisco Sugar 7½s. Cerro de Pasco 8s broke 2 points. Books were opened and closed on the new $1000,000,000 Anaconda 6 per cent issue and the bonds were quoted on the Stock Exchange at slightly above the issuing price, but this was not regarded as significant because syndicates invariably support their offerings until they are well distributed. The $50,000,000 Anaconda fifteen-year 7 per cent convertible debts will be offered tomorrow at par.

Speculative and investment railroad mortgages suffered alike in the reactionary trend in those lines. Texas and Pacific firsts broke 3 points; New Haven 6s, 1 3-4 and Erie convertable 4s, series D, 1 5-8, while a flock of other issues were off a point or more. Total transactions yielded the most in the public utility division.

United States government bonds were irregular, the Liberty 3½s and the third new 4 1-4s showing net gains of 2 to 4 cents on $100 and the second 4s and first and fourth 4 1-4s dropping 8 to 13 cents. The others were unchanged. Total sales, par value, were $13,746,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Following are the closing bond quotations on the New York Stock Exchange. Furnished by Logan & Bryan.

LONDON MARKET

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Business on the stock exchange was dampened by reports of a hitch in the debt negotiations at Washington, although the continental situation caused some nervousness. There was a consequent selling down of quotations, giving the markets a heavy appearance. The actual slumping was small, however, with occasional recoveries. British funds relapsed sharply in the gilt-edge market. Dollar rails weakened. Tobaccos continued their recession. British-American being 6¼, 6d. Rubbers showed renewed weakness. Oils were stagnated. Shells, 2 15-16; Maxims Eagle, 1 15-16; Royal Dutch, 2½.

Refinements of movable wealth still overpower the money market. Overnight money was discharged and futures 1¼ per cent. Prime bills remained with more 15-16. Foreign exchanges were firm. Cables, London, 4.48; Paris, 6.15.

"I am— SENATOR HIRAM JOHNSON

When Hiram broadcasts the world listens. AND WE ARE HERE TO STATE that the way HAWKEYE No. 1 units are selling shows that millions of people are listening to our gilt-edge proposition.

---CAN YOU BEAT THIS?—

Were you ever asked to come in on an oil deal where the money for drilling right down to the gusher sands was already underwritten? I guess not! Deals like that don't come to the small investor. He is usually asked to carry all the load and take all the chances.

Just the same, I am here to tell you that when you come into HAWKEYE No. 1, you are in on the real ground floor.

HERE'S WHY:—We got our land right in the center of things at Signal Hill. We can't miss. Then we all agreed to take enough units to finish the well. That's some load for just a few men to carry. It's to help us ease this load that you get your chance. We don't pretend to be unselfish. We are going to hang on to every unit we can carry. So, if you want to get in on this you'll have to hurry.

HAWKEYE NO. 1 UNITS ARE GOING MIGHTY FAST.

BUY 'EM TODAY

You can buy Hawkeye No. 1 units for $100—and you get 60% of every drop of oil produced, and you get yours FIRST!

Come in and meet me—let's get acquainted.

OIL LEASE

We have a lease on a large acreage located for the control of one of the best fields where there is much activity. Many of the wells in the country have leases surrounding ours on all sides. Oil found at a shallow depth.

We will make an attractive proposition to drilling operators to those prepared to finance drilling on a share basis.

United States Steel, while recognized as the bell-weather of the entire market, is too staid a performer to fulfill requirements of the strictly speculative group. Other stocks more volatile in fluctuation, lack the stability and background which such a leader must have. Baldwin is ideal from both standpoints and in some quarters there is a disposition to believe that the present trend in Baldwin is due to the efforts of professionals to use this issue as a lever to depress the entire market.

Weakness in the stock market, while attributed in some instances to the efforts of pools to lighten their loads, can hardly be laid at the door of harsh money conditions. Despite substantial government withdrawals and other circumstances which might possibly militate against a free supply of money, the call rate again dropped to 3½ per cent today after opening at 4 per cent. Considering the volume of money offered at this rate, pools should apparently be able to secure all of the funds necessary to finance market operations, if such were deemed desirable at this time.

Expectations of an increase in steel business and earnings are borne out to some extent by the broadening of operations of the leading producer. During the past week plants of the corporation increased operations to about 88½ per cent and it is believed that even this rate may be expanded within the next few months. This further increase in production will apparently be dependent only on the labor supply. So far the leading interest has been able to secure all of the effective labor needed.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The auction of eight cars of California raisins was the feature of dried fruit market. The eight cars, mostly recleaned Sultanas, were sold for the account of whom it may concern and were all of the association brand. The goods were sold to establish losses, it is understood, for suits against buyers who refused to take up their drafts on the consignments. Four carloads of recleaned Sultanas ex SS. Emley City sold at from 8 to 8 1-4 cents a pound. One car ex SS Robin Adair consisting of 1000 boxes of recleaned Thompsons and 500 boxes recleaned Sultanas sold at 8 5-8 cents a pound. Three cars of recleaned Sultanas ex Edward Luckenbach sold for 8 to 8 1-8 cents. All the raisins were 1921 crop.

New Bosnian prunes which are now arriving on the market are meeting with a fair call and are the subject of much discussion in the trade. Some factors believe that the low priced imported stock will put the California prunes of corresponding price "off the market," but this view is far from unanimous.

CALIFORNIA ORANGES

California oranges were unchanged six cars of navels being sold at a range of $1.35 to $5.80 per box according to size and quality. Florida oranges were 25 cents per box lower, 12,460 boxes being sold at a range of $1.25 to $6.50.

Florida tangerines were about 25 cents lower, 8910 half boxes selling at $1.60 to $5.25. There were 2130 boxes of Porto Rico oranges sold at $1.45 to $1.90.

Canned goods interest today centered in futures. Many canners and canners' sales representatives are in town looking over market conditions here before proceeding to Atlantic City for the convention and they are talking over the futures situation with the buyers.

The coming convention shares interest with futures, however, and it is predicted by many brokers that there will be considerable business booked during next week's sessions.

SUGAR DOWN AGAIN

Another decline of 1-16 of a cent occurred in the raw sugar market, bringing the spot basis down to 3 7-16 cents cost and freight for Cubas, or the equivalent of 5.21 cents, duty paid. Apparently the decline is orderly, although offerings in January position, said to have totaled as much as 75,000 to 100,000 bags, were apparently unplaced at 3 7-16 cents cost and freight at the close.

United Kingdom markets are comparatively dull, with duty sugar for January shipment offering at 16s 6d c.i.f. United Kingdom, and Cubas at 16s 9d to 16s 10½d, against 17s on Tuesday. Cuban production is gradually increasing, last cables from Mr. Hilmely reporting that 121 centrals are now grinding the crop. Buyers of refined sugar continue to hold off, the market, being unsettled by concessions, guarantees, etc., as well as the easier conditions in raw sugars. Most refiners continue to name 6.90 cents, although it was believed that a lower price might be put out by one refiner. Michigan beets have declined to 6.90 seaboard basis.

Trading in raw sugar futures was in somewhat larger volume. The tone was easy at the start, at a decline of 3 to 5 points, but buying of March by interests with Cuban connections was a stabilizing influence. The further decline of 1-16 cent in the market for actual sugar had little influence on the price of futures.

The market closed steady, unchanged to 6 points down, the latter being for January, for which the last notice day is the 24th inst.

COFFEE FUTURES

Easy conditions developed in the coffee futures market on the call with a decline of 6 to 13 points, as the result of the appearance of comparatively large outside selling orders in May.

A rally in the early afternoon, engineered by those bullishly inclined, who have recently been heavy buyers of May, put the market back over 8 points, and this demand persisted to the close, when all of the previous losses had been recouped. Over months fluctuated more or less in sympathy with May. Part of the trade buying was attributed to cables that quality at Santos was becoming poorer daily. Included in the estimated sales of about 46,750 bags were switches from March to May at 40, 42 and 43 points. The close was 1 point higher.

TEAS FIRM

Absorption of teas is reported to be going on in a quiet way, especially anything that looks like a bargain in the India, Ceylon and Java sorts. Cables were here yesterday from Colombo, Ceylon, reporting that the low grades were being moved at somewhat higher prices while the quality generally was said to be slightly better. The London market, according to last cables was about ⅛ to 1 cent a pound higher.

The buying of rice from metropolitan points continued limited in scope. It is true that there is a growing number of inquiries, but they are not materializing into business readily. Southern rice is reported to be firmly held in all of the leading primary points.

BUTTER AND EGGS

The butter market was easier and slightly lower on the highest grades of fresh creamery. The call on the mercantile exchange was lively with sales as follows. 100 extras, 51 cents, 100, 93 score, 52 cents; 25-25-25-25-25-50 extras 51 cents, 25 at 50½ cents, 100 at 51⅛ cents, 50 at 51⅛ cents, 25 at 51½ cents, 25 at 51¼ cents, 100 extras at 51½ cents, 50 at 51½ cents, all for spot delivery.

The egg market opened firm on fresh eggs and with increased demand and moderate offerings, prices were advanced 1 cent per dozen. Call sales were 25 cases California white No. 1 pullets at 36 cents, 25 at 36½ cents, 25 at 36½, 25 f.g. firsts at 40 cents, 50-25-25 at 42 cents; 50 f.g. extras at 43 cents; 50 California No. 1 pullets at 36½ cents per dozen.

SHADING ON COPPER

The copper market is easing and several producers today were shading the recent market level slightly. Although no producer has as yet quoted as low as 14¾ cents, 14.70 cents for electrolytic delivered over the next three months has been done. Approximately half of the producers now are willing to sell at 14¾ cents for entire first half delivery. Several second hands have sold small lots at as low as 14⅝ cents. London cables reported a further decline of 2s 6d in standard, spot closing at £63 7s 6d and futures at £64, but electrolytic was firm and unchanged at £70 7s 6d for spot and £70 10s for futures.

Sterling exchange declined 1⅛ cents between trading sessions in London.

More inquiry was evident from domestic consumers of zinc today and a large tonnage of the metal was sold for export. The price for prompt delivery was unchanged at 6.95 cents a pound, St. Louis, but the concessions on future deliveries narrowed down materially as against 44.457 at the beginning. In London yesterday spot advanced 5s to £35 7s 6d, but futures declined 2s 6d to £33 10s.

CRUDE OIL UP

All grades of Mid-Continent crude oil were advanced 10 cents a barrel at the wells today by Prairie Oil and Gas Company and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company. This advance was the second of 10 cents a barrel to be announced within the past five days, the same companies having raised quotations late last week. Changes in crude-oil posted prices have been numerous during the past week. Eastern grades have been increased 10 to 25 cents a barrel and further upward revisions are expected in the near future. Wyoming and Montana oils are up 10 cents and Mid-Continent crudes are selling 20 cents above levels of a week ago. In addition, there has been an advance of 10 cents in Canadian crude.

EXCHANGE SLUMPS

The bond market developed a sagging tendency at the start, influenced in part by the fact that the British debt-funding commission has been ordered back to London. Foreign loans led the decline, the French municipals generally swinging to new lows, together with the P. L. and M. 7s and the Belgian 7½s and 8s. The British 5½s finished irregular, the 5½s of 1920 up 3-8 and the 5½s of 1937 off ½. The reactionary tendency of foreign-exchange rates sent the South American and Scandinavian issues lower, although occasional issues showed some evidence of accumulations.

Profit-taking in rail issues was the favorite pastime today with final figures generally at or near the day's low prices. The active St. Louis and San Francisco finished irregular after a nervous session. There was a scattered request for Southern Railway issues on reports of a pool operating in the stock. L. & G. N. 6s and the Missouri Pacific loans were among the losers for the day. Tractions were very irregular in limited trading. Copper issues commanded fair attention, Anaconda 6s holding up very well in the face of unsettled trading in the Chile and Cerro De Pasco bonds. Liberties enjoyed a more active market although not a stronger one than the previous day. Final prices were down 12 points to up 4.

COURT CRIER NAMED

U. S. District Judge Bledsoe yesterday announced the appointment of Gayles S. Crawford as crier to fill the vacancy caused by the continued illness of Alfred Moore. Mr. Moore, who resides at 663 South Sichel street, has not been on duty for several months. Crawford is a veteran of the World War and lost his left arm in France.

SINCLAIR TELLS OF DEALS IN OIL

Senate Committee Does Not Start Real Argument

Teapot Dome Controversy is Only Skirted

Noted Operator Tells Why of Price Rise

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—With Harry F. Sinclair again as its chief witness, the Senate oil investigating committee delved deeply today into the affairs of the various Sinclair oil companies, but again skirted the edges of the Teapot Dome controversy, in which Mr. Sinclair is one of the principals.

The committee, which is headed by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, one of the leading critics of the action of the Harding administration in leasing the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in Wyoming to the Sinclair interests, had Mr. Sinclair before it for more than four hours. During that time Gilbert E. Roe, the committee attorney, asked detail after detail as to the operations of the Sinclair companies, but those who crowded the committee-room expecting to see Chairman La Follette and the witness lock horns over the Teapot Dome matter, had to leave at the end of the day without having heard the words "Teapot Dome" spoken either by the witness or his investigators.

EXAMINATION VEERS

The testimony of Mr. Sinclair at the start today seemed headed toward the controversy, but the committee counsel, after getting various facts as to stock ownership of the Mammoth Oil Company, the Teapot Dome operating concern, steered the examination into another channel.

Mr. Sinclair was asked in some detail as to the disposition of approximately 2,095,000 shares of stock he received from the Mammoth company in return for the lease to Teapot Dome. One million shares, approximately, he said, were exchanged for shares of the Hyva Oil Company, another Sinclair concern's 191,200 shares were given back to the Mammoth company and sold by it for $3,250,000 for development purposes, and the remainder still were held by him. He said the stock now had a value of $52 or $53 a share, according to New York curb quotations.

TALKS PRICE-RISE

The testimony regarding the crude oil purchasing company had much to do with prices paid for crude oil in the mid-continent field in 1920, when the price of oil rose within three months from $2.75 a barrel to $3.50, to continue at the higher price throughout a portion of 1921, and to be reflected in high gasoline prices.

Mr. Sinclair, in a long detailed discussion of this matter, told the committee the price increase, as made by his company, was due to indications of a crude-oil shortage, and although all the larger companies in the field made increases almost simultaneously, it was without conference. Incidentally he declared that higher prices for crude oil in the near future might be expected.

The examination of Mr. Sinclair as to the pipe line company had to do largely with its relations to the Standard of Indiana, and when the inquiry turned to the various Sinclair refining companies the witness was excused temporarily and several refinery officials were placed on the stand. Mr. Sinclair, it was announced after adjournment, would resume his testimony tomorrow.

BUYERS EAGER TO PURCHASE

Large Volume of New Bonds Quickly Absorbed

Excess of Movable Capital Seeking Outlet

Investors Still Refuse to Take Europe Seriously

BY C. B. EVANS
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—The immense quantity of bonds that was offered to the public last week appears to have been absorbed and the numerous issues now planned to be placed on the market will go equally well, it is expected by good authorities. The supply of such issues in the hands of dealers in this city is small.

Since Anaconda came down from its mountain heights to offer its bond boon to the people it seems a pity that that company and other copper producers cannot perform the further benefaction of discovering more arsenic to feed out to the boll weevil, for cotton is just as important as copper and the scarcity of the poison is one of the reasons why the government and a large corps of private investigators cannot meet the boll weevil more successfully.

There is a certain savage eagerness in the manner of security buyers just now which bespeaks a great expanse of movable capital. When German marks went down to .0060 and the gooseflesh began to creep over the back of Europe; when, also, our midday newspapers headlined panic in Berlin, the local market went along as usual and New York was just about as nonchalant.

The quotations of European money evidently mean little to a man who has a lot of cash on hand and wants to get rid of it, even if he has to put it into some good investment. Among those quotations only Sweden in her fastnesses, remote from the center of all this disturbance, could boast exchange above the par of the dollar, and the rest of them graded down to nothing per unit.

Somehow our people have the notion that France is a fussy, naggy little woman who has visited a neighbor for the purpose of indulging in a little argument on human relations, which will turn out to be either academic or having the force of conversation at the weekly meeting of the ladies' sewing circle. If this elegant lady chooses to move on to Berlin, so much the more evidence of a neighborly spirit. The constraint put upon the Germans is only such as men commonly expect from a woman who is past master in the art of bullying in a genteel way. The French are great artists. It is to be hoped that hereafter all wars will be conducted on the same principles.

But the aspect of affairs is liable to change any time. If this quiet feminine person gets mad, look out!

Moreover, the situation is discriminating against him in this way, that he has no inside knowledge regarding certain stocks. Recent events have shown that great winnings may be had out of that class of issues, but only a few buyers know. They get the profits and the man who is simply floating on the market in general floats nowhere in particular now, and then he may float over the edge of a big waterfall almost any time. It is what some of the brokers in the niceties of English are calling a selective market. The ordinary amateur does not select; he simply lets improvement in business generally carry him on to fortune.

Most new stock issues of late have treated their purchasers very well. That is because more care than ever before has been exercised in analysis of condition of the property and forecast as to its possibilities. And if anything crooked or otherwise objectionable is brought forward it is carried through the alley of private transaction and not along the broad highway of regular organization, presentation to experts and tender to the public through the recognized responsible channels. If you have a thing that can stand this process you can sell it, for buyers are swarming in the offices of dealers and brokers.

Bearish Stand Is Adopted by Grain Traders

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Traders paid more attention to foreign political developments and a more bearish construction was placed on the situation there than of late. Technically the markets were in a weaker position and with increased profit-taking and bear pressure prices eased off readily and closed about the bottom, with net losses of ⅞@1⅛ on wheat, with corn off ⅝, oats ⅝@¾ and rye 1¼.

Houses that usually act for foreigners were good sellers early, but a local trader was a free buyer and made an advance after a small break at the opening. Later, however, he sold out through commission houses, which had a decidedly depressing effect. The market fluctuated rather rapidly at times. Toward the last there was rather general selling on developments in Germany with hints of a dismemberment of that country, and May dropped below 1.20 after meeting with good support at that figure for a time.

Minneapolis May wheat surprised the trade by going to 1.14c over Chicago at the last, compared with practically the same figure as this market at the close Tuesday. Millers were good buyers there, and the demand for cash wheat here from mills was much better, with sales of 110,000 bushels. Premiums generally were unchanged. Dry weather continues in the Southwest with no relief forecasted. Export demand on the whole was rather slow. Liverpool was unchanged to ⅛d lower, with increased pressure from Argentina.

Local operators tried to bull the corn market early and managed to get the May up to 74¼c after an opening break, but at that figure there was heavy selling on resting orders and toward the last there was a sharp break on general selling by the local element in sympathy with the weakness in wheat. Country offerings were reported as larger and there were claims of Texas trying to retail corn and oats. Sample values were ¼@⅜c better as compared with May, with receipts 193 cars. Export demand was slow.

While there is considerable bullish sentiment in oats on account of the low price, the market failed to show independent action and ranged lower under commission house pressure. Shipping demand only fair, with receipts 40 cars. Delivery on January contracts were 10,000 bushels.

Trade in rye was not large with the action of wheat having a depressing influence. Export demand was in evidence at the seaboard, with sales of 250,000 bushels to Norway. The two northwestern markets had 183 cars.

PUZZLING TAX PROBLEMS SOLVED

BY JOHN G. HERNDON, JR.

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

[This is one of a series of articles on income tax problems of vital concern to the public. Others will follow.]

In arriving at the income of an individual subject to normal tax, a taxpayer is entitled to a credit of $400 for each dependent person, other than husband or wife, whether related to him or not and whether living with him or not, provided the dependent is not eighteen years old or is incapable of self-support because defective.

"Dependent upon" relates to financial dependency, not mere legal dependency. A dependent must, moreover, receive his chief support from the taxpayer, who need not necessarily be the head of his family. A father, however, whose children receive one-half or more of their support from a trust fund or other separate sources is not entitled to the $400 credit for each child not eighteen years old.

In order to arrive at the credit for dependents, one's status as of December 31 governs. If, therefore, a child became eighteen years of age prior to December 31, 1922, the parent is not entitled to the $400 exemption because of the support of such child.

A widower supporting in his own home a dependent child sixteen years old, for example, is entitled to not only the exemption as head of a family, but also to a credit of $400 for the dependent child.

The Treasury Department has held, however, that an alien residing permanently in the United States and whose wife and children are abroad, not through temporary necessity, is entitled to a personal exemption of only $1000, since he is not living with his wife, but he is entitled to a $400 credit for each child not eighteen years of age dependent upon him and receiving its chief support from him.

If a child dies during the year 1922 the parent is not entitled to any exemption on account of the support of such child during the period of such child's life in 1922.

In stating above that one's condition as of the last day of the year for which the return is filed governs in determining his status for personal exemption or credits for dependents, it should be borne in mind that a temporary absence of a wife from home on account of being in a hospital, for example, or the husband's absence from the home on business or for pleasure has no bearing upon the determination of the tax exemption.

If a husband and wife, though not actually living under the same roof December 31, 1922, had formed no plan to live permanently apart, they are entitled to the exemption granted to a married person living with husband or wife, which exemption may be taken by either or both or divided between the two, as they choose. If the husband, however, voluntarily and continuously makes his home at one place and his wife makes her home at another place, they are not living together within the meaning of the income tax statute, and each is entitled to an exemption of only $1000 unless the question of the support of others causes a contrary conclusion.

LIVE-STOCK MARKETS AT VARIOUS CENTERS

Los Angeles

[Furnished by Federal-State Live-Stock Market News Service, 1028 Pacific Finance Building, Los Angeles.]

Receipts and disposition of live stock at Los Angeles Union Stockyards:

A Most Promising Future Is Before the Rickenbacker Motor Company and it is the belief of many authorities that to invest in its stock at this time will prove exceptionally profitable.

Capital $5,000,000 All Common

Fully Paid Non-Assessable

100,000 Shares - $11 Per Share

Partial Payment May be Arranged

That courage, determination and confidence to win which has characterized the life of Eddie Rickenbacker is truly reflected in the success of the car bearing his name. There is no company manufacturing a car in this price class, in our opinion, that has such a bright future before it.

1922 success exceeded all expectations.
Entire 1923 output will be contracted for in a few days.
1923 production will treble 1922.

5000 automobiles manufactured in 1922 record of the Rickenbacker Motor Co. 15,000 scheduled for 1923.

Pacific Coast investors may now purchase the remaining unsold portion of 100,000 shares. It is an opportunity to invest in a company where every dollar derived from the sale of the stock is to be used in purchasing additional tool equipment material to care for the trebled output of the factory.

$425,000 was the net profit for 11 months in 1922. The paid in capitalization is $3,500,000. About 13% earnings. A dividend of 5% has already been paid.

WIFE SAYS DESERTIONS WERE MANY

Asks Divorce Decree, and Tells That Husband Left Her Eight Times

William Ray Hollywood had the habit of wife desertion, Mrs. Helen Hollywood explained yesterday to Judge Doran in Superior Court in seeking a divorce decree. She asserted he left her once in Toronto, twice in New York City, once in Philadelphia, once in Syracuse, once in Oneida Castle, N. Y., and twice in Los Angeles.

The climax came, she asserted, when he got out of bed in the middle of the night, packed his grip and left, never to return. This was in 1921 in this city. They were married in 1916.

"We lived a little while together each time," said Mrs. Hollywood, "but he always had a liking for his folks. The last time he left he said he was going where he could find peace, and that he loved his mother better than he did me."

Judge Doran intimated he would grant the decree, but postponed decision till June 25, by which time some disputed property matters are expected to be ironed out.

Asserts Wright Law Is Certain to be Sustained

"The courts of California are certain to sustain the Wright law," declared Oliver W. Stewart, who was the only member of the Forty-third General Assembly of Illinois elected on the prohibition issue from the city of Chicago, and who is in Los Angeles, as the president of the Flying Squadron, which is campaigning for prohibition enforcement in this part of the State during the month of January.

Mr. Stewart contends that the Wright law is in effect the re-enactment of the Volstead law by California and that since the Supreme Court of the United States has in practically every case sustained the Volstead Act, the same line of legal reasoning will cause the California courts to sustain the Wright law.

Mr. Stewart, with the entire Flying Squadron of four other speakers was in the State last August campaigning on behalf of the Wright law.

He asserts that no issue came before the people of the United States last November quite so important as was involved in the Wright Act. "While it is true," he says, "that Massachusetts, Illinois and Ohio also voted, in no State was quite the issue presented that appeared in California and the outcome in this State meant more to the nation than was involved in the battle in any other commonwealth."

Mr. Stewart is declaring wherever he goes that there is no chance for the wets to get rid of the Wright law by referendum; that California is heading away from the saloon, not toward it, and that another election, if one could be held, would register a far greater majority in favor of the Wright law.

Prisoner Hears Court Lecture on Craps Rules

An infraction of the rules of the ancient game of craps, as codified by Presiding Judge Willis in Superior Court yesterday, cost J. C. Boyce, negro, a $50 fine.

Boyce was charged with attempted murder as the result of a knife battle after a dice game, and was permitted to plead guilty to a charge of simple assault.

"You are familiar with all the rules governing crap games?" sternly demanded the judge.

"Yassuh, I b'lieve so," was the response.

"Yet you don't know the rule about knives?"

Boyce admitted that he didn't.

"Well," declared Judge Willis, "there is a rule that states specifically that knives shall not be used in crap games. I fine you $50 for violating that rule."

Boyce paid the fine.

VICTIM JOINS HUNT FOR LONE ROBBER

FRED MOORE LOSES DIAMOND AND $204; ASSISTS POLICE

Held up and robbed of a diamond stickpin valued at $150 and $204 in currency, Fred Moore of 206 South Brand avenue, Glendale, made a record run to the Hollywood Police Station early yesterday morning and assisted in the search for the robber.

According to the story told Detectives Hutchins and Trosper of the Hollywood police, Moore was stopped as he crossed the intersection of Third street and Fairfax avenue in the La Brea oil fields just south of Hollywood. The robber, who carried a large-caliber revolver, wore a heavy black coat buttoned up around his ears and a slouch hat pulled down over his eyes.

He was described as being about 45 years of age, six feet tall, weighing around 180 pounds and of light complexion.

LARGE INHERITANCE TAX IS DUE STATE

Heirs of Mrs. Elizabeth Paul who died at her Pasadena home in February 1922 will pay an inheritance tax to the State of $10,000, according to a report filed yesterday by Erwin P. Werner, inheritance-tax attorney, in the office of State Controller Riley.

Mrs. Paul, who was 75 years of age at the time of death, left an estate of approximately $150,000, the bulk of which is represented by bond investments. A cousin, Elizabeth Hatch, is the principal legatee, bequests ranging from $6000 to $1000 being provided, by the terms of the will, for five other

GRIFFITH IS ENGAGED BY GOLDWYN'S

Film Star Signs Long-Time Contracts; Will Appear in "The Rear Car"

Another addition to the Goldwyn Stock Company was made yesterday, when Goldwyn officials announced that Raymond Griffith had been given a long-term contract.

Raymond Griffith

Griffith's first role will be that of Sheridan Scott, the "crime detector," in the Goldwyn adaptation of "The Rear Car." Griffith started his motion-picture career in comedies, writing and directing productions. He was "discovered" as a dramatic actor by Marshall Neilan, for whom he worked in "Fools First," "Minnie," and "The Ingrate."

Griffith comes of a theatrical family, and made his first appearance on the stage when he was 15 months old. As a youngster, he toured Europe with a French pantomime troupe, and when 12 years of age spent six months with Barnum and Bailey's circus.

MARRIES TO GET OUT OF JAIL CELL

Unusual Experience Related by Wife of Few Days in Her Plea for Divorce

Ten days in the Evanston (Wyo.) bastile, with no immediate prospects of release, caused Doris Minch to take the only way out and marry Bert E. Minch, she testified in Judge Summerfield's Superior Court yesterday in her suit for annulment.

The marriage took place at Evanston on June 1, 1922, after Mrs. Minch and her husband-to-be had been imprisoned by the authorities of that town on charges of violating the Mann Act.

"I was the innocent victim of circumstances," Mrs. Minch declared. "I did not want to marry Minch and I would not have married him but for this trouble. I was innocent. I had no friends or money. I was frightened to death and when a deputy sheriff told me that the only way out of my troubles was to marry Minch, I did so," she declared.

Mrs. Minch testified that she was about to set out on a trip to Boston to visit an aunt when Minch suggested that she go as a passenger in his car as he also was going to Boston. She had known Minch for some time, she testified.

When they reached Evanston, she said, they were arrested and held in jail. Having no friends or money, she consented to become Minch's bride as the only way out of her troubles, she testified. Ten days later she deserted her husband, she said.

Judge Summerfield continued the case until June 8, next, to enable William T. Kendrick, her attorney, to obtain corroborative evidence of the facts she narrated in court yesterday.

WIFE TELLS THREATS IN EXTORTION

Testifies at Preliminary Hearing of Man Accused by Her Husband

Telling of threats to expose her husband to the Sheriff for an assorted framed burglary on which he collected insurance, Mrs. S. M. Golden took the witness stand yesterday before Justice Scott in the preliminary hearing of Emanuel Gross.

Gross was arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Sweesy, Allen and Wilmot after they had grown suspicious of his activities and had laid a trap for him. It is said by officials of the Sheriff's office that Gross was in the habit of bringing acquaintances there and leaving them outside while he went in to transact some business, thereby giving the impression that he was working with the authorities.

By this means he was able to shake down good-sized sums of hush money until he threatened S. M. Golden, it is said. Golden got in touch with Allen and Sweesy and obtained from them the amount said to have been demanded in marked bills. These bills were given to Gross and it is asserted were in his possession when he was arrested.

When Gross was questioned, he admitted committing several burglaries, giving the names and addresses of the houses robbed and the pawnshops where the goods might be found, officers declare. Nearly $4000 worth of fur and jewelry have been recovered by the deputies and are being returned to the owners.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burton is prosecuting the extortion case against Gross. It will be completed Friday.

TAKE NERVY THIEF, BELIEF OF POLICE

PRISONER IDENTIFIED AS MAN WHO STOLE CASH AT MAIN-STREET STATION

The man who reached through a ticket window at the Pacific Electric station, Sixth and Main streets recently, grabbed $100 and ran away while a patrolman in uniform stood and watched the performance, has been caught, the police asserted yesterday.

They said Charles Randolph, Pacific Electric cashier, had identified Charles Knox as the nervy thief. Knox was arrested Tuesday night at Sixth and Main streets for imputed violation of the State poison law by Detective Sergeants Littlejohn and Mailheau of the dope squad, and Inspector Earl

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

OIL SHIPMENTS HELPING CANAL

Bureau Head Asserts Trade Earns Federal Aid

Harbor Development Need Shown by Figures

Government Engineer Told Assistance Wanted

At the public meeting held in lecture-room D at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning presided over by Maj. E. D. Ardery, United States District Engineer, to hear suggestions on harbor development, Clarence Matson, of the foreign trade department of the chamber, said in connection with the chamber's report:

"Reference is made once more to the statement of the Los Angeles Chamber of Mines and Oil to the effect that contracts now are being consummated for the shipment of more than 50,000,000 barrels of oil from Los Angeles to the Atlantic seaboard for 1923 delivery, and in connection with this statement we wish to call attention to the effect of this traffic on Panama Canal tolls.

"The net tonnage of the great Standard Oil tankers William Rockefeller and John D. Archbold is 10,813 tons each, figured according to Panama Canal rules. These tankers, thus far have come through the canal westbound in ballast, and carry 140,000 barrels of oil each on the trip. At 72 cents per net ton in ballast, and $1120 per net ton loaded, the total tolls paid in a round trip for one of these vessels is $13,801. Distributing this amount over 140,000 barrels of oil makes a little more than 14 cents per barrel. The average tolls for all tankers is between 14 cents and 15 cents.

TOLLS INCREASED

"Fifty million barrels of oil figured at 14 cents per barrel will increase the tolls of the Panama Canal $7,000,000 a year. The Panama Canal record of Aug. 23, 1922, gives the total tolls of the Panama Canal in the fiscal year of 1918-1919 as $6,172,828, and in the fiscal year of 1921-1922 as $11,197,832. Therefore, this one item of oil from Los Angeles Harbor will increase the income of the canal by more than the total income three years ago.

"This will be a direct revenue to the government, which item alone would justify an expenditure of many millions of dollars by the government in the improvement of Los Angeles Harbor to make possible this tremendous increase of tonnage, which at present must move under handicaps."

C. E. Gordon of the Long Beach Harbor Commission in addressing the meeting said that the situation as he saw it was very similar to a youngster growing up rapidly and bursting his clothes. Facts from the report of the Chief Engineer of the United States Army supported his contention, he held.

GAINS COMPARED

"World-wide post-war depression commercially and the well known fact that this was the only 'white spot' commercially throughout the world," said Mr. Gordon, "sustains me in taking the year 1918 as the comparison. Galveston that year had a tonnage of 3,800,000. In the month of October alone we approximated 50 per cent of that. The port of Philadelphia that year had a total tonnage of 7,300,000, and today our tonnage at the harbor is approximately 12,000,000. Next to New York one of the greatest ports on the Atlantic seaboard is Boston, and great Boston had only 15,000,000 that year. We are almost up at the present time to Boston.

"We cannot begin a moment too soon in the construction of that great breakwater which will provide the necessary, essential, adequate protection to what will be the biggest part of Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor—the development of frontage of Terminal Island."

In the general report submitted by President Bishop of the Chamber of Commerce it was pointed out that the tremendous growth of shipping here has brought to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce a realization of the fact that its vision had not been broad enough in working out harbor plans.

The gathering in attendance was representative of every phase of civic activity. Included were the following:

Lou W. Johnson, Wilmington; R. O. Baldwin, Long Beach; Clark F. Waite, San Pedro; Capt. S. Steele Sandberg, F. S. Durie, W. E. Rauch, Paul D. Chandler, A. L. Ferver, Long Beach; Lewis Hansen, San Pedro; Charles E. Gordon, Long Beach; Alexander B. Stewart, Long Beach; Clarence H. Matson, Julius Schneider, J. F. Craig, Long Beach; C. W. Otwell, San Francisco; Theron H. Tracy, M. A. Peterson, D. M. Crosman, Pasadena; W. T. Heinly, W. W. Kelly, A. M. Culver, C. F. Guthridge, J. W. Ludlow, Kenneth A. Carey, Clyde M. Leach, C. E. Bly, F. P. Gregson, R. F. Brown, Long Beach; Capt. W. H. Standley, U.S.N.; R. W. Smock, Col. Thomas B. Esty, U.S.A.; R. Ellis Wales, George A. Brown, Long Beach; J. C. MacQuiddy, San Pedro; Max Dyer, Edgar McKee, W. L. Barnard, Long Beach; W. Lynn Ballard, Long Beach; C. E. Richards, Maj. Charles T. Leads, Long Beach; H. Hawgood, Shannon Crandall, R. B. Armstrong, Washington representative, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; Howard D. Hadley.

The report submitted by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was in writing and suggestions coming from those in attendance were more or less oral. All organizations interested in harbor improvements and governmental appropriations covering them concurred in the chamber report.

CHAPLAIN TO SPEAK

E. E. Herrin, chaplain at the County Hospital, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Los Angeles W. C. T. U. this afternoon at the First Christian Church at the intersection of Eleventh and Hope streets. A musical entertainment also has been provided.

OIL BARGES TO BE BUILT FOR HARBOR

Los Angeles Concern Given Contracts by Associated and Union Companies

Contract for the construction of a 8000-barrel oil barge for the Associated Oil Company of California has been awarded to the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation, officials of the local concern announced yesterday. The contract is the second of its kind secured by the plant within the month, the keel having been laid this week for a similar harbor oil barge for the Union Oil Company of California.

Both craft will have 8000-barrel capacities, with separate tanks for the carrying of the various varieties of fuel oil. The Union Oil barge will have a six-tank distribution. That to be constructed for the Associated Oil Company will be equipped with four tanks. Keel for the second craft will be laid February 1, with delivery scheduled for late March.

The barges will represent a construction cost of approximately $48,000 each, and will be equipped with the latest type Diesel pumps. The Union Oil Company's vessel will have a length of eighty-eight feet and a beam of thirty-four feet. The length of the Associated Oil barge will be 106 feet, with a width of thirty-two feet six inches.

The two jobs represent the first new vessel construction at this port since the Los Angeles yard began work on the two passenger ferries for the Key Route System, both of which nearly are completed.

SERVICE STATION THRICE ROBBED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 17.—Tulare county officers are searching for robbers who looted the C. A. Ensinger service station, near Cutler, of about $500 worth of tires and accessories in the third robbery in six weeks.

Tires and cash amounting to $300 were taken six weeks ago, and Ensinger himself was held up and robbed of $80 in cash last Saturday night by masked bandits.

Early passers-by reported seeing a large touring car without a top standing near the service station. Investigation is being made of reported property bearing Ensinger's name in a wrecked machine near Merced.

CRANK ON VISIT TO GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17.—An unidentified man of excited demeanor entered the Governor's office early today and muttered unintelligible complaint against things in general. His actions drew attention of office attaches, who called corridor guards and had him escorted from the building.

Magnified rumors of the incident, which spread rapidly, were laughed at by the Governor's secretaries. "He was just a harmless 'nut,'" said one of the secretaries, "and we didn't even bother to get his name."

IT WAS GAS—— NOT HEART TROUBLE

When your heart jumps and you feel like you are choking, your breath comes hard—you are scared to death! You think your heart is weak! It isn't. It's your stomach. Your food hasn't digested and you are full of gas which presses upward, interfering with the heart action. It is extremely distressing and sometimes dangerous.

Get quick relief by using Wilson's Pinays Digestive Tablets. Pleasant, palatable—double positive, contains in concentrated form the active digestive principle of ripe pineapple and papaw juice. The best aid to digestion known —not your physician. Moreover, the cost is small, 50c, at leading druggists everywhere, including all Sun Drug Stores, Boswell & Noyes, and Chambers Drug Store.—[Advertisement.]

SEEK MOTORIST IN BEACH SLAYING AT SAN DIEGO

Police Eliminate Suicide Theory in Death of Pretty Classical Dancer; Chum Aids Detectives

BY BURTON L. SMITH
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 17.—The identity of the owner of a closed car, supposed to have been used by four persons, and which was allowed to stand for several hours at La Jolla during the early evening last Sunday, was being sought by police here tonight in an effort to solve the mystery of the death of Fritzi Mann, pretty dancer whose seminude body was found on the beach near Torrey Pines Monday afternoon.

The car was seen by several persons, and police stated that from the description given it tallied with an automobile owned by a man who is known to have been an acquaintance of Miss Mann.

From an acquaintance of the dead girl is was learned that she spent Saturday night in an apartment in the Sanford Hotel, leaving there to go to her room. There she told her mother she was going to attend a house party at Del Mar, but later called on the telephone to say she was mistaken; that the party was to be held at La Jolla.

It is believed she was taken to the beach resort in the closed car, the owner of which is now being sought.

Miss Helen Whitney was the acquaintance who gave police information regarding Miss Mann's plans for the week-end, and it was in her apartment that the dancer spent Saturday night.

Inasmuch as it is impossible to reach the La Jolla Beach by trolley or rail, police are convinced that Miss Mann was taken there in an automobile. They believe that with the discovery of the identity of the car owner a great step forward in the solution of the crime will be made.

That Miss Mann was murdered and did not commit suicide was the announcement made by Chief of Police Patrick today. Officers engaged in the investigation have eliminated the suicide theory, and are confining their efforts to unraveling a multitude of clews which are expected to lead to one or more arrests and startling revelations within the next few hours.

Chief Patrick spent several hours this morning with Miss Dorothy Armstrong, chum of the dead girl, and when the interview was finished expressed the opinion that there was little or no doubt but that a lead had been established that would culminate in a solution of the problem that so far has baffled the officials.

Although Chief Patrick refused to make a statement as to what developed during the long inter-

RAIN STORM SNUBS THIS TERRITORY

Bakersfield and Fresno Are Both Dampened by Showers; Valley is Hit

Yesterday's clouds failed to produce even a drizzle in Los Angeles, and it was said at the Weather Bureau last night that the southern edge of a storm which gave Fresno and Bakersfield a dampening had moved off eastward and probably would miss Los Angeles.

Reports from points in San Joaquin Valley indicated rain was falling in that section. Fresno reported .28 of an inch for the twenty-four hour period, making the season's total 3.72 inches, as compared with 5.90 inches last year. Porterville was visited by showers totaling .18 of an inch for the day, bringing the season's total to 3.97. Last year's total to date was 6.48 inches.

A light rain started falling in Barkersfield yesterday afternoon. So far this year 2.37 inches have fallen, against 4.67 inches for last year to date.

IN THE NORTH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—The rainstorm over Northern California last night added an average of half an inch of water to the seasonal rainfall. The weather cleared early in the morning, but again is threatening tonight. The rainfall data for this district for the twenty-four hours ending at 5 p.m. follow:

KIN TO NOBILITY HERE

Distinguished Englishwoman, Enjoying Southland, Related to Duke of York's Fiancee

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Coincident with the news of the engagement of Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon to His Royal Highness, the Duke of York, second son of King George of England, Lady Elizabeth's first cousin, Mrs. Audrey Le Blond has arrived in Altadena to visit her son, Arthur St. Vincent Burnaby.

Mrs. Le Blond is a highly distinguished and interesting personality in her own right, being a world-famed traveler and a member of the British Royal Geographical Society, as well of the National Geographical Society of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Le Blond gave me some interesting details about Lady Elizabeth, who is now in line to become Queen of England and Empress of the British Empire, should it so happen that the Prince of Wales elects to remain a bachelor or should have no children.

Lady Elizabeth is the daughter of the Earl and Countess of Strathmore and a sister of Lord Glamis. There is a mystery in connection with Glamis Castle in Scotland which has puzzled generations of British and never is disclosed except to the heir.

SEX COST DUKEDOM

Lady Elizabeth's mother was a Miss Bentinck and, had she been born a boy, would have been Duke of Portland. But her mother, nee Miss Burnaby, had three daughters and no son, so that the dukedom passed to a cousin, the present Duke, who is first cousin to Mrs. Audrey Le Blond, our visitor. Lady Elizabeth therefore is related to Mrs. Le Blond and her son, Arthur St. Vincent Burnaby, through both the Bentincks and the Burnabys.

The Strathmores are an ancient Scotch family, and the daughters, of whom there are several, are very charming, cultured girls. The Duke of York, therefore, has chosen a maiden of high position who will fill any royal role marked out for her by destiny with dignity and grace.

Mrs. Le Blond came over on the Majestic (formerly the Bismarck, the largest liner in the world) in much interesting company. England's Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin and his wife, were on board, coming to this country to discuss international financial complications.

COUE ABOARD

So was M. Emile Coue, whom Mrs. Le Blond describes as a dear modest little Frenchman, who, when asked by wireless to sign a message calling upon the nations

TWO ARRESTED IN FISHER DEATH

Search on for Williford, Asserted Slayer

R. C. Springer and Wife of Accused Held

Bootleg Whisky Valued at $10 Crime Cause

Bootleg whisky valued at $10 cost William S. Fisher, police informer, his life and resulted yesterday in the arrest of R. C. Springer and Mrs. Leo M. Williford, and a State-wide search for Leo M. Williford, charged by the police with having fired the shots that killed Fisher.

A complaint charging R. C. Springer with murder was issued yesterday afternoon by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClelland after the facts concerning the death of Fisher had been placed before him. The complaint was requested by Detective-Sergt. Farrant.

After Fisher had been accosted from an automobile at Fifty-fourth and Main streets early Tuesday morning and slain by a man armed with a rifle the investigating police learned that the murder car was owned by Springer. Later they discovered that Springer and Williford were living together at 737 East Adams street. Then they were informed that Mrs. Williford gave a twenty-two caliber rifle to a friend several hours after the murder.

SPRINGER ARRESTED

Springer was taken into custody at noon yesterday at the Birch-Smith warehouse at Thirty-eighth street and Grand avenue. He was booked at University Police Station. He admitted owning the murder car and stated that he lived with Williford. He denied having any part in the murder of Fisher and produced several workmen to swear that he was working at the warehouse all day Tuesday. He stated that he did not know where Williford could be found. Because of several discrepancies in Springer's story he was ordered held.

Following the arrest of Springer the police were notified by a friend of Williford's that Mrs. Williford had given him a rifle several hours after the killing of Fisher. She stated that she did not want the weapon. At Central Police Station where Mrs. Williford was questioned she denied knowing anything about the rifle and was locked up for investigation. She stated that she did not know where her husband was and gave three different accounts of his actions on the day of the shooting.

THE WHISKY STORY

From Springer and Mrs. Williford the police first learned the story of the $10 worth of bootleg whisky which is thought to have been the real cause of the murder. Springer declared that Fisher sold Williford a quantity of whisky a number of months ago. He stated that the police informer charged Williford with not paying in full for the supply of bootleg liquor and swore to kill him unless he settled. Unable to collect the bill, Fisher, according to Mrs. Williford, then turned his attentions to her and wrote her several letters in which he threatened her. She produced the letters and turned them over to the police. It was after the last of these letters had been received that Fisher was killed, the police say.

According to Lieutenant of Detectives James Chapman of the University police, who is in charge of the investigation, and who took Springer into custody, the killing of Fisher which grew out of the $10 whisky bill also involves an underworld war between rival bootleggers and whisky runners. In-

LUNACY INQUIRY HAZING SEQUEL

Freshman Who Shot Captor is Expelled

Intended Victim of Class Raid is Jailed

University Officials Plan Sanity Test

The County Lunacy Commission will be asked to examine P. Arthur Banks, 20 years of age, a freshman at the University of Southern California, H. J. Stonier, executive secretary of the university, declared yesterday after Banks had shot Phillip Johnston, 20 years of age, a junior, when a band of sophomores attempted to haze a group of freshmen.

Banks, who resides at 3825 South Vermont avenue, is held at the University Police Station on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Johnston's wound, a superficial one in the right foot, was dressed by the university physician and he returned to his classes, going later to his home at 723 South Boyle avenue.

AMBUSH PREPARED

Freshmen had been ignoring an edict from upper classmen that they appear for classes in a small green cap with a bright red visor, Mr. Stonier declared he had been informed, and a group of sophomores decided yesterday morning that the order should be enforced.

Garbed in blue overalls they appeared at the door of a classroom in the administration building and asked that Banks be sent out. Banks appeared at the door and upon seeing that his callers were sophomores, drew a pistol and began firing.

SHOT IN STRUGGLE

Two bullets penetrated the floor and the sophomores fled. Banks pursued them, Mr. Stonier asserted, and at the entrance to the building he overtook several of them.

Johnston was one of the group of spectators and he attempted to take the weapon from Banks. In the struggle Johnston was shot in the right foot and Banks received several cuts and bruises about the head.

C. A. Jonas, an upper classman and a deputy sheriff, took Banks to the University Police Station.

BANKS EXPELLED

At a meeting of the Faculty Committee on Student Welfare, held yesterday afternoon at which the shooting was investigated, the following statement was given out:

"First, certain members of the sophomore class were 'tying up' preshmen who refused to year their freshman cap in obedience to University tradition.

"Second, P. R. Banks, a student from Riverside, who was in the party of freshmen who were being 'tied up,' pulled a revolver and threatened any man who came near him.

"Third, Phillips Johnston, an engineering student, attempted to take the revolver away from Mr. Banks and in the struggle the trigger was pulled, with the result that Mr. Johnston was slightly hurt by a bullet piercing the fleshy part of the side of his foot.

"Fourth, Mr. Banks was then arrested by Dept. Sheriff James who also is a student at the university, and taken to the University Police Station. Mr. Johnston was taken to the university physician and had his foot dressed, and was in his class in mathematics the hour following.

"But few students took part in the affair and did not know of its occurrence until after reading newspapers.

"It as been found that Mr. Banks

Increase in Pay of City Building Staff Proposed

General increases in the pay of technical employees in the city building department will be recommended unanimously to the City Council today by the Finance Committee, it was announced late yesterday. The City Council is expected to approve the increases at once.

The action of the Finance Committee is the outgrowth of extended agitation on the part of the Chamber of Commerce and builders and contractors. Because of the low pay given the technical employees, it has been found impossible to keep trained men in the department. This has resulted in a general slowing up of building, causing a loss to contractors estimated at $35,000 a day.

Under the new schedule of wages it is hoped to keep the trained men in the city's employ and to speed up the work of checking building plans submitted by contractors and builders and thus eliminate the loss.

The increases range from $10 to $50 a month. The salary of Chief Inspector Backus will be increased by $25 a month under the proposed schedule, that of Chief Deputy Welsh by $50 a month and the salaries of the other employees proportionately.

FEEBLE MIND COLONY ENDS

Heavy Cost Believed Reason for Closing Pacific Institution; Inmates Sent to Eldridge

The Pacific Colony for Feeble-minded Children is no more. Last Monday nineteen of the thirty boys, inmates of the institution at Walnut Station, near Pomona, were hustled aboard a train and taken to the State Home for Feeble-minded at Elgridge, in Sonoma county.

The others were paroled in charge of parents and friends.

An order received last Saturday by Dr. Charles E. Sisson, acting-superintendent of the colony, from Acting Director of Institutions Twogood at Sacramento, called for the abandoning of the school and the sending of inmates northward.

No reason for the action was given, Dr. Sisson declared last night. He attributed the assertedly great overhead cost of the institution as compared with the number of inmates as being the reason.

ACTION KEPT QUIET

News of the abandoning of the colony was not made public. The fact that it had been abandoned became known after the meeting of the Psychopathic Association at the Country Club Drive home of Mrs. O. C. Bryant, one of the board of directors.

It generally was believed that extension of the work among the feeble-minded of the Southland was about to be realized. Early last month Dr. John A. Reily, superintendent of the Southern California State Hospital, recommended that a tract of forty-one acres jutting into a portion of the 1000-acre tract, purchased for the colony in 1918, be purchased before additional buildings were erected there. Dr. Reily also recommended purchase of the land as being a necessary piece of legislation for enactment during the January session of the Legislature. He further urged that an appropriation sufficient to provide for at least 500 inmates at the colony be passed. Gov. Stephens, according to dispatches, approved Dr. Reily's recommendations and for-

SOUTH BEHIND BAKER BILL

Local Civic Bodies Near Unanimous in Their Support of Reapportionment Measure in Legislature

Wholehearted support by Southern California of the Baker reapportionment bill was assured yesterday. The boards of many civic organizations will send telegrams urging the southern delegation at Sacramento to do all possible to pass the measure which would give Los Angeles county five additional Assemblymen and two more Senators and Southern California, outside of this county, one additional Assemblyman and a new Senator.

The bill would base the representation on the last census, in keeping with the State law, but lack of support might defeat the measure and public organizations of all kinds, as well as individuals of prestige are being urged to make known at once the spirit of the community.

Most of the local organizations operate by board action and the matter cannot be taken up officially until these boards meet. Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, will bring the matter before the board meeting today. It comes under the jurisdiction of the committee on county and municipal affairs of which Sylvester L. Weaver, formerly president of the chamber, is chairman. Support of the bill by the chamber is a foregone conclusion since it represents what the South has been fighting for for many years, a similar measure having been defeated two years ago. The Baker bill, however, is something of a compromise with the view, it became known that Miss Armstrong told of a love affair of long standing that had existed between Miss Mann and a San Diego professional man. She discredited the story circulated early in the day that Miss Mann had been secretly married to a motion-picture actor, and was of the opinion that stories emanating from Long Beach and San Pedro to the effect that the girl had ardent admirers there were without foundation.

Eliminate Suicide Theory in San Diego Slaying

The Chief said Miss Armstrong knew nothing of the house party supposed to have been attended by Miss Mann the night of the tragedy, but soon after noon today officials started on a hurried trip to La Jolla, where it is supposed Miss Mann spent the early hours of Sunday night.

Officers pointed out this afternoon that the position of the clothing and of the body made the theory of suicide impossible. When the body was recovered the girl was wearing light satin pumps which, detectives say, would have been scarred had the girl walked even a short distance over the beach or country road. The fact that the slippers were unharmed is proof, officers think, that the girl was taken to the lonely spot on the beach in an automobile.

Whose automobile? why was she in the company of the driver?

The answers to these questions will solve San Diego's deepest mystery.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

DENVER (Col.) Jan. 17.—Frieda Mann, beautiful 20-year-old San Diego (Cal) dancer, found dead on the beach near Torrey Pines, near San Diego, formerly lived in Denver with her mother and brother, William Mann. The girl studied dancing here under a local teacher. The family left Denver last April for San Diego.

William Mann formerly was connected with the Internal Revenue Department here and was a prominent Republican politician. His sister was prominent here as a dancer and entertainer.

ASSERTED THIEF HELD AT PHOENIX FOR OAKS

WALTER DAVIS ACCUSED OF ROBBING LOS ANGELES MERCHANT

Accused of taking some checks and a small amount of money from the Zinke Shoe Company, 638 South Spring street, last Saturday night, Walter T. Davis, alias Walter Stewart, is being held at Phoenix at the request of Chief of Police Oaks.

After the robbery, Davis was traced to Venice and there the trail was lost.

The police assert Davis also was implicated in the robbery of several stores in the same vicinity that night.

An officer probably will be sent today with warrant and extradition papers to bring Davis back to Los Angeles.

CLASSES IN RADIO

Radio operators whose licenses have lapsed and advanced amateurs who need a knowledge of commercial practice and apparatus will be interested in the short intensive course announced by the Y.M.C.A. school to prepare students for the United States license examination to be held late in March or early in April.

WIFE OBJECTS TO NOSE PULLING

Asserts in Divorce, Husband Held Her by Proboscis While Punishing Her

Her husband's pet pastime was to grab her by the nose, back her into a corner, and while maintaining a firm grip upon the proboscis, chastised her, according to a suit for divorce filed yesterday by Mrs. Sadie B. Fields against David W. Fields.

Mrs. Fields asserts in her complaint that this treatment caused her great mental and physical anguish, and requests a divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

SOUTH BACKS BAKER BILL

North, and its chance of passage with solid support at home is highly possible.

Prompt action was taken yesterday by F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, who sent this telegram in the name of the association to Senator Hart at Sacramento:

"The commercial interests of this community urge the Southern California delegation at the present session of the Legislature to use all honorable means for the passage of a bill for reapportionment of this State. The Legislature must fulfill its duty to the entire State irrespective of local influences to carry out the law and reapportion the State according to the population shown by the last Federal census. There cannot be nor must not be any selfish interests to defeat the law and we request that you bring this telegram before the entire Southern California delegation for their action and support."

Mr. Zeehandelaar further had this comment to make:

"It is the duty of the Legislature to pass such a measure as the Baker bill, no matter who may be the beneficiary of it. It is a simple matter of justice under the law and there can be no question about it."

OTHERS TO BOOST

The Realty Board meets today and Edwin G. Hart, its new president said last night he would bring the matter up at the meeting.

The board of the City Club also meets today.

"As a rule the club does not take action in matters of this kind," said C. A. Dykstra, its secretary. "But this matter is so important to us and something about which there can be no question that I shall bring the matter before the board."

The Municipal League Board meets tomorrow, and its secretary, Anthony Pratt, will take up the matter at that time. The league already has endorsed the theory of reapportionment, and it is considered likely that it will champion the Baker bill.

HOLLYWOOD PROTESTS COMING OF JAPANESE

Protests against the colonization of Japanese in Hollywood will be heard at a meeting of the Los Feliz Improvement Association tomorrow night at the schoolhouse at the intersection of Hollywood and Vermont avenues. Mayor Cryer will discuss problems of civic interest, including the Japanese question. Other speakers will talk on the acquisition of a school and extended car service for the Los Feliz district. Arthur C. Webb, president of the association, is in charge of arrangements.

to make peace, which was to be radioed round the world, declined to do so, saying he was not of sufficient importance to perpetrate such an international impertinence! And who, when New Year's Eve was celebrated on board, entered joyously like a schoolboy into the fun and pranced around in a paper cap.

The Chaud Sauria, The Bat company of Moscow, which has been startling London, was also on board, as also was Kate Draper, who will later come west.

Mrs. Le Blond has been a noted traveler for many years, and is the author of many published standard works on such subjects as the old gardens of Italy, the cities and sights of Spain, Alpine adventures, etc. The Alps, she says, are her pet subject, and if she accepts any of the numerous invitations to lecture which she is receiving this will be the theme of her discourses.

BACKS RHEIMS FUND

Since the war her most earnest interest has been the British fund for the restoration of Rheims Cathedral, for which she is honorary secretary. But during the war she served long and faithfully under the Service de Sante Militaire, and at the request of the British government she lectured to the troops both at home and in France. Her most recent journey was to Morocco, and her husband is now exploring somewhere in the Sahara Desert. But four years ago her son, Arthur St. Vincent Burnaby, came to Altadena to recover his health, accompanied by Nurse Julian. He has purchased a charming home at the foot of the mountains and declares that his quest has been joyously successful. Mrs. Le Blond will remain with him until March.

Both of them have fallen in love with America in general and California in particular. Mrs. Le Blond has a particularly charming voice and is, in appearance, so like the British royal women that she could easily pass for one of them. That same compact style of hairdressing which both Queen Alexandria and Queen Mary affect, the same carriage, the same little mannerisms.

And, as Mrs. Le Blond says, she is not here to beg for money, not even for her dear Rheims Cathedral restoration fund, which is essentially a British effort, but if any one did happen to love Rheims as ardently as she and insisted upon contributing, she would not care to hurt their feelings by refusing. She says this with a merry twinkle. But if she is persuaded to give any of her lectures here, it will not be for money.

One little story she delights in telling is that the Kaiser's abdication was signed in her bedroom! For it so happened that the very room at Amerongen, where that momentous document was signed, then part of the Kaiser's suite, was the very one in which she had slept on her many visits to that city.

Representatives from all over Los Angeles are expected to attend the Intermediate Christian Endeavor in-gathering to be held here Sunday, February 4, at the Immanuel Presbyterian Church. A prize is offered for the society with the largest attendance.

The principal speaker will be Eddy Young. Walter Hineman, the president of the city intermediate organization, will be in charge. Hubert Jordan will lead the singing. Marion Graham will have a leading part in the program.

WAR MOTHERS IN DRIVE FOR MONEY FOR VETS

Plans to raise money for relief for former service men will be discussed tomorrow at a meeting of War Mothers at 2 p.m. in headquarters of Disabled Veterans of the World War, 346 South Hill street.

The proposed membership drive of the organization, which according to its secretary, Mrs. F. W. Jansen, will seek to include every War Mother in the city, will be discussed also.

SPEED CLUB GAINS GIRL AS MEMBER

Dorothy Whitman Spending Day in Jail; Fifteen Men Sentenced Also

Another woman joined yesterday the Speeders' Jail Club. She was initiated with fifteen men by Police Judge Chambers, the club's most energetic recruiter.

Two of yesterday's new members were admitted for going only twenty-five miles an hour. Yesterday's sentences, added to those of Tuesday and Monday, brought Judge Chambers's score for the week nearly to the 100 mark, and he declared his intention to continue the campaign until there is not an unjailed speeder left in the city.

Miss Dorothy Whitman was the name of the club's new feminine member. For thirty-three miles an hour she got one day. H. H. Butterworth and R. J. Stanch, two days each for twenty-five miles an hour, where the others considered worthy of special mention.

There were six other two-day memberships; H. P. Vumwalt, twenty-six miles; W. J. Shannon, thirty-one miles; R. H. Morgan, thirty-seven miles; Harry W. McFarland, twenty-eight miles; Edwin P. Martin, twenty-eight miles, and Ernest DeFord, twenty-eight miles.

Three-day memberships were awarded to W. Hoyt, twenty-eight miles; R. M. DeLong, twenty-nine miles; Edward A. Phillips, thirty-one miles; Walter Ordway, thirty-one miles; M. A. Bolton, twenty-eight miles; Willard Wheeler, thirty-one miles, and Earl Hall, thirty-two miles.

formation now in the hands of the police show, they say, that Williford and Springer may have had some dealings in smuggled whisky, and according to the police detectives, Fisher is believed to have threatened that he would expose them to the police.

Fisher, who was arrested for selling whisky and sentenced to six months in the City Jail, was released a number of months before he was killed, when he promised to inform the police where numbers of bootleggers could be arrested. Since his arrest the police say that Fisher informed on more than 200 bootleggers and caused their arrests. Many known bootleggers had sworn to kill Fisher, the police assert, and a number of attempts had been made on his life before he was shot down on the street.

Williford, according to the police, is about 31 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 165 pounds, is smooth-shaven, of medium dark complexion, and when last seen wore a drab suit and a soft hat. He is an overseas veteran and is well known in Sawtelle. A murder complaint was obtained against the wanted man late yesterday afternoon.

An autopsy held at the Coop undertaking establishment late yesterday showed that Fisher died as the result of two bullet wounds in the head. Two .32-caliber bullets were removed from his brain by the autopsy surgeon.

is a highly excitable young man, and that he has always carried a revolver. In the excitement yesterday he displayed the weapon. He maintains that he had no idea of shooting anyone, but that the gun went off accidentally.

BANKS EXPELLED

"The University Faculty Committee, meeting with the Executive Committee of the Student body, passed a resolution prohibiting all hazing and in the future any use of physical force in maintaining student tradition.

"Mr. Banks was summarily expelled from the university.

"Universities generally throughout the country are coming to feel that the use of physical force in maintaining college tradition is a thing of the past and it is hoped that this incident might serve to encourage the movement which will do away with the use of such force. History numbers many cases where the use of physical force has resulted in death, where the intent was perfectly innocent, but as a student battle developed bad feelings were aroused and actions were taken when the students' minds were in such condition that they were unable to realize what they were doing.

Lone Bandit Is Active in Laurel Canyon

Couples enjoying evening air in Laurel Canyon will have to find new headquarters, because a lone bandit late last evening relieved two night riders of their valuables and escaped into the darkness.

According to a report given police, G. A. O'Brien of 1320 South Harvard Boulevard was driving through the Hollywood Mountains when he was approached by a heavy-set man who demanded him to turn over his money and valuables. Responding to his orders, O'Brien gave him all his money, which included $30.

Other machines were parked near by with passengers unaware of the bandit's presence. After leaving Mr. O'Brien, the police state, the bandit walked over to other automobiles, held up occupants and departed in double quick time. At a late hour the other victims had not reported being held up.

DANCER'S LOVE TOLD BY CHUM

and it was for that purpose she went to the southern city. The management of the Cafe Royale yesterday declared, however, they had never heard of Miss Mann.

After Miss Mann's departure for San Diego Miss Edwards stated she had received a letter from her.

"It was just a note and I do not recall all of its contents," she stated, "but I do remember she said she was coming to Long Beach and urged me not to write her because she would not be at San Diego to receive the letter. I hardly can believe she is dead and it seems impossible that what they say regarding her condition as revealed at the inquest can be true. Frieda was not a bad girl nor one who could be misled easily. If what they say is true then she loved the man very deeply whoever he is. Perhaps she may have been married secretly but of course I don't know."

GIRL ILL ON VISIT

Miss Mann was ill the last time she visited Miss Edwards, according to the latter's statement, and explained the matter by stating she had strained herself while dancing.

The dead girl was talented, according to Miss Edwards, speaking French, German, Hungarian and several other languages.

Long Beach police at the request of San Diego authorities questioned Miss Edwards for more than two hours last night and took possession of a number of letters and some clothing which the dead girl left at the Edwards home. Several of the letters were addressed "Dearest Girl" and many of them bore the initials "L. L. J." These, Miss Edwards explained, are the initials of an army surgeon at Camp Kearney. The police did not reveal the contents of the letters but sent them to the authorities at San Diego.

According to a statement made by Dr. Jacobs in San Diego yesterday Miss Mann is asserted to have told him she was married here secretly to a motion picture actor and that she had left him on account of cruelty. She was said to have declared also she had a contract with Famous-Players Lasky Company.

NOT WITH LASKY

Officials of the latter organization stated yesterday they never had heard of the girl and that their records showed she never had been employed in their studios. A search of the marriage license bureau records failed to reveal confirmation of a marriage within the last two years.

Roger Clark, an automobile dealer of San Pedro, whose name was mentioned in dispatches from San Diego as having been an acquaintance of the dead girl, stated yesterday he never had heard of her and that it must be a case of mistaken identity.

CROOKS GIVEN BROADSIDE

Portland, Or., the entrance pay of policemen ranges from $15 to $60 per month more than in this city. Detroit pays her patrolmen a flat rate of $180 a month and San Francisco, a flat rate of $173 per month.

In making its recommendation regarding a police-signal system, the commission accepted Chief Oaks's estimate that this system will be the equivalent of 500 additional patrolmen. It is probable that means may be devised for adapting the fire-signal system recently authorized by the voters, in the form of a $1,000,000 bond issue, to care for the needs of the police department as well.

In order that means may be decided upon for making available the money necessary for the increase in police pay, the commission requested the Finance Committee of the City Council to defer for one more week its meeting to consider the subject. An invitation was ordered sent to the members of the committee, the Mayor and the other members of the City Council to meet with the Crime Commission next Tuesday noon, at which time the matter of raising the money will be thrashed out.

The action of the Crime Commission in recommending the so-called three-fourths verdict and its determination to see that this change is made, gives promise that California will be the first State in the Union to institute this radical reform in criminal procedure. The Los Angeles County Bar Association, which is collaborating with the Crime Commission, has the necessary bill in preparation, and it will shortly go before the Legislature with the full influence of the Community Development Association behind it.

Such an enactment, which must be in the nature of a constitutional amendment, is expected to have a far-reaching effect as a crime deterrent, and as a measure looking toward economy and efficiency in court procedure. The proposal already has the earnest support of the great majority of the local bench and bar, and is expected to meet with general approval throughout the State.

It is pointed out that under such a system expensive mistrials due to hung juries will be practically eliminated. It will also do away to a great extent with present abuses of the jury system whereby the "fixing" of a single juror frequently undoes months of costly court sessions.

The Bar Association was requested by the Crime Commission to prepare other bills calculated to expedite the administration of justice and to supply the Crime Commission with data regarding any abuses of criminal jurisprudence of which it may have knowledge. Several flagrant instances of the escape of persons accused of felonies through straw bonds have been called to the attention of the commission and a special investigation of this subject is to be made.

DAVIS FUNERAL RITES TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for James M. Davis, retired capitalist of St. Louis and Kansas City, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the chapel of Clark F. and Alice Mead, 1133 South Flower street, it was announced yesterday. Burial will be at Mountain View Cemetery, Pasadena, where Mrs. Davis was buried three years ago.

Mr. Davis died suddenly Tuesday while visiting his son, Bartlett Y. Davis, of 332 North Ardmore street. He was 70 years of age and was a lifelong member of the Friends' Church. He leaves his son, who is connected with the Rose," "Indiana Home," and "Just a Little Love Song."

Viola Cusolito, whistler, of the Woodward School of Artistic Whistling, accompanied by Ella R. MacGlashan, added spice to the evening program with three whistling solos—"Valse Parisienne," by Roberts; "The Star," by Rogers, and "Annie Laurie." Miss Cusolito is known as the California Nightingale, and has toured the United States and Canada in vaudeville.

And while the adult [illegible] public was supplied generously with song, the [illegible] wise neglected. Alberta Floan Costar, soprano, accompanied by Garrison Costar, entertained the lads and lassies with five excellent solos, giving an adequate setting for "Uncle John's" specialty which they have learned eagerly to listen for each night during the period.

Continuing the Wednesday night Bible reading feature, Prof. W. H. Head director of the department of public speaking of the Venice Union Polytechnic High School, gave readings from Corinthians, John, and a part of the third chapter of John's Gospel. Prof. Head's Bible readings are fast winning a selected group of listeners who assert that his excellent interpretative ability and expression gives them more out of these readings than they could hope to gain for themselves in personal reading.

Yesterday afternoon listeners heard Mrs. Norman C. Robinson, contralto, in three solos—"Golden Crown," by Gantvort, "The Afternoon," by Cox, and "Wild Rose," from "Sally," by Jerome Kern. Mrs. Robinson interpreted these solos to the accompaniment of Carrie Preston Rittmeister.

WHISTLING SOLOS

Homer Mendenhall, accompanied by Ella R. MacGlashan, gave two excellent whistling solos—"Giannina Mia," from "The Firefly," by Rodolph Friml, and "Manzanillo," a Mexican dance, by Robyn. Mr. Mendenhall has developed artistic whistling to a high degree, his notes being wonderfully controlled, clearly presented, and, unlike many whistlers, he seems to have a reserve supply from which to build volume whenever he desires.

Radioland had an opportunity yesterday afternoon to learn the true definition of the term "gross income" as it applies in the determination of the amount of income tax to be paid, when John T. Riley, chief deputy in the office of Internal Revenue Collector Rex B. Goodcell, spoke briefly with that as his theme. While your income, in your estimation, may not have assumed gross proportions last year, still the government has its own interpretation of this term, which Mr. Riley proceeded to elucidate.

These talks on income tax regulations are to be a weekly feature from KHJ Wednesday afternoons during the early part of the income tax collection drive this year. Next week the tax collector's office will supply a speaker, who will tell the listening public of allowable income tax exemptions.

PETITIONS TO SET WIFE'S WILL ASIDE

A petition to have the will of Mrs. Mary J. B. Wylie set aside on the grounds that she was incompetent at the time it was drawn was filed yesterday by David B. Wylie, widower.

Mrs. Wylie, who died on December 1, last year, left an estate of $12,000, half of which was bequathed to one daughter, Henrietta B. Wylie—, and half to another daughter, Agnes B. Wylie. Two sons were willed $5 each and the same amount to Mr. Wylie.

Bullfighter Is Victor in Suit for Damages

Pedro Espago, captain of toreadors, was awarded $400 damages against Marcello Lopez by Judge Keetch yesterday in Superior Court. The suit was an outgrowth of an attempt to promote a bullfight here during a Mexican festival last May. Espago was brought here to manage the affair. The proposed bullfight was called off because of the opposition from the authorities.

Espago was to receive $400 whether the bullfight was staged or not, according to testimony, but payment was refused and he brought suit for the money.

Five hundred watts and good modulation are notable features of KJS, the new Bible Institution broadcast station, which came on the air for its initial program Tuesday between 12:30 and 1 p.m. The dedicatory program from KJS takes place tonight from 8 to 8:40 o'clock, when a number of pleasing selections are likely to be given. Those on the program are C. M. Books, baritone, who will sing "Consider and Hear Me," while the Harmony Quartet will sing "Remember Now Thy Creator." Curtis Glenn Elliott, violinist, will play "Salut d'Amour," and J. Austin Brillhart, trombonist, "The Holy City." "Open the Gates of the Temple" will be sung by Mrs. Irvin Fallis, soprano, and "Onward, Christian Soldiers," by Messrs. Whipple and Showalter. Oscar Walton will accompany throughout. The new KJS apparatus was built under the direction of M. E. Carrier, who also operated the old station.

Amateur radio in the recent trans-Atlantic tests added another laurel to its already brilliant record of accomplishments by bridging the Atlantic Ocean and the continent of North America, according to advices received from the operating department of the American Radio Relay League at Hartford, Ct. Two Los Angeles operators were heard in Europe during the tests, which were completed December 31. These were 6KA, a station belonging to F. E. Nirkirk, 1050 West Eighty-ninth street, and 6ADG, belonging to F. Noel, 301 West Avenue 43. 6AV, owned by P. T. Nesbit, Healdsburg, Cal.; 6ZZ, H. L. Gooding, Douglas, Ariz., and 6ZA, Ira H. Kaar, Salt Lake City, were also picked up by European amateurs.

Woman Injured When Pinioned Under Machine

Mrs. William E. Caudell of Oxnard was injured seriously shortly before noon yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding on Sherman Way, San Fernando Valley, overturned and pinned her underneath. She was taken to the Receiving Hospital in Los Angeles and attending physicians announced that she had suffered internal injuries in addition to severe bruises and abrasions about the body.

William C. Caudell, son of the badly injured woman, was bruised slightly in the smash-up.

UP THE STUMP

Lumbermen agree that this year will be the greatest and busiest the trade has ever known. But that is no sign that board is going to be cheap.

MANILA ROPE

A single shipment of 50,000,000 Manila cigars is reported arriving from the Philippines. That must be a record in a smoky way. The islands hardly need advertising when they can get so many puffs.

PAPER MONEY

Now that marks are worth less than the paper they are printed on possibly the Germans will shave the output. The stuff they have been using for money is worth more to wrap wienerwurst in.

GETTING EVEN

We are shipping a lot of playing cards to India and China. The officials are pinching all the poker players here and so we are sending our pasteboards to the Hindus. If the Orient sent us opium we will get even by smearing their souls with auction bridge.

ASTONISHING BELLHOP

Robert Driscoll Shea, an Indianapolis hotel bell boy, has won a Rhodes scholarship.

There are two surprises in this case. One is surprise that anybody should be surprised at such intellectual attainments on the part of a bellhop. Doesn't everybody know there is no other job on earth which equals bellhopping in teaching a boy to be both "wise" and "smart"? So why shouldn't such a boy win a Rhodes scholarship, when so often mere college boys do it?

But the other surprise is that there was a bellhop on earth who thought he needed more education. All the bellhops most of us have ever known not only knew it all but were ready to admit it. They would much more readily recognize their ability to teach the savants of England a few things than to learn anything from them.

The whole country should watch the future of this exceptionally modest bell boy with interest and confidence. For no matter what competition he is up against we're willing to wager, and also bet, that none of his competitors will be in the same class with him in coming to the "front."

THE QUALITY OF MERCY

We are wont to admire English justice intensely, with its speedy punishment for offenders. Undoubtedly it is administered more rationally in that country than in our own, with the result that crime is curbed to a considerable extent. But when one reads the repellent details of the hanging there of a man and woman for the murder of the latter's husband one is a bit grateful that mercy so frequently seasons justice in our own sentimental land.

There is something peculiarly barbaric in the thought that an unfortunate woman, so abject in her fear that she was dragged forth to have the noose slipped round her neck while she was unconscious, was shot into eternity in such a harsh fashion a few brief weeks before she would have become a mother. It reveals the growth of humanitarian opinion in England that it took several trucks to convey the signatures to petitions of clemency for the wretched woman to their destination. And assuredly the taking of one human life should not have been punished by killing three others.

When one reads of Ku Klux outrages and the frightful crimes that daily obtrude themselves into the public news one feels that humanity is sinking lower and lower. But the ready reaction of the mass of the people, as in this case in England, to what they consider a wrong shows that slowly we are stumbling a little ahead on the road to sympathy and compassion for our fellow-man. It is a bad world, but gradually, day by day, it is getting a little better.

THIS WAS "CRUELTY"

All of us who have ever lived in apartment-houses any length of time felt a wave of sympathy sweep over us the other day when we saw in the paper that a local woman is suing her husband for divorce because he threatened to join a band.

This sympathy, needless to say, was for the woman, no matter what was the sex of the reader. For all modern cliffdwellers know that there is no apartment-house, Lowell'er defended, but now and then harbors within its walls some man who has that same dream, or mania—who some dark and stormy night smuggles in under his coat a cornet or a be-flat clarinet and a thin volume telling how to become a Liberati in ten lessons, and immediately starts in to prove the book a liar.

If there is any class of artists which ought to be born, not made, it is band musicians. We all love bands. We'd hate to have to get along without them. But how we all would like to get along without the fellow who feels a yearn to be a bandman and does his practicing in the alleged privacy of his own apartment.

Why is it that such fellows are always so sad and melancholy? Did anybody ever hear one of them practicing anything but the most lugubrious of pieces? They so often make us think of the Dead March, and even earnestly wish that the latter were being played (by real musicians) in honor of some one we can think of at that moment.

It is cases like this one which make one realize what a blessing the divorce courts often are. And it wouldn't take any jury of apartment-house dwellers long to decide

A NEW CHARTER

There is uncontested wisdom in the proposal to elect a board of freeholders for the purpose of drafting a new municipal charter for the city of Los Angeles. The present charter is a patchwork affair, the result of a long series of amendments. At best, it is a makeshift.

Much of the political agitation of recent years has found a place in some form in that document. When the "progressives" were in the saddle they proposed many changes under the guise of reforms. But they were not elements of progress, but decadence.

It is fortunate for the people that some of those amendments have remained a dead letter; but, while they are in the charter, there is always the menace that some sudden gust of popular passion will cause them to enter into the actual administration of the municipal government.

One serious objection to the present charter is that it is not a constitution in the proper sense of that term, but a code of laws. Our citizens would protest most seriously if they were told that they are not competent to govern themselves, that the seat of legislative wisdom is not Los Angeles, but Sacramento. Under our present charter the hands of the Council are tied. Progress necessitates amendment of laws to keep abreast of the times. But the charter is static. The things written there cannot be amended except with the consent of the State Legislature.

While we have had little trouble with the Legislature in the past, the growing envy in the breast of those in the northern part of the State is likely to take visible form at any time in refusing to the citizens of Los Angeles some amendment that is vital to the progress of the city. Our experience with the redistricting of the Senate and Assembly districts should serve as a warning.

Our charter is inexcusably verbose. It contains something like 100,000 words. The Constitution of the United States contains less than 10,000. Why should a document for the government of a city contain ten times as many restrictions and inhibitions as that for the government of forty-eight commonwealths?

This bulk is occasioned by so many little men insisting on writing their ideas into the city charter. The time has surely arrived when this mass of inconsistencies should be discarded and a new charter written.

Too many things have been cut out of the original charter that should have been retained, and too many nonessentials have found their way in. Why, for instance, should it be necessary for us to ask the permission of the State Legislature to change the salary of the Mayor and other elective city officials? Are we not capable of regulating those things for ourselves?

A score of instances might be cited in which the veriest trivialities were written into the charter. They should be repudiated. Let us have a city charter worthy the most populous and most enterprising community of white men and women ever located on the shores of the great Pacific. And let us select men and women who unite to character and vision common sense to draft the document.

BOOTLEGGING AS A BUSINESS

In pre-Volstead days the prohibitionists used to assure us that prohibition did prohibit while the wet brethren used to solemnly warn us of what an awful loss of revenue a dry law would mean. But figures just announced seem to indicate that neither side knew what it was talking about, on those two points, at least. In 1922, in this district, fines collected from bootleggers amounted to more than $165,000, against a total tax of $73,466 on wholesale and retail liquor stocks in the same district in the last year before prohibition.

That disproves both those favorite assertions at once. But it also proves that bootlegging isn't by any means as safe and profitable a business as some people imagine it to be. People who go into the bootlegging business to make money, like most other criminals, at first underestimate the risks they are taking and the heavy penalties to which they make themselves liable.

It is really too bad that the bootlegging business cannot be analyzed in Department of Commerce reports as other businesses are, so that the percentage of profits and losses could be clearly shown, for probably simple acquaintance with the facts would put an end to four-fifths of the bootlegging without further argument about it. No sane person could compare the chances of profit with the chances of not only loss but punishment and consider bootlegging worth a hoot as a business proposition—at least, not in this part of the country.

When it becomes generally known that a man stands a better chance to succeed in life by common labor than by bootlegging, there will cease to be so much bootlegging. And then the pre-Volstead predictions of both sides will at last come true.

RISE OF THE HOUSE OF COOGAN

When you hear of a motion-picture concern signing up a 7-year-old boy to make four pictures for a cash bonus of half a million and 60 per cent of the profits, you are tempted to ask whether the talent of any one boy could really be worth such a munificent reward?

The answer is naturally, Yes. Else he wouldn't have received the offer. Or at least certain professional experts, basing their decision on the box-office receipts from his past performances, consider his popularity justifies the contract.

Which means that certain hard-headed business men believe the public is willing to pay this price—plus reasonable profits to the promoter—to see their favorite child actor on the silver screen.

Commercially, the value of any article, animal, vegetable or mineral, is what it will bring at the psychological moment when offered on the open market. By this showing the Jackie Coogan pay envelope has been fixed by the law of supply and demand.

Some will object that there must be many other children out of the millions so far uninvestigated equally capable of pleasing the public and yet they are not being offered any half million dollar bonuses for their services. To almost any mother her son appears to be a second Jackie Coogan.

No doubt somewhere in the bowels of the earth there are diamonds as large and as brilliant as the Koh-i-noor, but no one is buying them at Koh-i-noor prices. There are finer pearls in the ocean than those forming the Duchess of Marlborough's necklace, yet no one bids for them. Nor is flowers that waste their fragrance on the desert air.

Hero Stuff

A genius is not a genius till he has been discovered. The public has discovered Jackie Coogan.

Fitzgerald's "Omar Khayyam" would have remained unread today had not a bibliophile found a yellow copy of it on a dusty top shelf in a second-hand book store in a London back street.

Out of the multitudinous workers in Scotch mines there may be many blest with the same rich burr, the same inimitable mannerisms, the same fascinating little stage trot that made Harry Lauder the highest paid comedian on the vaudeville circuit. But Harry Lauder managed to get himself before the public and the others didn't. Hence they have remained just coal miners.

As to whether the art of a 7-year-old child can possibly equal the trained talents of the mature performer, that again all depends on whether the public taste prefers the natural to the artificial. The motion-picture public is a new kind of public with which the former patrons of the drama have no connection. To say that Jackie Coogan is as great an artist as Edwin Booth is to make an absurd comparison. That he is making more money in a few months than Booth made in a lifetime is because his public is reckoned in thousands where Booth's was counted in tens. In the last analysis, however, it will be the 10 per cent that will decide the permanent place of any artist a century hence.

But that has nothing to do with the prices paid now for popular favorites. Sufficient unto the day is the glory thereof, is the motto of the business men, since they are not catering to the tastes of posterity. John Bunny pictures are today as dead as Bunny himself.

Moreover, promoters would rather pay for talent already certified than go on long hunts after the two birds in the bush. Lights behind bushels and talents in napkins will never bull any market.

CAN IT BE DONE?

The extension division of the University of California is going to undertake teaching women how to drive motor cars—by mail.

It is remarkable how frequently nowadays persons and institutions announce that they are going to do things heretofore regarded as impossible. A new and amazing spirit of confidence seems to be cropping out everywhere. Maybe it is the Coueism in the air. Nothing seems too bold and unfeasible to attempt.

And yet, even in this age, one can but tremble for the prestige of the University of California in this latest venture, even while one admires.

One must admire, for if this new course can be taught successfully this will become a safer, happier land. But when one thinks how many automobile salesmen, beaus and even husbands have tried and tried in vain to teach women to drive, by personal instruction and demonstration, one can but wonder what marvelous brand of instructions the university has drawn up, to feel so confident.

Of course, it might direct driveresses to wear blinders when passing through downtown streets or anywhere where startling millinery or "What a fright of a dress!" might distract their eyes from the job in hand. Or it might tell them to remain perfectly calm when a fiercely-shrieking truck suddenly hurls itself on them from the ambush of a side street. Or that when they note, in the mirror which is intended to show what is behind, that the nose is red, they must simply forget it instead of reaching for the dear old powder rag. But such instructions would be useless, because commanding the impossible.

Almost every day, however, modern education amazes us with its achievements, so selves for disappointment. And though the hope be frail it still is thrilling. For only think what success might mean. Why, if the professors could work out a course which would really teach women to drive motor cars safely and with good judgment, they might even be emboldened to attempt to do the same thing with men!

DOMESTIC NOTE

According to the Memoirs of Methuselah the first hundred years are the hardest. After he had lived with his wife for a century he began to understand her and to appreciate her requirements. After that Methuselah got along nicely and sometimes there would be a stretch of fifty or sixty years without a cross word. The first century was the crucial period. That is why so many marriages in modern times go on the rocks. If both man and wife would practice amiability and manage to put up with each other for the first hundred years they would continue to the end. If they begin wrong the romance may be wrecked in the first hundred days.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

The Success Corpuscle

"A curious coincidence happened to me the other day," remarked the chief. "I had occasion to run around to one of our customers at his place of business and was met in the outer office by a cutesome young fellow who by the trotting harness he sported looked as if he were bound for a cakewalk or something and had just stopped over on his way to tend a switchboard for awhile. He looked up and was about to ask what I wanted, when the buzzer on his board began burring and he pushed in a plug.

"'Hello,' he said, 'Oh, this you, Bill? Glad you called. Say, Bill—'

"Then, apparently forgetting all about the fact that I was waiting, he gabbed on for eight minutes by my watch. He and 'Bill' discussed the weather, the football game, the 'phone service, a political outing they had attended a week before, and they were just about to make an appointment for something or other, when I walked up to him and told him if he didn't go straightaway in and tell the 'boss' I wanted to see him, that he might shortly thereafter enjoy a chance to try his eloquence persuading some unsuspecting employer to let him run his elevator or such. He hung up in a hurry.

"The coincidence," continued the chief, "was that just as I had left this office and got into a little bootblack's shop for a shoe shine, I'd no sooner got properly propped up in my chair when the 'phone in the tiny place began ringing. The bootblack made never a move, simply looked annoyed, and I have an idea he muttered something under his breath. The 'phone continued ringing. Apologizing to me, he strode over to it, and in a voice you could tell was angry, though he tried to restrain it, he said:

"'Hello—Oh, this you, Charlie? Say, Charlie, call me later. I'm too busy to talk.'

"Saying which, he hung up, came back to my chair, and apologizing again went at my shoes with more pep than before.

"Of course," concluded the chief, "this may not mean a fig, but if indications ever pointed to anything, the odds are all in favor of our first gay bird's, unless he comes to in time, continuing to tend switchboard or run an elevator or chew seeds for Polly to swallow, while it's a fairly certain bet that the second boy will soon boost his own bootblack store, maybe two or three in the neighborhood, maybe four or five, and who knows but he may some day run a large chain throughout the city or country. You never can tell what will happen when a man who is 'too busy to talk' gets on the job. Anyway, that bootblack has the success corpuscle in his makeup and he'll deserve all the good luck I'm sure he's going to have.

NATURE SKETCHES

1. California Deer

BY CHARLES L. EDWARDS, Ph. D.,
Director of Nature-Study, Los Angeles City Schools

Indian Creek gurgles through the narrow openings between granite rocks and boulders tumbled along the valley by some ancient glacier of the Siskiyou Mountains.

The Klamath National Forest trail follows first one bank and then the other, under yellow pines and white firs, skirting the water-loving willows and plunging boldly through a tunnel walled and overarched by sharp-spined branches of wild lilac.

The summer of 1914, when some of us were witnessing the remarkable primitive man experiment of Joe Knowles, only four other humans, two prospectors and two Indian herdsmen, hit that lonesome trail.

Once at a sudden turn into an open meadow, a doe faced me. She was timid and yet not frightened.

We both stood perfectly still, watching one another's faces, striving through some intuition to solve the mystery of another's thoughts and purposes.

At last the doe flirted her white tail and leisurely trotted away into the sunshine and I sauntered on through the woods.

Just at dawn a certain deer family would come to the salt-lick to satisfy the craving which every animal has.

The buck had three tines on each antler. The fawn was spotted like the flecks of sunshine scattered over the brown carpet of the forest.

The deer is the most beautiful of all the forest animals. Graceful in form, swift in motion, the stag with his splendid antlers and the doe with her wonderful eyes, excite our admiration and love.

The deer is a cousin of the cow, having two large fingers, the third and fourth, on each hand. The second and fifth fingers are reduced to remnants while the ancestral first finger has completely disappeared.

Each foot of the deer has the third and fourth toes well developed, the second and fifth rudimentary and the first wanting. The heavy nails have grown around the tips of fingers and toes as the hoofs.

It was interesting to sketch the tracks made in the damp sand around the salt-lick. After a short time I could follow the course of each member of the family, whether buck, doe, or fawn.

The finger-tip impressions differ from those of the toe tips and all give clear evidence of the state of mind and activity of the deer.

At one time the creature had been poking along nibbling the tender buds of shrubs, while again in sudden alarm he had leaped away from an approaching enemy.

In place of hollow horns the deer has solid bony antlers, rising from a pair of outgrowths of the front of the skull. At first the antlers are velvet-like knobs covered by skin, rich in blood vessels. Within the skin the blood rapidly deposits bone. Thus the antlers grow to full size. Finally the animal rubs off the velvet skin against trees, and the mating time, also the shedding of the horns, are cast off. First the tissue absorbed around the base of the antler is shed, leaving a stump a new set of horns grows out in the following year. The old antlers fall to the ground, like exposed roots wither away.

Starting with a single spike, the stag adds a new tine each year. In his own life history he repeats the ancient history of his race. It is revealed by fossil remains taken from the rock strata of the earth.

The earliest deer had no antlers. In successive later ages the two-pronged, three, four and five-pronged antlers appeared, and finally the arborescent antlers of the deer of today.

The deer originated in Asia. The species found in America migrated by way of the Bering Strait.

The deer, like the cow, has no upper front, or incisor, teeth. The stomach has four compartments. After having been swallowed, the food is brought back into the mouth and chewed a second time, mixed with more saliva and then swallowed for final digestion.

The blacktail deer is so named because the tail, held down and the white rump, with the extra large ears, also called the mule deer. This species is found in the Rocky Mountain region and in British Columbia and Alaska. The others inhabit the Pacific coast.

The blacktail lives among the broken hills, over which it bounds with such enemies as wolves, coyotes, wild cats and man. When alarmed its legs hold stiff and it bounds, meeting on the ground at the same time, this graceful creature springs swiftly up and does not touch the ground over the level spaces of the forest.

The blacktail will jump over the wall of a corral, or, if it finds a gate, through, between, or under the wires of a fence.

The buck is a solitary animal, asserting his dominance only in the moments of danger. He is usually silent, but sometimes he utters a few grunts. One or two fawns are born in May or June.

From Central California northward, the Pacific Coast blacktail is called the mule-deer, while eastward the Columbian blacktail ranges. The mule-deer usually bears in the district mentioned, learning to feel the shiny new horns in the velvet days and even weeks, by rubbing them against trees, without water other than that in the soap.

With astonishing speed it makes its way through the myriad branches of the forest, down, crouching low, to the ground and seek with a keen nose for the scrub oak, manzanita or mountain mahogany.

On dark nights the shy, graceful deer robs ranches of grain, fruit or melons, with such deer-like fulness that the angry rancher is seldom able to shoot them.

MAN'S LOQUACITY

BY SUSANNE PEROFF

The world does move, and times do change. A Los Angeles woman has sued her husband for divorce because he talked so much that her anguished nerves could stand his ceaseless flow of conversation no longer. Not infrequently has this been the piteous plaint of suffering members of the male sex, who have mustered sufficient courage to hie themselves to the divorce court for relief, but the reversal of the usual situation is most unique.

Now that the ice has been broken, and a precedent set, will other women avail themselves of this new cause for sundering the marriage ties? There is no doubt that many men do talk much too much, even though such an idea is rank heresy. The lawyer who discusses nothing but his dull cases, the physician who is forever enlivening an evening with the gruesome details of humanity's aches and pains, how bored their spouses must get with their single track conversation. But convention and the fear of not being popular has taught women to listen to the dullest disquisition with their faces frozen into an expression of ecstatic enjoyment, the while they may be cursing the talker under their breath. Hints on how to be popular always lay great stress on being a fine listener, and drinking in any details that a masculine gabber may pass out, with an expression of unalloyed delight.

Those who hail the passing of the old order of man's supremacy will crown the lady in this case with laurel. Perhaps the time may come when a woman may brag about herself a little of an evening, instead of listening to the lords of creation recount their prowess in the domain of business, profession and hearts.

IN THE CRADLE OF MANKIND

Archeologists hesitate to forecast concerning the Ur expedition for fear of underestimating. From any one of a half-dozen scientific points of view the possibilities are startling. At Nippur was found a wholly new version of Creation, Paradise, the Flood and the Fall of Man. Dr. Langdon, who translated it, asserts it is a copy of an earlier story originating in the southern country known as Sumer, of which Ur was the cultural, religious and perhaps the business center for thousands of years. The Sumerians were a non-Semitic race, whose origin is lost. Ur may yield legends at least of the vast prehistoric migration that eventually wrought the magnificent civilization of Mesopotamia. Certainly it will carry the origins of laws

Why the teeth of a child are safe with Listerine Tooth Paste

Paste makes your mouth water. The fruit acids of apple, grapes, grapefruit and orange are at work helping Nature in her own way.

It cleans but cannot injure tooth enamel

We have chosen exactly the right cleansing agent for Listerine Tooth Paste. It is a substance just hard enough to polish off the daily accumulations of tartar. Yet it is not hard enough to injure even the most delicate tooth enamel. You have that comfortable feeling of knowing your tooth paste is doing its work—yet doing it safely.

Watch how it whitens and brightens your teeth

Procure a tube of this delicious dentifrice from your nearest drug dealer. The price is 25c. Give it a thorough trial. Notice how your teeth respond—how that natural white gleam is restored. You'll be delighted with the results and you'll want no other dentifrice from this time on.

Made by the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic

Naturally, you would expect a long established firm like the Lambert Pharmacal Company to provide you with a scientifically correct dentifrice—or none at all. It took this company years to perfect this paste for you. We are sure it is right—and the price is also right.

"It makes your mouth water"

Latest dental research has thoroughly established the fact that a dentifrice should contain mild fruit acids to stimulate the saliva which Nature provides to keep your teeth and gums healthy. Soapy ingredients cannot do this because soaps are alkaline. They discourage saliva flow and bring on tooth decay. Note how Listerine Tooth Paste does.

Listerine Tooth Paste is safe and efficient

—because it contains the correct polishing agent; removes tartar safely; can't injure the enamel;

—because it contains mild fruit acids (instead of harmful soaps and alkalies) to stimulate the saliva that Nature intended to keep your teeth healthy;

—because it contains the healing antiseptic essential oils contained in Listerine.

—the paste that's right at the price that's right

Miss Ellen Courtney

EASY ROAD LEADS TO JAIL

Fiance Gone, Girl Turns to Bad Checks to Get Clothing and Education, is Assertion

The easiest road to wealth proved to be the shortest road to prison for Ellen Courtney last night.

Miss Courtney is 25 years of age. She had a sweetheart and had built her hopes on the coming wedding, but the man she was to marry disappeared and her air castles crumbled. She was taken ill and then came an operation which heaped up her unpaid bills.

To pay the bills Miss Courtney sought employment, but she learned, she says, that jobs are obtained with pretty clothes. She had no money and obtained pretty dresses by the easiest way. She bought them in downtown stores with fictitious checks, she confessed.

Arrayed in the pretty clothes she again sought work. She then learned that girls seldom get jobs in offices if they have had no business training. She passed more fictitious checks to get the price of a business training. Her career as an amateur fictitious check passer was halted suddenly last night when she was arrested at the intersection of Sixth street and Broadway by Operatives J. K. Law and H. E. Hurley of the Nick Harris Detectives.

"When he ran away from me I didn't care what happened to me," she sobbed after her arrest. "I was despondent and discouraged. I was broke and without friends and needed employment.

"I couldn't get a job without swell duds and when I got the clothes I was told I needed a business education and I tried to get that. I'm a poor story teller—but that's my story. I did learn, though, that the business of bum checks is a bum business."

FEEBLE MIND COLONY ENDS

warded the letter to E. G. Twogood, acting Director of Institutions, with instructions that plans and specifications for the purchase of land and erection of buildings be prepared.

WANT HOME IN SOUTH

The abandonment of the colony has resulted in the launching of a campaign, sponsored by the Psychopathic Association, for the establishment of a Southland home for feeble-minded children. The fight will be carried to Gov. Richardson, Mrs. W. S. James, secretary of the association, declared last night. There are more than 300 children who must be taken care of at once, she asserts. More than four out of every 100 children attending Los Angeles public schools are below average in mentality and must be given special instruction, statistics prepared by the association show. Only one in every four of the feeble-minded children is now receiving training in special classes.

The association also intends to present a bill to the Legislature relative to the countrol of feeble-minded persons of more than 21 years of age, who are not now taken care of by the State, Mrs. James said.

Forty prominent doctors, business men and clubwomen are members of the Psychopathic Association. At Tuesday night's meeting Judge Paul J. McCormick of the Superior Court was elected Judge L. W. Myers's successor as vice-president. Judge Myers resigned upon accepting his recent appointment to the State Supreme Court.

OUR DOLLAR ARISTOCRAT OF FINANCE

American Cash Commands Exchange Homage of World, Speaker Tells KHJ

The American dollar is the magnavox of the world, this thought was advanced to listeners in last night from KHJ when James Schermerhorn, just returned from a study of financial conditions abroad, who is to speak tonight to members of the Los Angeles Realty Board, made a brief address on "The Dollar Bill Abroad."

It is Mr. Schermerhorn's theory that while money talks, it speaks in varying tones, the real, basso-profundo notes emanating from the American dollar at the present time. Specifically, it might be said that the pound sterling can make itself heard above a crowd, the franc is audible to a select few, the mark has but a feeble, asthmatic whisper, the ruble is dumb, but the American dollar talks loudest of any measure of monetary value.

Mr. Schermerhorn's experiences abroad convinced him that the American tourist in Europe finds the conversion of American money into the coin of continental Europe staggers. Changing the American dollar into francs makes a moderate amount of money seem like a fortune. Conversion of American greenbacks into Italian money is the equivalent of gilding their backs with gold. Silver dollars in Berlin are equivalent to having free and easy access to the mint, while in Russia the old weekly expense money makes one feel that he owns the world and all that's in it.

In Madreia the dollar triples in value, in Algiers, it grows again threefold in purchasing power, in Italy it quadruples itself, in Greece it jumps to 1500 per cent, and in Moscow you can trade your leather pocketbook for a gunny-sack full of rubles. In Austria, where once the American dollar was equivalent to five kronen, that same dollar today buys 75,000 kronen. The German mark, once requiring only four to make a dollar, now has depreciated until it takes 18,181 to make a hundred cents in American money.

Mr. Schermerhorn's address was presented in such interesting style that it held attention to the end, listeners-in telephoning to The Times at its close that it gave them new ideas on world finance.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO MRS. BIXBY

Three-Year Spree, Broken by Periods of Sobriety, is Basis of Complaint

Testimony that her husband had gone on what she described as a three-year spree with interludes of sobriety, won a divorce yesterday for Mrs. Helen Bixby from Richard A. Bixby, clubman of Long Beach and grandson of the late Jotham Bixby, known as the "father of Long Beach." The decree was granted by Judge Summerfield.

"His only business seemed to be amusing himself," Mrs. Bixby testified. "He had bibulous habits and drank almost continuously during the last three years. Liquor made him sleepy and he would embarrass me by coming home intoxicated and immediately going to sleep."

She testified further that she had never known her husband to work. His only occupation seemed to be "golfing and shooting," she declared. During the trial Mrs. Bixby revealed that the money for their support came from Bixby's mother, widow of the late George H. Bixby, millionaire Long Beach resident.

Corroborative testimony as to Bixby's habits and character was given by Mrs. Mattie H. Perkins, mother of Mrs. Bixby, and Valentine Beetz, a woman friend of the wife. Mrs. Perkins testified that Bixby's habits ruined his own and her daughter's life.

Under an agreement reached previously, Mrs. Bixby is to receive $300 a month for the support of herself and their child. This sum is to be increased gradually as the child grows older. The alimony money, the wife indicated, probably will come from Bixby's mother. The Bixbys are prominent in Southern California.

NERVOUS WOMAN COMPLETE WRECK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Indianapolis, Ind.—"Now I want to tell you just what induced me to take your medicine. It seemed that I had some kind of weakness so that I could not carry a child its full time. The last time I was troubled this way I had a nervous breakdown and was a complete wreck. The doctor thought I would not live, and if I did that I would never be well and strong again. But I told them I was going to get well, that I was not going to die just then. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took six bottles of it. People and Their Troubles

Listen, World!

WRITTEN AND ILLUSTRATED By Clive Robinson

The reason the old-fashioned evangelists lost their grip was that they located Hell in the wrong place. First they stuck it in the center of the earth and promised sinners a sojourn there during eternity. As the middle of the earth was a long way off, and eternity still a longer, naturally all the more enterprising sinners took a chance and sinned while the sinning was good.

Finding that didn't work, the evangelists next dug up Hell and turned it loose in the immediate proximity, liable to arrive on the scene of crime at any instant. All sorts of melodramatic punishments were promised the erring ones—sensational visitations of the wrath of God. Unfortunately, God didn't back them up in their publicity work. He dislikes stage effects—His methods being much more subtle.

When the "sensational visitations" didn't arrive as per schedule, the sinners concluded that this new kind of Hell could be avoided by dodging—or pretending to be something you weren't. Dodging and hypocrisy became the fashion, but the game was really so easy that many didn't even bother to dodge or pose.

However . . . Hell got 'em all the same. You can't escape God. The evangelists were mistaken, but the sinners were even more mistaken. Hell isn't a fiery zone in the hereafter. It isn't an outward conflagration which you can cleverly duck. It's a seared place within your spirit, from which no new grass of joy will ever grow again. That's Hell—and you can't dodge that.

Question: What is the lightest substance known? H. G.

Answer: Hydrogen is the lightest. Atmospheric air is fourteen and one-half times the weight of hydrogen.

Q.: What is the difference between a meadow and a pasture? N. E. D.

A.: Pastures differ from meadows in the character and habits of the plants which grow upon them. Whereas, meadow grasses and other plants are usually tall-growing and ready to cut all at one time, the herbage of pastures is generally low-growing and the various species reach maturing at various times throughout the season.

Q.: Is it good form to say "Mrs. Dr. Hall has returned"? C. B.

A.: There is no expression more provincial and hence more to be avoided than "Mrs. Dr. Hall" or "Mrs. Gen. Grant." Her husband's occupation has no effect upon the mode of address. Should the woman be a physician she would be addressed "Dr. Hall."

Q.: What State first recognized osteopathy? J. G. R.

A.: Osteopathy received its first legal recognition by the Legislature of Vermont in 1896.

Q.: Is the dromedary noted for its speed? T. F. A.

A.: Originally the name was given to a camel of unusual speed, especially bred and trained for riding. Today the Arabian or one-humped camel is known as a dromedary, as distinguished from the Bactrian or two-humped camel.

Q.: When will Easter Sunday be this year? A. O.

A.: Easter will fall on the first day of April.

Q.: When were the first cotton mills erected in the North and South? W. T. L.

A.: The first cotton mill in the United States was that of Samuel Slater, established at Pawtucket, R. I., in 1791. It is known as the Old Mill. Mrs. Ramage, widow of a South Carolina planter, was the first to undertake the establishment of a factory in that section. The mill was erected at James Island, near Charleston, in 1787. Three years later a factory was built at Statesboro, S. C.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES"

Save the Highways

PASADENA, Jan. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I wish to suggest a solution to the problem of the preservation of the public highways. There have been many men with many ideas regarding construction and material for formation of the highways, but while even engineers disagree on those points, all agree that the highways of California, with all their faults, are, as is, sufficient to take care of the traffic of pleasure cars indefinitely without serious deterioration—it is the trucks and trailers and buses that cause the damage which is due to overloading. There have been limits placed, but the limits are limited to signboards giving the maximum weight, etc., and a few arrests, but inasmuch as a little load measured by bulk may outweigh manyfold a bulky load, what chance has a motor cop of catching the cheaters, who to save a few dollars will destroy thousands of dollars of public highway?

My solution is to have standard scales installed on all main highways entering and leaving all cities, or even good-sized towns, and require each and every truck or bus to drive onto these public scales and be weighed by an official, and if found to be overweight to be required to turn back as well as be fined. Of course the turning back to the original loading point is the real efficient sting. People will take a chance on a fine but when once it was established as a fact, and a week after such a policy went into effect it would be established, that no vehicle could get by with an overload, why, operators of trucks and buses would observe the law, for it would be cheaper to do it than to have to do it. (I can give you details if you desire for the workings of the system.)

While on the subject of traffic regulations, I wish to say that Philadelphia is a city three times as large as Los Angeles, with streets averaging less width than Los Angeles, yet the traffic is handled with less trouble than here. One-way traffic for both street cars and motor cars does it.

The old joke about Philadelphia being slow and asleep is old stuff. I was Detroit manager for a Philadelphia firm for ten years and visited the old city many, many times, and it certainly is not slow or asleep—decidedly not.

J. WALTER SCOTT.

Wrong and Glorious in It

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am one of the inferior sex that has no sense. I am one of the despised many who do not learn by the experience of others. I am one of those whom the men glare at, the press jeers at, the conductor shouts at. I am one of those horrible females who commit the hideous sin of getting off a street car "backwards."

I get off backward because it is the simplest way for me to get off. I do it for the same reason that I hold a telephone receiver to my left ear. It is an awkward for me to get off a street car facing front as it is to hear through my right ear at the telephone, and that is all but impossible, even though my hearing is equally perfect in both ears.

I always and invariably carry my shopping bag, my parasol, bundles and golf bag all in my left hand, in order to leave my right hand free for whatever is needed. I like to be ready for immediate and speedy action, to get at my car fare easily, to write a check at a counter without putting down the things I am carrying, to clutch, perchance, at my hat, merrily leaving my head at a windy crossing, to dive after change for one of the all too numerous beggars dotting our street; most of all, to hang to a strap in the car, squeezed between a fat lady and a thin man's dinner pail. I could no more trust my young and valued life to a strap held by my left hand than I could expect to get a seat in any car on any line in any direction at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. I am distinctly and irrevocably right-handed, so when the car stops I naturally reach with my right hand for the brass bar, and that, through no fault of mine, but rather of the car architect, lets me down backward. I confess to it, I rather exult in it; I shall continue in it. It may be unwise, it may be foolish, it may infuriate all right-thinking and careful conductors, but still I may be observed any bright and sunny day on a downtown car, serenely, safely and joyfully descending the car steps, backward!

GEORGIA MAXWELL.

Suppression of Crime

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—[To the Editor of the Times:] Having read several letters in your paper from correspondents, re the suppression of crime, and the better government and control of your City allow me to offer a few further suggestions bearing on both these matters.

With regard to crime, one of your contributors proposes to suppress it by prohibiting the manufacture of small-arms, and the distribution thereof to irresponsible parties, to which I would add a clause, also prohibiting the sale of small-arms ammunition.

All breakers of law and order, such as burglars, holdups, and other evil doers who carry firearms in order to intimidate, threaten and rob, inoffensive citizens, should be sentenced in all cases to a few strokes of the "cat," in addition to their jail term.

All cafes, restaurants, bars, dance halls, and other public places of entertainment should be closed promptly at midnight, and all automobile drivers found lurking in the streets, between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m.:—except those holding special permits—such as doctors etc.—should be arrested, and heavily fined, and all abandoned cars left on the streets should be impounded.

Between the hours of 1 a.m. and 5 a.m. swift police autos and motor cycles should constantly patrol the streets, to keep these regulations in force.

One more word about the congested thoroughfares—this condition is largely augmented by the continual tearing up of the streets, and I should really like to know how much the City expends annually in this kind of work and whether it wouldn't be more economical in the end, to construct small permanent brick or cement subways to contain all pipes, wires, and etc., made with manholes at convenient distances and big enough to admit of all inspections, and repairs, without disturbing the street surface, or interfering with the daily traffic.

E. TAYLOR.

In Not Suggestion

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The statement of a recent speaker over KHJ that the growth of Christian Science is due to suggestion is as surprising as his other assertion that "Christianity has leavened the world with it." For Christian Science and Christianity are one and are based entirely upon the teachings of Jesus that God is the only cause and creator and that there is no other power governing man and the universe. No basis can be found either in the Bible or in the teachings of Christian Science for the use of suggestion or any of the other operations of the so-called human mind in solving any of the problems of life.

Of course, the claim of the human mind that it has all power over man is as old as history. Jesus was charged by the Pharisees with casting out devils by Beelzebub, the prince of devils. But his answer that Satan cannot cast out Satan and a house divided against itself cannot stand (Mark iii. 23-26) is an entire repudiation of the human mind as having any power whatever, and his statement in conclusion, as given in Matthew, that "if I cast out devils by the spirit of God, then the Kingdom of God is come unto you," is a definite and positive declaration of his recognition of God as the only power.

Paul, in his epistle to the Romans, pointed out the distinction between the human or carnal mind and that spiritual mindedness or understanding which is of God. He says that "the carnal mind," or "mind of the flesh," according to the revised version, "is enmity against God, for it is not subject to the law of God, neither, indeed, can be." (Romans viii. 7.)

If God is the only cause and creator—the only power—then the operations of the human or fleshly mind, such as suggestion or will power, being enmity against God, must be without principle or power. For if they have power then there must be a power opposed to God, which is manifestly impossible.

Mary Baker Eddy sums up the matter completely when she says on page 103 of Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures: "In reality there is no mortal mind, and consequently no transference of mortal thought and will power. Life and being are of God."

One Guilty of Girl's Charges; Two Acquitted

John Navarro, one of three youths accused of committing a statutory offense against Dorothy Cox, 14-year-old San Fernando High School girl, was convicted by a jury yesterday in Judge Reeve's Superior Court. The verdict was reached after the jury had been locked up over night. John Lopez and Victor Gonzales, jointly accused, were acquitted.

According to testimony during the trial, Dorothy Cox left her home on September 15 last, and went to San Fernando to buy a pair of tennis shoes. She missed a street car and was offered an automobile ride home by the three young men. She testified that after she passed her home she lost consciousness and did not regain it until three days later, when she was found in a park. Some of her clothes and the tennis shoes were found in Navarro's room, according to the testimony.

Lopez and Gonzales, who were represented by Jesse R. Shafer, were released. Navarro, represented by H. G. Higgins, will appear for sentence Monday. He faces a sentence of from one to fifty years.

Sewage System Change Sought by Alhambra

The City of Alhambra, through its legal representatives, yesterday appeared before the State Board of Health asking permission to install a new sewage-disposal system which, it is explained, it is planned to join with the municipal system already in use by Pasadena. Bonds to the amount of $100,000 to finance the Alhambra improvement were voted in June last.

FAT POETS NOW WOOING MUSES

Rhymsters Are Subject at Ebell Luncheon

Specifications for Verse Writers Changed

Obese New York Laureates Are Discussed

BY MYRA NYE

The breed of poets has changed. Formerly they were tall and lean. Now they are broad and fat. Nesta Marquis, who is an old-fashioned poetess from Los Angeles, is authority for this statement yesterday made at the guest luncheon of the Ebell Club.

Miss Marquis is old-fashioned because she is built according to the old-fashioned specifications for a poet, tall, slender, aesthetic, dainty and long-haired. In talking of the fat poets of New York she topped the list with Amy Lowell, who is the high priestess of vers libre, so fat. Miss Marquis says, that one-half of her does not know what the other half is doing.

One of the sights of New York is to see Amy Lowell in the clubrooms of the Poetry Society more than filling a very big chair and smoking a big black cigar.

Miss Marquis was asked in New York if Los Angeles was altogether cigarettely pure and she was glad to reply, she said, that the literary club to which she belongs had to sign a lease which had the provision that if they met in the Ebell clubhouse there should be no smoking. And all New York — that is literary New York—smiled. And to think that all evil is supposed to come out of the West and Hollywood, they said.

OTHERS CHEER

Other successful fat poets whom Miss Marquis met and included in her mention were: Marguerite Wilkenson, who is "buxom;" Don Marquis, who "bleeds and dies individually for each pound of fat he sheds;" Ben Field, formerly of Los Angeles; Bob Davis, formerly editor of Munsey's but "doing" poetry with avidity now and growing fatter and fatter as he muses.

Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long in introducing Miss Marquis said that one of the most wonderful sights in the world and one to make the most prosaic thrill was to see New York Broadway at night in a snow storm and Miss Marquis answered: It is a thrill that I have missed. I was born in Los Angeles and have never seen a snow flake. I have seen snow lying on the ground, but never in the act of coming down."

DAY FOR POETS

It was a day for poets, for the three who spoke were Ernest McGaffey, famous for his "Sonnets to a Wife," and John S. Daggett, head of the radio department of The Times.

Mr. McGaffey, who preceded Miss Marquis, made the iconoclastic statement quite at variance with hers that there are no poets in these days. To be a poet, he said, one must be dead a hundred years, when the people of the nation are singing the dead man's verse with increasing frequency.

Mrs. Long paid him the tribute, however, of saying he had made one of the most scholarly and beautiful talks in that line of any ever heard in that room, whose walls re-echoed with the brilliant and beautiful epigrams of famous people.

Free verse, said Mr. McGaffey, was only verbal filigree, while poetry was attained only when the poet spent his heart's blood in the quest for beauty.

How do we have so many poets? asked some one of this poet after reading a lot of verse in the daily paper.

The answer is simple," said Mr. McGaffey, "we haven't."

OPPORTUNITY MISSED

At the close of the session Mrs. Long told the final chapter—or perhaps it is only the preface to a new story concerning the copies of old masters, that Agnes Bouroughs Nation last winter brought to Los Angeles and through the Ebell Club introduced to the city hoping the Supervisors or the City Council would take action to purchase them.

To Ebell's great disappointment, as well as Mrs. Nation's personal chagrin, they were not considered favorably; Ebell felt that the city, striving to be an art center, had missed a rare opportunity, Mrs. Nation, chagrined because other cities had asked for the chance to make an offer for her art prints and she had refused because she loved this city best.

"The other day in New York two capitalists approached Mrs. Nation and upon finding that she had no contract with Los Angeles made her an offer much larger than she asked here. The contract for their sale is made. These capitalists will send Mrs. Nation to Europe this spring to add to them and immediately they will erect a Temple of Art to hold them. They will give them to New York City as one of their most valued treasures.

"We are glad for our friend, Mrs. Nation, who is a member of our club," said Mrs. Long, "but we are sorry for our city."

RECIPE CONTEST REGISTERS HIT

Domestic Experts Rally to "The Times'" Offer

Southland Women Show Skill at Home Cooking

Contestants Should be Sure to Observe Rules

The Times' recipe contest has been received with enthusiasm by Southern California housewives.

The first contest, which opened the 13th inst., and will close Saturday, the 27th inst., already has crowded the mails with hundreds and hundreds of recipes for soups and appetizers. Unfortunately, many of those who submitted recipes for The Times' prizes did not read the rules carefully, and their suggestions could not be considered.

But there were hundreds who did, and the net result is a basketful of original recipes which prove that Southern California is far advanced in the art of home cooking.

When the first contest closes the 27th inst., a second will begin with prizes for the best methods of preparing fish or the best fish sauce. Contestants should see that their recipes conform closely to the rules, as on this account many otherwise excellent suggestions may fail of consideration. Name and address must be given on each recipe submitted.

Those submitting recipes should be very careful not only to study the rules thoroughly but be sure they sign their names and addresses to each recipe submitted.

Recipes containing trade-marked names will not be considered.

Herewith are published some of the first recipes received.

PEANUT BUTTER CANAPES, A LA CALIFORNIA

Six buttered toast rounds; peanut butter; thick mayonnaise dressing or well-moistened cream cheese; narrow strips of green and red peppers; spread toast rounds lightly with peanut butter and place alternately on them the strips of red and green peppers, pressing them firmly into place. Arrange the mayonnaise or cheese around the edge with (or without) a pastry bage and tube. Serve on small plates covered with doilies and garnish with parsley spriga.—[Miss Myrtle Minkler, 133 West Twenty-fourth street.

GOLDEN WEST CRAB FLAKE COCKTAIL IN GREEN PEPPER CUPS

Five green peppers well shaped; six tablespoons lemon juice; one-fourth teaspoon curry powder; one and one-fourth cups crab flakes (cut into inch lengths;) six tablespoons catsup; one tablespoon horseradish; one-fourth teaspoon worcestershire; lettuce hearts; cut the peppers in halves crosswise, removing the seeds and core, rinse in cold water, dry and fill with a sauce made of the catsup, lemon juice and other ingredients. Place on a bed of lettuce hearts, arrange on individual plates and dispose the flakes on the leaves around the base of each cup. Tiny sandwiches should be passed with them.—[Miss Myrtle Minkler, 133 West Twenty-fourth street.

FRUIT SOUP

Three quarts of water; juice of one lemon and one slice of lemon; one pint blackberry juice; six sour apples; one cup prunes; half cup raisins; half cup sago; cook the apples and the prunes in the water until tender; add sago and cook until the sago is clear. Then add the blackberry juice, the raisins, the lemon juice and slice and sweeten to taste. Cook a few minutes and serve cold.—[Miss Varina Starck, 1270 Elysian Park avenue.

RAW TOMATO SOUP

To each pint of very ripe, bright red tomato mashed to a liquid add one tablespoon heart of celery diced very fine, one tablespoon white part of young onion diced fine, one teaspoon each of green pepper and parsley chopped fine, olive oil one tablespoonful, white wine vinegar or lemon juice one tablespoonful, a dash of red pepper and paprika and salt to taste. Mix oil and tomato well together, chill and serve with thin bran bread or rye saddwiches filled with cream or celery cheese mixedw ith green pepper.—[Miss Margaret West, 748 Garland avenue.

SPANISH BEANS

Wash and cut in one-half pieces one pound fresh green beans. Dice two slices of bacon and fry a light brown, adding one sliced onion. Pour the beans in with the onion and bacon adding one-half cup water and let simmer one hour. Season with chili pepper and add one cup of strained tomatoes. Salt to taste.—[Mrs. James H. Taylor, 1189 West Thirty-sixth street.

SPANISH POTATO CROQUETTES

Rice two cups of hot boiled potatoes. Add butter and yolks of two eggs and two tablespoonfuls of pimiento puree. Season to taste, shape and dip in breadcrumbs. Fry in deep fat and drain before serving.—[Mrs. James H. Taylor, 1189 West Thirty-sixth street.

HOT TAMALE PIE

Cut six large onions into slices and fry in two tablespoons of bacon grease. Cook hamburg or ground boiling meat five minutes. Add one can of tomatoes, one-half pint of olives, one tablespoonful of chili powder. Make a thick mush of cornmeal and water, or use beef broth and meal. Line a deep pan with the meal and pour in the mixture. Cover the top with the mush and bake.—[Mrs. James H. Taylor, 1189 West Thirty-sixth street.

"TIMES" RECIPE CONTEST

Readers of The Times are invited to participate in a series of culinary contests in which this journal will pay cash prizes for the best recipes submitted. There will be six contests, each lasting two weeks. In each contest the best recipe submitted will win a first prize of $10, the next best $7.50 and the third best $3. In addition to these there will be two special prizes of $10 and $5 for the two best recipes for Spanish dishes. These Spanish-dish recipes may be submitted at any time during the twelve weeks, or until April 7. All other recipes must be submitted before the end of the two weeks allotted to the contest in which each is intended as an entry.

The first contest began January 13, and closes Saturday, January 27. It is a contest for the best recipe for a soup or an appetizer. The winners will be announced in The Times on Saturday, February 3.

The second contest, which will be for the best recipe for preparing fish or a fish sauce, will begin January 27, and close February 10. Winners will be announced February 17.

The third contest will be for the best recipe for preparing meat or a meat sauce. It will run from February 10 to February 24. Winners will be announced March 3.

The fourth contest, to run from February 24 to March 10, will be for the best recipe for the preparation of vegetables. Winners announced March 17.

The fifth contest, March 10 to March 24, will be for the best salad or salad dressing. Winners announced March 31.

The sixth contest will run from March 24 to April 7. It will be for the best recipe for a dessert. This may be cake, pastry or frozen or moulded desserts. Winners in this and in the special Spanish-dish contest will be announced April 14.

Honorable mention will be given worthy recipes which do not win prizes.

The Times reserves the right to print any recipe submitted in its columns or in book form. In such case the name of the author will also appear.

Recipes must be written on one side of the paper only, must be legible and plainly marked with the name and address of the author.

No manuscripts will be returned.

It is not necessary to be a subscriber to The Times to compete. Anyone may enter any or all of the contests, submitting as many recipes as desired.

Originality, economy and adaptability to Southern California conditions will be considered in judging the recipes. Contestants should submit only recipes that have been thoroughly tested out in their own kitchens.

Specify exact amounts of ingredients, using level measurements. Do not use trade-marked names of ingredients.

Recipes should be sent in as early as possible. A recipe may be sent in before the actual start of the contest in which it is entered but in this case the fact must be noted at the top.

Address all recipes to The Times Recipe Editor, Times Building, Los Angeles.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor:

"So far I am only two and one-half pounds overweight, but my general trend is upward. What I want to ask is, should a person only a few pounds overweight follow the same program as a person forty or fifty pounds overweight? I have an inclination to bronchial trouble. Otherwise I am nearly perfectly well. P. B."

I like this, that our column is interesting persons in keeping their normal weight as well as those who are reducing and gaining their weight. You are very wise, Mrs. P., to begin to have concern about yourself now, for if your trend is upward now is the time to get busy. This kind of an upward trend, contrary to usual upward trends, should be discouraged rather than encouraged. It is much easier to prevent overweight than it is to get rid of it. A pound in time saves nine.

Probably one low calorie day a week, of 500 or 600 calories during the day, would keep you at normal weight, or you can cut out half your bread and butter. You can have your calories of anything you like when you go on low C. days. Ten ounces of skim milk is 100C's. Five ounces of whole milk is the same. Two moderate-sized apples, a big orange, a small grapefruit, one banana, thirty ounces of consomme (fat free,) three ounces of cream soup, each are 100 calories. You can have our list of foods with their caloric value if you wish it. Send the a. a. a. e. with your request.

I think if you take some special trunk and chest exercises they will be good for your incipient bronchial condition. Sometimes certain foods aggravate bronchial troubles. See if you can discover if there are any that are aggravating yours. Have you had your chest examined? I would do that if I were you.

Mrs. C.: There are various forms of rheumatism and rheumatic pains. If you have acute articular rheumatism and if the joints swell and are painful, you should be under the care of a physician. That form is due to a germ. Germs are microscopic plants. Most germs are beneficial, but some forms, such as those causing acute articular rheumatism, are poisonous—just as some of the plants you can see with the naked eye are poisonous.

These vicious pests which cause a.a.r. usually gain access to the body through a case of acute tonsilitis. They settle on the tonsils and do a little dirty work there, then get the wanderlust and travel by the blood stream and settle in the joints.

Many muscular rheumatic pains are due to antiintoxication caused by overeating and an unbalanced dinet. Most overweght persons suffer from rheumatic pains and they lose them pronto when they reduce their weight. We have thousands of letters testifying to this.

Mrs. X.: So you have gained twenty pounds since you started and you certainly praise my good works. I am happy that you have had such good results.

I was eating lunch with a thin girl yesterday. We had chicken a-la-King. I ate all of mine. I noticed she had eaten less than one-half of hers. She wants to gain and asks me how, so I pointed out to her how little she had eaten of her chicken even though she said she liked it. I told her to finish it and she did, under protest.

Last evening I saw her again and she said she believed my theory of stretching the stomach was going to work for she found she was able to eat a larger dinner than she had been in the habit of doing and she was happy over it.

This is pretty quick work but I believe I have her started on the right path. I happen to know that she is thin simply because she hoes not eat enough for her activities.

THE NEW

IN STORES AND HOMES

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Grey

UP-TO-DATE?

For men who would follow the mode in scarves the newest fad is the diagonal stripe in silk or silk-and-wool. Colors are rather sombre in these; browns with narrowish stripes in blue, rose, violet; gray in browns or the brighter tints and some in self-colors of darker tone.

With the higher necklina, women who like to go tailored are adopting the stock of cotton, linen or silk. When perfectly fresh—tied for the first time after laundering—these stocks are the most charming of neckwear. Some of those in silk are in grays, browns and other neurtal shades, with bright contrasts in somewhat wide stripes. Clear white or linen color are liked in cottons and in linens. That the effect of these stocks is somewhat after the mode of the riding habit, detracts none from their likeableness.

Wholesome For Kiddies

The value of fruits, both fresh and dried, as a wholesome food for children, cannot be over estimated. During the interval when fresh fruits are scarce, dates, prunes and figs are available and inexpensive and these work wonders in restoring and preserving a healthful condition. Prunes, when soaked over night, may be cooked in a few moments and when served without sugar are both appetizing and beneficial. Dates and figs may be used as substitutes for confections which not only do not benefit, but may injure the little one. These fruits may also be cooked in breakfast foods or in simple cakes for luncheon or dinner. It is a mistake to allow children to eat the rich pastries and cakes too frequently indulged in by their elders. Simple diet, plenty of fresh air and exercise are the best of preservatives and restoratives.

Parisian Compromise

No, no! Not compromising, although tending toward the shorter skirt! Gladys writes me from Paris that some of the newest gowns have slips fully twelve inches from the ground. To be sure there are floating panels all around which reach the ankle length; but many hail the brevity of the lower skirt as a tendency toward the return of the short skirt.

A Doll Spread

Among the many uses of dolls which may be said to be a present-day craze, that of covering the unsightly pincushion all abristle with its utilitarian articles, is most interesting. The wide, full skirts of the lady doll serve to conceal the cushion wholly from view and the bisque lady is a genuine ornament, while thus at work. The doll fad seems to gain in momentum, rather than to subside, as the season grows. Gay ribbons are usually put to use as the dress of the dainty figures.

Justice Baird Bears Heavily on Speeders

Justice Baird yesterday heard a good many cases, assessed fines totaling $467.50, of which $3870.50 was collected and sent several law-breakers to jail.

H. A. Kerr received ten days in jail or $50 fine for driving fifty miles an hour on the Mint Canyon Road. Arthur Thomas of Highland went to jail for twenty-five days for reckless driving on the Valley Boulevard. Both preferred to go to jail for thirty days rather than pay a fine of $150 for reckless driving on Alameda Boulevard.

For crossing the intersection at Adams Boulevard and Florence Avenue at the rate of twenty-nine miles per hour, Joseph Belanger was fined $75, which he paid. L. L. Hoover paid a like sum for driving at the rate of twenty-seven miles per hour over an intersection. Charles W. Lawrence was fined $50 for a like offense, and Ora F. Singer was fined $150 each for reckless driving.

Canary Chorus? Radio Listener Unappreciative

The pessimist's creed, "Believe nothing you hear and only half you see," should not apply to radio, but here is a concrete example of where it did. A local dealer in radio supplies had tuned in the noontide program from KHJ and the "canary chorus" was furnishing an obbligato to a musical number.

A visitor in the store listened for a moment, then began turning the dials, seeking a better tuning.

"What's the matter?" asked the radio salesman. "I don't believe you can improve on that tuning."

"I'm just trying to tune out those tube howls. You ought to be able to tune out those squeals," remarked the visitor.

"Tube howls!" exclaimed the salesman. "That's canary birds singing—The Times feathered songsters known as "Kindness," "Happiness," and "Joy."

"G'wan," came the incredulous reply. "That's a good one! I'll be around next week when you've thought up another excuse to cover up defective tuning!"

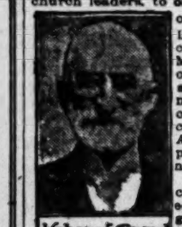
MORMON HEAD HERE ON VISIT

President Grant and Party to Organize Stake

Thousands of Members in City and District

G. W. McCune Made Leader of Church Here

President Heber J. Grant, head of the Mormon church, arrived last evening from Salt Lake City, accompanied by several of the church leaders, to organize a stake organization in Los Angeles county. G. W. McCune, cousin of the millionaire copper magnate of that city, has been called to Los Angeles to be president of the new stake.



Heber J. Grant

The Mormon church is divided into stake organizations, sixty of which now are completed. A stake is not organized until 10,000 members can be enrolled. The last year has seen such an exodus of members of the church from Utah and Idaho to Los Angeles that now more than the required number are enrolled in this city alone, with thousands of others in adjoining cities.

These will be organized into wards of the stake, with bishops and other officers. Each ward will in time erect a church, and the church soon will, if rumor can be believed, commence work on a temple.

FORMER ATTEMPTS

The Mormons have a share in the history of the Golden State, having made two other attempts at colonization here. When they were driven from Missouri and Illinois they made an eye to settlements in California. President John Taylor, associated with President Brigham Young in the leadership of the church, wrote a hymn, "Oh, the Upper California; Oh, that is the place for me!"

Brigham Young himself thought the Mormon exodus finally would land in "Upper California," as evidenced by orders he gave to New England members.

Samuel J. Brannan was president of the New England mission. He was ordered by Brigham Young to charter a ship, sail around the Horn and land the converts somewhere in California. More than 300 Mormons made the trip. After an uneventful voyage of more than six months, the sailing vessel that had been chartered landed them at the foot of Market street, San Francisco. That port then was nothing but a settlement of fishermen. The Mormons were tillers of the soil. They soon moved to the mainland and in January, 1826, began a colony of their own.

Later in the same year Col. Cook disbanded the Mormon battalion at San Francisco, and some of these soldiers of the Mexican war went to the colony on the bay. Being short of provisions, Brannan sent the boys to work on the Sutter farm. The crops having been harvested, they were given work digging the tail race of a sawmill being erected by a Mr. Marshall, connected in business with Mr. Sutter. While so engaged they washed out the first gold found in California.

SECOND EXPEDITION

Next year Brigham Young called the California colony to Salt Lake City, and the Mormons apparently thought no further of "Upper California." But in the desire to extend the power of the Church, President Young in 1856 called 1500 Mormons to settle Southern California. Under Apostle Amasa Lyman, San Bernardino was favored. Here the Mormons prospered for a time, when President Young again called them back to Utah.

Now it appears that permanent settlement of California has been decided on. President Grant has purchased an elegant home near Santa Monica, spends part of the year there, and has called one of his closest friends, G. W. McCune, to reside here and lead the destinies of the church. Mr. McCune will be installed next Sunday at 10 a.m. at the little mission church at 168 West Adams, as a time when other leaders of the California Church will be chosen.

President Penrose, Apostle George A. Smith, President Frank Y. Taylor and others from Salt Lake City are in the president's party; others are expected before Sunday. With the permanent work of the church also has come the Beneficial Life Insurance Company and other church financial interests representing millions of dollars. Much of this money will be invested here.

CHICAGOAN TO HELP PLAN STUDY COURSES

METHODS TO BE EXPLAINED TO TEACHERS AND PRINCIPALS

At the invitation of the Board of Education, Dr. Franklin Bobbitt, professor of school administration at the University of Chicago, now is in this city to recommend revision of the courses of study now used in the city schools.

Dr. Bobbitt has specialized for a number of years in the construction of courses of study. While here he will instruct a committee composed of teachers and principals from various schools of this city in the most efficient methods of teaching the new courses. Dr. Bobbitt will remain in Los Angeles until April, when he will return to the University of Chicago.

There is no charge for the instruction and those desiring to enter the class are requested to come to the school to register or telephone Lincoln 1500.

SEVENTY YEARS IN WEDLOCK

Former Ohioans Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Prine

ON Tuesday next at the home of their son, W. E. Prine, 1883 Arlington street, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Prine will celebrate quietly their seventieth wedding anniversary. The happy event will take the form of a little informal dinner which will be attended by a few very close friends of the pair.

"We came to California from Ohio ten years ago," said Mr. Prine, "to enjoy the rest of our years. We felt that life was worth living here. Surely it is, and we think this is truly God's chosen wonderland."

Mrs. Prine added that they had passed through three severe floods back in Columbus and Ironton, and when their home in Columbus was flooded the last time to the height of nearly six feet, she said, they decided to come to California and Los Angeles.

"Some of our friends back East told us we probably would be killed in earthquakes," said Mrs. Prine, "but we have experienced nothing here in the few rumblings that gave us any part of the fear and sufferings we endured in those terrible floods back in Ohio."

Mr. Prine, the happy bridegroom of 70 years of married bliss, is 89 years of age, and he says he expects to celebrate his 90th birthday next August with his son and daughter. Mrs. Prine, who is two years younger than her husband, laughingly added, "and I'll help Francis celebrate."

Mr. and Mrs. Prine were married in Ohio on Jan. 23, 1853, eight years before the Civil War broke out. The couple spent their entire married life in that State, where for many years in various parts of Ohio Mr. Prine engaged in the building industry. A year or two before coming to California to live he retired from active work. Five children resulted from the marriage, two of whom are living. The latter both reside in Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Prine making their home with the widowed daughter, Mrs. Clara E. Veail, 2923 Arlington street.

The only apparent regret Mr. Mrs. Prine seem to have is that there are no living grandchildren to join in the coming marriage anniversary.

W. E. Prine, the son, at whose home the informal celebration will take place next week, is editor of the Southwest Builder and Contractor.

RELIEF ACT TESTED IN LAND CASE

Desert Entryman Seeks to Purchase Land From Government

A contest of much interest to desert land entrymen on public lands, has just been concluded before Registrar Valentine and Receiver Smith of the local land office. It sought to apply the relief afforded by the act of Congress of March 4, 1915 to such entrymen.

Ira S. Lindley entered 320 acres of desert land, lying between Victorville and Lancaster, in what is known as El Mirage country. In 1918 he applied for relief under the act referred to that allowed entrymen on desert land to purchase the land involved in their entry at the rate of $1.25 an acre in cases where it could be made to appear that sufficient water could not be obtained on the land for irrigation purposes, except at prohibitive costs, and with a supply that was uncertain. Under the law this land would be sold to the entryman to be used as a grazing or pasture proposition and not for agricultural purposes.

All the desert land laws are built on the theory that the government wants the land developed and applied to the uses or agriculture, and not sold outright without such irrigation and cultivation. But the law referred to gives the desert land entryman an opportunity to buy the land without complying with the usually demanded proof as to cultivation, in cases where the water supply is almost inaccessible and uncertain when it is obtained. In other words, where there is no water for the raising of crops, it is the idea of the government that the land may be utilized for grazing purposes, and in this case, as in others that will follow, it was the idea of the government to show that water could have been profitably found and distributed on the Lindley entry, taking it out of the provisions of the relief law.

There are hundreds of desert land entrymen in the Victorville and Lancaster regions, who will await with much interest the outcome of the Lindley case. It is the first ever tried in the local land office. The testimony in behalf of Lindley showed that he had spent hundreds of dollars trying to develop wells on his land, but it was all surface water, and the flow was inconstant and could not be depended on for crop purposes.

STATE SALE OF TIMBER LEADS UNION

Amount Disposed of During Year Brought More Than Two Million Dollars

Forest Supervisor Charlton yesterday was visited by Inspector Paul D. Kelleter, of the Washington office of the forest service. Mr. Kelleter is on a tour of inspection to western districts.

He says that during the past year California led every other state in the amount of National Forest timber sold. The total value of these sales amounted to more than two and a quarter million dollars. During the same period about $3,500,000 were spent for construction, improvement and maintenance of roads and trails within the State, and for the fiscal year 1923 the grand total of appropriations for State roads amounts to $4,807,416.45.

Road and trail work in the National Forests, Mr. Kelleter said, was prosecuted actively and material advance was made toward transportation systems necessary for public travel, and for the administration and protection of forests.

Congress now has passed four measures appropriating money for road and trail construction in National Forests. One of these is contained in the Agricultural Appropriation Act of March 4, 1913, which appropriated 10 per cent of receipts from the National Forests in any State for road and trail building, within the National Forests of that State. Under the provisions of this act $480,200 have been appropriated to California during the past year, and of this amount $185,000 were spent in the construction of the new road into the Big Bear Valley.

Mr. Kelleter will leave Los Angeles on the 19th inst., to spend several days at District headquarters in San Francisco.

ANSWERS TAX QUESTIONS

Questions pertaining to the income tax will be answered Monday evening by Arthur M. Loomis, public accountant, at the meeting of the Accountants' Educational Institute. The meeting will be held in room 604, Black Building.

DIVORCES FOR FATHER, DAUGHTER

One Charges Mate Had Two Sweethearts, Desertion is Plea of Girl

Among things that run in families are divorces, one would judge from a few minutes spent yesterday in Judge Summerfield's department of the Superior Court. A father and his daughter each were separated from their respective spouses in successive cases, with the same lawyer for both.

Virgil W. Breeden, the father, complained that Mary Ann Breeden had two sweethearts, named Johnson and West. He ran Johnson off the premises, he declared, and when he came back he gave him a drubbing. This kept Johnson away, but it was not long, Breeden declared, before West appeared. The couple were married at Austin, Tex., in 1897 and separated May 15, 1923. Breeden's son testified against his mother, telling Judge Summerfield she stayed out nights.

The daughter, Mabel Jewel Foster, said she married Hughes R. Foster at Santa Ana in February, 1919. On October 4 of that year he said he was going out to get his pay-check and never returned, she asserted. Seventeen months later she met him on the street, she testified, and he said he had decided not to live with her. He told her father, she said, he had a girl in Virginia who suited him better.

Hugh W. Breeden was attorney in the cases.

Court Decision on Inn Keeper Law Expected

Whether a club is liable for valuables left in its possession, under the inn-keepers law, is to be decided soon by Judge McLucas in the case of P. H. Greer against the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Greer, who is president of the Greer-Robbins Company, brought suit against the club, of which he is a member, charging that $1250 he had left in the club's possession for safekeeping last October had not been returned to him. He stated that he left the money in an envelope, but that it was empty when returned to him. Attorneys for the club set up the defense that Greer either did not leave any money in the envelope or that he removed the money after the container was returned to him. They also contended that the club was not liable for funds left in its possession.

It was agreed finally by attorneys to submit their contentions in brief to be presented to the court soon. During the hearing yesterday Mr. Greer disclosed that the gross receipts of his concern during the past year exceeded $7,000,000.

Funeral to be Conducted for Church Worker

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertha Brooks Cuthbert, who died Tuesday morning, will be conducted today at 2 p.m. from the Little Church of the Flowers, Glendale. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Cuthbert was 39 years of age. She came to Los Angeles when 11 years of age with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Edward T. Brooks. She became interested early in teaching and church work, serving in the schools of Los Angeles and Glendale for five years. She leaves the widower, Walter R. Cuthbert; a daughter, Miriam; a brother, Harold B. Brooks, of Long Beach, and her parents, who reside in Glendale.

Locklath—the "rock" lath

ROCK—THE BUILDING MATERIAL OF THE AGES

When man first sought shelter from the elements, he chiseled his home from the rock face of a cliff. With the advance of civilization, we have added more building materials to the first man's limited store, but rock has never been improved upon for fireproof, durable quality. Our most substantial modern homes, our cement and concrete buildings—all are rock in modified form. We have succeeded in reducing the cliff used by the stone age man into a form that facilitates construction.

Lock-lath is essentially a rock plaster base, covered with chemically treated waterproof paper. The surface presented the plaster is molded in dovetailed grooves that clinch the plaster and form a permanent wall.

OXNARD STARTS LIVE CHAMBER

Civic Dinner Gives Body Splendid Sendoff

Los Angeles Men Assist Organization

Business Behind Movement With Cash

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Jan. 17.—The civic dinner at the Masonic Hall Tuesday evening, attended by 250, is said to have been the greatest meeting of its kind ever taking place in Oxnard, the purpose being to outline plans and start a campaign for the reorganization of the Oxnard Chamber of Commerce.

The principal speaker was Will J. Farrell, member of the president's committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Farrell's address was one of the best ever heard in Oxnard, his theme being "The Value of Community Effort."

As an illustration of what could be done, he pointed to the development of Los Angeles and the accomplishments of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, leader of commercial organizations of the world.

Other speakers were Charles Canfield, Herbert Lathrop, president of the Oxnard Chamber of Commerce; Judge C. J. Elliott, J. C. Snodgrass, R. C. McFadden, chairman of the reorganization campaign, and Charles P. Bayer of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who has charge of the campaign.

SUBSCRIPTIONS LARGE

At the close of the meeting President Lathrop announced that three large business interests of Oxnard had subscribed $500 each to carry on the work of the new Chamber of Commerce for the coming year. Sam Weill and A. J. Dingman, leaders of the campaign, gave snappy talks to those working on the drive.

The last speaker was Charles Hayward, who said: "Judging from the crowd and the spirit of this banquet, if this group determines to do anything in reason it will do it and no one can stop it. Oxnard is at the turning point in its history. This is one of the most wonderful kickoff meetings I have ever seen. You're off with a fine start. Don't give up the race."

GLOW OVER GIRL CAUSE OF SHOT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 17.—As a spectacular fight which started scores of Santa Fe overland passengers dining in the Fred Harvey cafe at Barstow, J. A. McGinnis, an employee of the cafe was shot by C. C. Cash, a Santa Fe special officer.

The fight was over the affections of a waitress, McGinnis said. The officer said he shot McGinnis when he refused to submit to arrest.

McGinnis, a bullet wound in his right side, is critically ill in a Barstow hospital.

Cash, arrested by Dep. Sheriff Fred Harris, is being brought to San Bernardino.

Days of Actual Work Recalled by Prosecutor

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 17.—The presence in Bakersfield today of Alex Goodcell, Internal Revenue collector of Los Angeles, recalled a picture in the mind of Dist.-Atty. Henry E. Schmidt of the days when as a boy he was struggling to earn his way as a law student in Los Angeles county.

When Schmidt learned that the collector was in the city he confided to friends that at one time he worked for Goodcell.

"Mr. Goodcell probably doesn't know it," he remarked, "but it is a fact that the present District Attorney of Kern county laid the cement walk in front of his home in Los Angeles a number of years ago. I was just out of high school and was making a start in life as a cement worker, and it happened that I was assigned to the job of putting the finishing touches on the new walk at the Goodcell home."

LURTIVE SUITCASE TOTER IS ARRESTED

SUSPICIOUS-LOOKING BAGGAGE DOWNFALL OF ASSERTED RADICAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Jan. 17.—Suspicions that attach to any man carrying a suitcase furtively along the street led today to the arrest of Howard Johnson, accused of being an organizer for the I.W.W. Johnson was held under the criminal syndicalism law after Dist.-Atty. G. R. Lovejoy and Chief of Police Frank Truax had conferred on the possibility of obtaining a conviction.

Police Patrolman W. J. Morris noticed Johnson carrying a suitcase. Perhaps Morris thought the case gurgled on its way. At all events he stopped and questioned Johnson and opened the receptacle. In says he found it filled with I.W.W. literature.

MASONIC CHIEF SERVES LONG

Redlands Secretary Has Held Office During Twenty-Six Years

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 17.—Redlands has a Masonic Lodge that is over a quarter of a century old and has known but one secretary in all that time. This is believed to be a record in Masonic circles on the Coast, and was duly recognized last night, when there was a celebration in honor of the twenty-sixth anniversary of the lodge and an appreciation for Otto G. Suess, who has been the secretary all that time.

Mr. Suess was presented with a beautiful white gold watch with Masonic emblems on it as a token of appreciation from the lodge. He has just moved from the city, going to Los Angeles for an indefinite stay, but the members of the lodge have refused to accept his resignation.

At the meeting F. Karl Grassle and Harry Horne installed the following officers for the year:

Master, J. Ralph Montigel; S. W., A. P. Crim; J. W., Joseph Prendergrast; Treasurer, C. E. Latham; Chaplain, Harry Horne; Secretary, Otto G. Suess; S. D., Jack Brewster; J. D., Harry Nott; S. S., Dale Chilson; J. S., Jack Covington.

REDLANDS UNION ANTI-ARBUCKLE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 17. — The Ministerial Union of Redlands entered into the ranks of those opposed to the showing of the Roscoe Arbuckle films today with strong resolutions commending the Redlands censor committee, which has announced that the Arbuckle films cannot be shown here for the time being. Redlands theaters also are commended for saying promptly that with the decision of the censor board no effort would be made to show the films.

The resolutions recite that it is felt wise the pictures be excluded because Mr. Arbuckle, although acquitted on a charge of manslaughter never was acquitted of the charge of dissipation, and the work of such a man should not be shown until he has proved to the world that he has changed.

The theaters here at first announced they would show the pictures as soon as they could obtain them. When the censor board made its decision the theaters made public statements that they would make no effort to obtain them.

SAN DIEGO AIR PORT UNDER PROPOSED LAW

BILL IN CONGRESS WOULD TREAT PLANES LIKE SHIPS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 17.—San Diego will be the principal port of entry for all airplanes and seaplanes traveling into the United States from Mexico, Central and South America, according to provisions of a new air bill now before Congress. American law, customs regulations and the public health laws would be made applicable to all airplanes entering this city from the countries to the south. Airmen leaving San Diego for foreign countries also would be compelled to "clear" their planes through the customhouse, the same as the master of a sea-going vessel clears his ship.

CLIMATE BOOSTERS GET HELPING HAND

Whole World Will See California Facts in Photograph

Monrovia Rotarians and their guests at luncheon in the gardens of Hotel Leven Oaks.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Jan. 17.—Just to prove to the world at large, and to eighty-five thousand fellow-Rotarians in particular, that California's winter sunshine and roses are real talking points for climate boosters, members of the Monrovia Rotary Club today had luncheon al fresco in the beautiful gardens of Hotel Leven Oaks, instead of in the dining room, and incidentally had their picture taken. The photograph will be sent to the Rotarian, official magazine of the club, as a Southern California greeting to Rotarians all over the world.

The garden luncheon proved one of the most successful meetings given in recent months. So ardent were the rays of the sun, however, that some of the members were forced to don hats or caps.

Dave Roth, Los Angeles Rotarian and "memory shark," entertained members and their guests with some of his memory feats, such as reciting the full names of the entire list of diners, together with their telephone numbers, after hearing them once, and other feats.

Several guests were present, the list including Willis Brown, Pasadena Rotary Club; Dalton Field and Bob Robbins, Whittier Rotary; J. L. Mathews, Covina Rotary; Randall T. Chew, Henry Weber, Harry Kellogg, R. A. Postelwaite, Frank Wood, Robert Kreutzinger. Mrs. Alexander and her house guest, Mrs. W. L. Lockwood of San Diego, likewise were guests of the club. Frank Alexander and Dr. Joe Pattenger were in charge of the program.

PROMINENT RANCHER IS HURT BADLY

S. M. Roberds of Ontario is Injured Seriously by Auto Truck Near Home

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Jan. 17.—S. M. Roberds, well-known Cucamonga District rancher, was confined to his bed at his home here this evening suffering from several fractured ribs, deep cuts in the head and abrasions about the arms and hands as the result of an accident in which he narrowly escaped death when struck by a truck belonging to Henry G. Klusman.

In crossing Archibald avenue near the warehouse of the Cucamonga Feed and Fuel Company, Mr. Roberds stopped to inspect a truckload of oranges which was parked on the highway, when the Klusman truck loaded with cement pipe in cutting around the other machine, hurled him to the pavement.

Quick action on the part of the truck driver in stopping his machine before it passed over Mr. Roberds's body is believed responsible for saving the rancher's life. Mr. Roberds was rushed to his home near by and is under the care of doctors and a nurse. It is said that an X-Ray examination may be necessary to determine the full extent of injury.

Pretty Maiden Bait Used by Volstead Crew

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 17.—Led by a pretty girl prohibition enforcement operative, city and Federal officers today waged war on bootlegging in San Bernardino, arresting six accused liquor sellers, three of them youths.

The officers said the asserted bootleggers opened their doors to the girl and drinks were passed in "wild parties" in which she participated.

One of the men arrested, O. R. Brown, 63 years of age, said he was a tourist, coming to California with his wife to spend the winter four months ago. The others taken were Ted Wilson, Jake Rosenberg and three youths, Loren Littlefield, Fred Eppo and Jack Carey, accused of conspiring to violate the Volstead Act.

The youths, it is charged by Federal officers, were members of a bootlegging gang that operated under the very eyes of the law in the business district, doing a whirlwind traffic in illicit liquor.

Glendale to Discuss Bond Issue

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, Jan. 17.—A mass meeting has been called for tomorrow at 8 p.m., in the assembly rooms of the Wilson-avenue school, to consider the calling of a bond election for $500,000. The citizen's committee of fifteen met last night and discussed a budget for expansion of the grammar schools. The new budget provides for an expenditure of $22,600 at the Cerritos School, $2550 at Magnolia School and for the purchase of another site to cost approximately $30,000, in the northwest section of Glendale. It also provides for expenditures at all elementary schools throughout the city.

GRAPE MEN IN FRESNO FOR MEET

Second Annual Institute Opens With Discussion of Insect Control

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Jan. 17.—With more than 200 grape growers, some of them from districts outside the San Joaquin Valley, in attendance the second annual Grape Institute was opened here today, to continue through Friday.

Discussions today were devoted to methods of pruning grafting and the budding of vines and to insect pest control. The rain last night and this morning was believed to have resulted in the small attendance and a crowd of 400 to 500 ranchers is expected at tomorrow's sessions.

B. A. Knapp of Sanger, president of the Fresno County Farm Bureau Federation, presided this morning. Students of the agricultural classes of Kingsburg and Sanger high schools attended. This afternoon Roy B. Smith of the State university agricultural extension service was in the chair.

Speakers this morning were: L. O. Bonnett of the University of California, on "Fundamentals of Vine Pruning," and Richard Schmidt, viticulturist, on "Grafting and Budding Grapes."

Fred P. Roullard, Fresno county horticultural commissioner, spoke this afternoon on "Some Insect Pests of the Vineyard and Their Control," and other speakers on the afternoon program were: A. J. Flebut, University of California, on the present status of the grape mealy bug; Harry S. Smith, California Department of Agriculture, on "Biological Control of Mealy Bugs;" W. S. Ballard, pathologist for the United States Department of Agriculture, on "Methods Employed to Determine Causes for Obscure Vine Diseases," and D. G. Milbrath, on "Nematodes on Rooted Vines and in the Vineyard."

The institute was arranged by the Sunmaid Raisin Growers, the university agricultural extension service, the Fresno County Farm Bureau Federation and the Fresno county horticultural commissioner.

RAND SILVER MINE WORKINGS EXTENDED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 17.—The monthly report of the California Rand Silver, Inc., which has just gone out with dividend checks amounting to $25,600 shows a production during the month of December of 4933 tons of milling ore and 1095 of shipping ore.

The mill produced a gross of $72,443 and the net returns from ore and mill during the month footed $136,796. Advancement in the mine in the thirty days was 1575 feet and the total underground workings now cover a distance of almost six miles.

The report mentions two new ore bodies developed during the month in the north workings. The payroll for the month footed $48,000, nearly 300 men now finding employment in the mine and mill. The cash balance of the corporation after meeting its monthly dividend and all expenses was in excess of $354,000.

POLICEMAN DIES MAKING ARREST

Long Beach Officer Falls in Prisoner's Arms

Attack of Heart Disease is Cause of Death

Man in Custody Weeps as He Tells Story

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 17.—Maj. J. R. Wilkinson, veteran Long Beach police officer, fell dead before daylight this morning, collapsing in the arms of a man he was arresting. Heart disease was given as the cause by Police Surgeon Thomas L. Rogers.

The Major was one of the best-known police officers in the city, and for many years was a deputy marshal along the Mexican border. He was patroling the Pike, the Long Beach amusement zone, at 3 a.m., when he stopped to question J. S. Matteson of 1034 Estella avenue, Los Angeles.

Matteson, failing to explain his reason for being on the streets at that hour, it is said, was taken into custody by the officer. The pair had reached a patrol call box when the policeman swayed and fell into the arms of his prisoner.

CALLS FOR HELP

Matteson called for help and police headquarters was notified over the telephone. When the police car arrived in charge of Patrol Sergeant Sam Bailey and Police Surgeon Rogers, the officer was dead.

At the police station Matteson broke down and cried over the sudden tragedy. He told Police Capt. Robberson that his mother had died in his arms only two weeks ago. He was released.

Maj. Wilkinson recently returned to the police force after an absence of several months, and on January 1 was assigned to duty on the night shift on the Pike. He was affectionately called the two-gun-man by his fellow-officers because he carried two weapons, a habit acquired on the frontier.

The officer lived at Belleview Lodge on East Ocean Boulevard. He leaves a widow and two sons. The latter are now at Amarillo, Tex. Funeral arrangements will be postponed awaiting word from them. The body was taken to the Mottell undertaking rooms.

FULLERTON TO BE HOST TO DEALERS

Good Time Planned for Meeting of Southland Hardware Men

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FULLERTON, Jan. 17. — Three hundred delegates to the annual convention of the Southern California Retail Hardware Dealers' Association will gather in Fullerton February 27 and 28. The association takes in nearly all the hardware dealers in Southern California.

The Orange County Jack Knife Club, a local association of hardware men, last night in Anaheim formed plans for the reception of the delegates and their wives. Preparations are being made by all civic organizations of Fullerton for an entertainment that will be unique in the annals of conventions and sustain Fullerton's reputation as the City of Smiles.

The business sessions of the convention will be held in the California Hotel. The evening of February 27 there will be a banquet in the Masonic Temple with covers for 500.

Gurman Hoppe of Fullerton is chairman of arrangements. Hurban Reeve of Torrance is president of the association and William Scott of Los Angeles chairman of the entertainment committee.

VENTURA, Jan. 17.—N. B. Smith, Ventura Avenue, enjoyed home-grown asparagus from his garden on the 15th, inst. The asparagus was not grown under glass. Warm weather, however, is causing orchardists much uneasiness. Walnuts and apricots are advanced too far for the season and a spell of cold weather would cause heavy damage.

ASSERTED BOGUS CHECK CHAMP

Man With Many Aliases Is Said to be Admitted Record Forger

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 17.—Walter A. Goodell, alias Arch Goodell, alias J. W. Wilson, alias Jim Wilson and some hundred or so other names, confessed to the most amazing series of check forgeries the local police ever have known, according to George E. Larmore, Chief of Police here, to whom the confession was made. It is asserted. Goodell was arrested here yesterday on a bad-check charge and shortly after made the confession. He confessed that he has been going up and down the State since 1916 passing worthless checks and that he worked a large part of the time in Riverside, Orange and Los Angeles counties.

Larmore believes that Goodell is the man who passed a number of bad checks two years ago under the name of Walter Bennett. Goodell says he is tired of the life, but that he could have gone on indefinitely.

"Never be a hog," was his way of summing his success. "I wrote checks for small sums, usually $15 to $30 and folks were not afraid to cash them. Many days I made from $50 to $100 at that."

HIGH VOLTAGE KILLS LINEMAN

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Jan. 17.—Charles A. Burke, a lineman for the Southern California Edison Company, today received 3300 volts of electricity through his body and was killed. He accidentally touched a high-tension wire.

The fatality occurred while Burke was transferring a heavy voltage wire to a new pole at Crystal Court and West Fourth street. He was on top of a forty-foot pole. A safety belt prevented the body from falling.

Fellow workmen took the body down and pulmotor squad under the direction of Battalion Fire Chief Taylor attempted for nearly two hours to revive Burke.

Burke resided at the Warren Auto Camp on East Anaheim Road with his wife and two children. The body was taken to Mottell's undertaking parlors.

Orange County Boy Scouts to Attend Rally

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 17.—Orange County Boy Scouts to the number of 1000 will attend the quarterly scout rally Friday night at the High School here, it was announced today by Roland H. Dye, County Scout Executive and a total of 1500 people are expected to be present. Forty odd troops, representing all districts now are under the direction of the County council, showing a remarkable growth in scouting activities during the past year.

The highest rank in scouting, that of Eagle Scout, will be conferred on four boys at the Friday meeting, it was announced. They are Jack Mattis of Anaheim; Waldemar Borchard of Orange, and Jack Allen and Charles Ehrhern of Newport Beach.

HURRY COSTS MAN'S LIFE

George Bourne, Engineer on Brea Canyon Highway, Killed, When Train Hits Car at Crossing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, Jan. 17.—George Bourne, about 30 years of age, was killed instantly yesterday afternoon when his light machine was struck by westbound Union Pacific Limited, No. 7, at Walnut crossing, eight miles west of Pomona. Bourne was engineer in charge of construction on the new highway through Brea Canyon.

Bourne left the home of W. D. Persons, where he was living while on the road job, in a great hurry, saying he must be in Los Angeles at the County Engineer's office at 5 p.m. A number of Mexicans say they saw the impending crash, and tried to warn Bourne of the oncoming train, but failed to attract his attention. He was blind in one eye, and the track curves shortly before crossing the wagon road. Trainmen said the crossing signal was working, and that the train whistled for the crossing.

The automobile was struck squarely and reduced to wreckage. Bourne was thrown clear, and was picked up by the train crew as soon as the train could be stopped. He was dead. Constable Alex Chambers of Pomona brought the body to this city.

Bourne was a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bourne of Alhambra, and leaves, besides his parents, two brothers and two sisters.

NAVY KEEPS CITY LIGHTED

San Diego Loaned 12,000 Barrels of Fuel Oil When Electric Company's Supply Gives Out

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 17.—Prompt action by the United States Navy in supplying 12,000 barrels of fuel oil to the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Company yesterday enabled the company to keep its power plant in operation when its own supply was about exhausted, and consequently the city and environs was saved from a night of darkness.

The Navy's co-operation was affected with a minimum of delay. Officials of the company appealed to Rear-Admiral Roger Welles, commandand of the naval district, for an emergency supply of fuel oil when the company's supply ships failed to reach port. The admiral wired the Bureau of Supplies at Washington and the bureau communicated with Admiral Eberle aboard the California at Los Angeles Harbor. Admiral Eberle issued permission for the loan of the oil from the oiler Neches.

Officials of the Union Oil Company, it is understood, blame the near crisis on the transportation department of the company which they say "fell down on the job."

Had the Navy not come to the rescue the street car system also would have been tied up.

CORONA HOTEL WOMAN ORDERED FROM CITY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CORONA, Jan. 17.—Chief of Police W. D. Lyman raided the Commercial Hotel Monday evening and arrested Georgia H. Aiken, proprietor, on a charge of running a disorderly house. The woman was taken before Police Judge G. R. Miller, pleaded guilty, and was given a ninety-day sentence which was suspended with the understanding that she leave town. A. E. Wagner was arrested at the same place on a drunkenness charge. He attempted to assault the officers, but was stopped by Chief Lyman. He was fined $100.

CORONER'S JURY IGNORED

Woolwine Issues Complaint Against Autoist Accused of Fatally Injuring Boy Cyclist

Although a Coroner's jury had returned a verdict of "unavoidable accident" in the case of the killing of 13-year-old Livingston Byrnes when an automobile crashed into him, December 27, last, Dist.-Atty. Woolwine yesterday issued a complaint of manslaughter against the machine's driver, Vincente Perez, a Mexican, 1135 Leighton avenue. Bail is to be set at $10,000. The complaint was issued following an interview between Mr. Woolwine and John L. Byrnes, the slain boy's father, 1215 West Fortieth Place.

Testimony given by eyewitnesses to the tragedy conflict with the tale told by Perez, who asserted he had turned west into Leighton avenue from Vermont avenue at a speed of five miles an hour. His speed was not more than twelve miles an hour, he said, when he struck young Byrnes.

DIFFERENT STORY

According to witnesses, Perez did not turn out of Vermont avenue, but out of an alley west of Vermont, going at such a rate of speed that he could not make the turn west into Leighton avenue. Instead, they say, he crashed into the south curb of Leighton avenue, swerving to the right and striking the boy, who was riding his bicycle, going east.

So great was the impact that the bicycle was hurled into the air and young Byrnes was thrown with violence into the curb. His skull was crushed.

Dr. Frank H. Chase, 1223 Browning Boulevard, was summoned and after ordering the injured lad sent to the Receiving Hospital, commenced a personal investigation of what he termed a case of reckless driving. The physician traced the tracks of the machine to where it emerged from the alley, and it was largely through his efforts that twelve witnesses to the killing were found, all of whom, it is asserted, agreed that Perez was driving too fast.

PEREZ'S TESTIMONY

At the Coroner's hearing Perez testified that he had been proceeding northwest on Vermont and turned to the right into Leighton. The turn, however, is a left-hand turn. According to witnesses, Perez made a right-hand turn out of the alley instead of Vermont avenue.

Police have begun a search for Perez, and it is expected he will be apprehended this morning.

When Dist.-Atty. Woolwine issued orders for the Mexican's arrest, he declared vehemently that "the killing and injuring of innocent citizens on the streets of Los Angeles must stop." While it is possible a special campaign against reckless driving will be conducted by Mr. Woolwine, he yesterday denied any definite plans along that line at present.

New Directors of Commercial Board Chosen

At the annual meeting of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles yesterday noon at the Alexandria, directors were elected for the year. Officers will be chosen by the new directorate, which comprises:

Joseph Barry, Silverwood's; Louis Brooks, Channel Commercial Company; Charles T. Butin, Warren Bailey Company; M. De Brabant, Union Pacific System; P. H. Ducker, Southern California Edison Company; Percy V. Hammon, attorney; Ralph Hansen, Western Paper Corporation; P. L. S. Harman, Central Manufacturing District; E. G. Judah, Sunset Canyon Country Club; D. A. Jackson, Atlas Roof Company, and John Reid, president of the board and a retired capitalist.

After the election, a "health program" was given. Dr. Frank McCoy, author on dietetics and foods, spoke on "The Fast Way to Health."

"The prevention and cure of disease is nothing phenomenal," Dr. McCoy said, "but can be accomplished by right living, thinking and a proper diet."

A silver tea service was presented to E. Manchester Boddy, author and economist, as a prize for having conducted the best meeting of the past year. The award was provided by Albert Cohn.

The meeting was conducted by President Reid, E. D. Stacy, general manager, read his annual report.

BAY STATE REUNION

Former residents of Massachusetts are planning a reunion tonight at the California Hall, Third and Main streets. Baked beans will be served followed by a musical and dancing program. All "Bay Staters" are invited.

MILITARY MEN DINE TOMORROW

Maj.-Gen. Morton to be Guest of Honor at Gathering

The Army and Navy will furnish the principal speakers at tomorrow night's dinner of the Association of the Army of the United States at the Elks, 683 South Flower street. Maj.-en. Charles G. Morton, commanding general of the Ninth Corps Area and guest of honor, will speak on military training in schools and colleges.

Col. Frank J. Morrow, infantry inspector-instructor of National Guard units here has chosen military tactics as his topic. Rear-Admiral Roger Welles, U. S. N., the principal speaker of the evening, will talk on "The Defense of the Pacific Coast."

More than 300 officers have signified their intention of attending. One of the features of the program will be the presentation of a watch to Col. Arthur Williamma, U. S. A., retired, retiring president of the association.

Tonight General and Mrs. Morton, and their two daughters will be honor guests at a large dinner party at the Hollywood Hotel. Officers of the Regular Army, National Guard and organized reserves and their wives will attend.

CATHOLICS PLAN DRIVE FOR CHARITY

Headquarters Are Opened in Higgins Building; Campaign in February

Organization plans are being launched by the Bureau of Catholic Charities in preparation for its annual campaign the last week in February.

Funds raised during the campaign will be used for humanitarian work.

Unified under the Bureau of Catholic Charities, of which Rev. Robert E. Lucey, D. D., is dicector, are almost a score of institutions which share in this annual budget garnered largely from Catholics and expanded in nonsectarian charities.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Cantwell will officiate as honorary director of the campaign, with Rev. Father Lucey as general director and John T. McBean as campaign manager.

Headquarters have been established in the Higgins Building, room 826. Each parish of the diocese will serve as a unit and individual headquarters will be established with the pastor as director-general.

Men Accused of Film Piracy Are Held Under Bail

Robert Marley and D. K. Reed, asserted "film pirates" were arraigned yesterday and held under $2000 and $1500 bail respectively. Marley was arraigned before Justice Baird, who fixed his heading for the 23rd inst. Reed's hearing was set for the 24th inst. by Justice Scott, before whom he was arraigned.

It is charged by the authorities that Marley stole two seven-reel motion pictures from the Thomas H. Ince Studios. The films are valued at $2000. Reed is accused of receiving stolen property.

Authorities believe that the stolen pictures were to be exported to the Orient for exhibition.

The Profiteers

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

John Philip Wingate, a prominent figure in New York's Wall Street, has an enemy of years' standing in Peter Phipps who heads British and Imperial Granaries in England. The B. and I., as Phipps's company is known in the stock market, has for its purpose the cornering of the country's wheat and to date has succeeded, with a consequent shortage of bread throughout England. Wingate comes to England, meets Kendrick, his London broker, and announces his intention of breaking Phipps on the market. At a social gathering Wingate renews a war-time friendship with Lady Dredlinton whom he had met in France. The fact that Lady Dredlinton is unhappy does not escape the attention of Wingate and because he secretly loves her he searches for the cause, and finds it in Lord Dredlinton, her husband, a member of the B. and I. board. Wingate meets Andrew Blair, a friend of his college days, whose business of law practice is confined to the manipulation and defense of questionable characters, and retains him as part of his future plans. Peter Phipps sails on Lady Dredlinton and asks her advice in the matter of her husband's misuse of his company's funds.

Josephine for the first time showed signs of disturbance.

"Is this what you came to tell me?" she asked.

"In a sense, yes!"

"What is the amount?"

"The specific amount in question is a thousand pounds."

"And do you want me to find it to save my husband from prison?"

Mr. Phipps was shocked.

"My dear lady," he protested, "you have utterly and entirely misunderstood me."

"I am not so sure about that," she answered.

"You have misunderstood me if you imagine for a moment that I came here to ask you to make up the amount of your husband's defalcations."

"I came," Peter Phipps declared, "entirely out of consideration for you. I came to ask what you wished done, and to do it. I came to assure you of my sympathy; if you will accept it, my friendship; and if you will further honour me by accepting it, my help."

"Just how do you propose to help me?" Josephine enquired.

"Just in the way," he answered, "that a man to whom money is of no account may sometimes help a woman for whom he has a most profound, a most sincere, a most respectful admiration."

"You came, in fact," Josephine said, "to place your bank account at my disposal?"

"I would never have ventured," he protested, "to have put the matter so crudely. I came to express my admiration for you and my desire to help you."

"And in return?"

"I do not bargain, Lady Dredlinton," Phipps said slowly. "I must confess that if you could regard me with a little more toleration, if you would accept at any rate a measure of my friendship, would endeavor, may I say, to adopt a more sympathetic attitude with regard to me, it would give me the deepest pleasure."

Josephine shook her head.

"Mr. Phipps," she said, "you have the name of being a very hard-headed and shrewd business man. You come here offering my husband's honour and your banking account. I could not possibly accept these things from a person to whom I can make no return. If you let me know the exact amount of my husband's defalcation, I will try and pay it."

"You cannot believe," he exclaimed almost angrily, "that I came back here to take your money?"

"Did you come here believing that I was going to take yours?" she asked.

Peter Phipps, who knew men through and through and had also a profound acquaintance with women of a certain class, was face to face for once with a type of which he knew little. The woman who could refuse his millions offered in such a manner, for him could have no real existence. Somewhere or other he must have blundered, he told himself. Or perhaps she was clever; she was leading him on to more definite things?

"I came here, Lady Dredlinton," he said, "prepared to offer, if you would accept it, everything I possess in the world in return for a little kindness."

Phipps had not heard the knock at the door, though he saw the change in Josephine's face. She rose to her feet with a transfiguring smile.

"How lucky I am," she exclaimed, "to have a witness to such a wonderful offer!"

Wingate paused for a moment in his passage across the room. His outstretched hand fell to his side. The expression of eagerness with which he had approached Josephine disappeared from his face. He confronted Phipps, who had also risen to his feet, as a right-living man should confront his enemy. There was a second or two of tense silence, broken by Phipps, who was the first to recover himself.

"Welcome to London, Mr. Wingate," he said. "I was hoping to see you this morning in the city. This is perhaps a more fortunate meeting."

"You two know each other?" Josephine murmured.

"We are old acquaintances," Wingate replied.

"And business rivals," Phipps put in cheerfully. "A certain wholesome rivalry, Lady Dredlinton, is good for us all. In whatever camp I find myself, I generally find Mr. Wingate in the opposite one. I have an idea, in fact," he went on, "that we are on the point of recommencing our friendly rivalry."

Josephine, who had been standing up for the last few minutes, touched the bell.

"You will keep your rivalry for the city, I trust," she said.

It was just then that Phipps surprised a little glance flashed from Josephine to Wingate. He seemed suddenly to increase in size, to become more menacing, portentous. There was thunder upon his forehead. He seemed on the point of passionate speech. At that moment the butler opened the door.

"It was very kind of you to call, "It was very kind of you to call, Mr. Phipps. I will think over all that you have said, and discuss it—with my husband."

Phipps had regained command of himself. He bowed low over her hand but could not keep the malice from his tone.

"You could not have a better counsellor," he declared.

Neither Josephine nor Wingate spoke a word until the door was finally closed after the unwelcome caller and they heard his heavy tread retreating down the hall. Then she sank back upon the couch and motioned him to sit by her side.

"I suppose I am an idiot," she acknowledged, "but that man terrifies me."

"In what way?"

"He is my husband's associate in business," Josephine said, "and apparently desires to take advantage of that fact. My husband is not a reliable person where money is concerned. He seems to have been behaving rather badly."

"I am very sorry," Wingate murmured.

She looked at him curiously.

"Has anything happened?" she asked. "You seem distressed."

Wingate shook his head. The shock of having met his enemy under such circumstances was beginning to pass.

"Forgive me," he begged. "The fact of it is, the last person I expected to find here was Peter Phipps. I forgot that your husband was connected with his company."

"You two are not friends?" she suggested.

"We are bitter enemies," Wingate confessed, "and shall be till one of us goes down. We are a very terrible example of the evils of this age of restraint. In more primitive days we should have gone for one another's throats. One would have lived and the other died. It would have been better."

Josephine shivered.

"Don't!" she implored. "You sound too much in earnest."

"I am in earnest about that man," he replied gravely. "I beg you, Lady Dredlinton, as I hope to call myself your friend, not to trust him, not to encourage him to visit you, to keep him always at arm's length."

"And I," she answered, holding out her hand, "as I hope and mean to be—as I am your friend— promise that I will have no more to do with him than the barest courtesy demands. To tell the truth, your coming this afternoon was a little inopportune. If you had been a single minute later, I honestly believe that he would have said unforgivable things."

Wingate's eyes flashed.

"If I could have heard him!" he muttered.

"But, dear friend, you could have said nothing nor done anything," she reminded him soothingly. "Remember that although we are a little older friends than many people know of, we still have some distance to go in understanding."

"I want to be your friend, and I want to be your friend quickly," he said doggedly.

"No one in the world needs friends as I do," Josephine answered, "because I do not think that anyone is more lonely."

"You have changed," he told her, his eyes full of sympathy.

"Since Etaples? Yes! Somehow or other, I was always able to keep cheerful there because there was always so much real misery around, and one felt that one was doing good in the world. Here I seem to be such a useless person, no good to anybody."

"If you say things like that, I shall forget how far we have to travel," he declared. "I need your friendship. I have come over here with rather a desperate purpose. I think I can say that I have never known fear, and yet sometimes I flinch when I think of the next few months. I want a real friend, Lady Dredlinton."

loveliness to justify their cost. Imagine—if you can—cotton at $5 per yard! What would our pioneer forebears have thought of paying such a price for their simple print gowns? But these new cottons are by no means simple. In fact you must look, look again and then examine with sophisticated fingers, to determine that they in fact are cottons. Much of art, much of ingenuity, much of color wisdom are incorporated into these fabrics. After all, in the realm of fabrics, as elsewhere, it is the artistry, rather than the new material which determines values. The old saying that "The Lord sends meat and the devil sends cooks," applies elsewhere than in the culinary department and cotton may be merely cotton, or an ugly yardage or it may be a thing of beauty, a joy forever. The new importations are in the latter class.

Helmets

Among the smaller hats—a few of which are alwas found in the wadrobe of the well-dressed woman—the helmet takes first place, just now. These closely fitting little hats, sometimes rear their crowns to remarkable heights and the chief characteristic is the absence or the sparcity of trimming. A cockade, a narrow band with flaring bow, or a bit of flat embroidery in color, are the sole reliance of these useful hats, when it comes to decorative effect.

Gloves of Fabric

Since fabric gloves have come to be so excellent in fit, so reliable as to sizes and so decorative in appearance, they are quite as much sought as are their more expensive sisters. In fact, some of these woven gloves rank well with kid and the fad for embroidery upon hand-coverings, are liked as well, for the reason that the threads of the embroidery sink into the material, seeming to form an integral part of it. There is a softness to fabric gloves which is welcomed by many, especially for wear in chilly weather. For rainy days, fabric gloves are almost a necessity, since kid is spoiled by the dampness and also it is uncomfortable to wear. New examples in suede weaves are extremely interesting and even beautiful.

FASHION'S BURGEONING

Black satin slippers are now ornamented by steel beads.

There is a renewed demand for Yvonne grass in millinery trimmings.

A navy cloth dress has white insets outlined in rich gold embroidery.

For southern wear sleeves are quite short, some being mere caps.

The new gondola curve is a password in spring millinery.

The dainty bracelet of beads is having a pronounced vogue.

The circular skirt is surely gaining favor, and spring will see an unusual number of them.

A pretty gray guimpe has a white Buster Brown collar, overcast loosely in gray.

Coats for spring do not forget the side front fastening held by drapery and ornaments.

A simple but smart model of black crepe has a Greek design carried out in gold beads as its only trimming.

Silk fabrics are by far the most important materials used in the costume showings.

The slim silhouette continues to be the one favored, although an occasional puffed drapery or sash is seen.

Bright figured silk handkerchiefs are worn knotted at the throat or wrist.

A short sports coat for tramping or skating is of rose-red suede collared with opossum.

JUSTICE METED OUT IN HURRY

A record for speedy trials was set in Superior Court yesterday by Judge Willis, who presided at three jury trials at which three convictions were returned.

Frank L. Buchanan was convicted of violating the Corporation Securities Act. Ernest R. Nelson was convicted of burglary and Jack Baber, negro, was convicted of violating the Narcotic Act. The three men will be sentenced on Saturday.

The same jury was used in the three cases.

LEO BRANDON SOUGHT BY ANXIOUS PARENTS

In an effort to locate his son, Leo Brandon, 18 years of age, who disappeared from his home on Aug. 16, 1923, James Brandon appealed yesterday to The Times for aid.

Mr. Brandon stated that continuous worry over the disappearance of the boy has brought his mother near death. Nothing has been heard of the lad since his disappearance, the father said. The boy was described as being large for his age, weighing about 135 pounds and being 5 feet 6 inches in height. His parents reside at 3827 Wisconsin street.

PASADENA IS OUT FOR NICKEL RIDE

City and Pacific Electric Request Restoration of 5-Cent Street-Car Fare

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Jan. 17.—Five-cent street car fare in Pasadena will be restored, it was announced today, if the State Railroad Commission grants a joint request of the City Directors and the Pacific Electric which will be made in San Francisco tomorrow.

The reduced fare, however, will apply only to purchasers of ticket books and casual riders will continue to pay 6 cents, the announcement says. The reduction is part of a compromise agreement recently reached by the city and the railway company, by which the company is to abandon several of its local trolley lines and substitute a system of busses, which will run to many parts of town not reached by trolleys.

Chairman H. W. Wadsworth and Directors Franklin Thomas and Carl Thomas of the Pasadena governing board will represent the City at San Francisco. The remainder of the compromise plan will be submitted to the Railroad Commission at a later date as all its details have not been worked out.

The fare reduction is taken here to mean there will be gradual elimination of the competing jitney busses which have been a thorn in the side of the Pacific Electric for several years, though nothing has been said about them in any public announcement.

Asserts Wife Couldn't Give Up Other Man

Two weeks after their marriage, his wife informed him that she had made a mistake, and that she couldn't give up the other man, Norman L. Bost told Judge Summerfield in Superior Court yesterday in his suit for divorce against Nellie V. Bost. Mrs. Bost did not contest the suit and Bost was awarded the decree.

Bost testified that a fortnight after their wedding, his wife came to him and said: "I have made a mistake. I like you, but that's all. I can't give up the other man, for he is everything to me. I guess I am a strange woman. When I want anything, I want it. I can't live a lie, and if we continued to live together, I would wreck your life and my own. Let us quit."

"The other man," according to Bost, was Charles Hammer, said to be a headwaiter at a local cabaret. Detectives testified that they had seen Hammer embracing and kissing Mrs. Bost.

Attorney C. S. Hughes represented Bost.

FIVE ACRES OF AVOCADOS.

At Carlsbad-by-the-Sea, will accept a fortune to pay when in full bearing. Nowhere in California can this highly profitable fruit be grown to greater perfection. We have trees four years old with more than 1500 pounds of fruit, bringing local market are from 50 cents to $1.25 per fruit. Figure this out carefully.
5 acres of very fine land with ample water stock may be had for $5,250. Cash required is only $525. Five out-of-season crops of vegetables, each bringing fine profits, may be grown between the trees for several years, thus making your living and payments for you until avocados come in and bearing, when orchard should sell for $5000 per acre. Think of being able to accomplish this on a small investment, and at the same time to live in the most even climate in the State. Buyers are moving in daily. Your time is right. ELECTION COST INQUIRY URGED

Senate Resolution Demands Complete Sifting

Law Violations Intimated by San Jose Senator

"Wet" Group Touched on in Capital Interview

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 17.—A thorough inquiry into contributions and expenditures for the purpose of influencing electors for or against propositions in the November election is provided in a resolution introduced today by Senator Herbert C. Jones of San Jose. He asked that the investigation be conducted by a special Senate committee of five which, upon conclusion of its probe, shall submit to the Senate a report of its findings together with whatever recommendations it may deem proper. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Contingent Expenses.

"This move is directed at no particular person or group," Senator Jones asserted. "A law was passed two years ago requiring that all persons or bodies receiving in excess of $1000 for campaign expenses, submit to the Secretary of State itemized, detailed and verified statements of receipts and expenditures.

FAILED TO REPORT

"Among the groups that failed to file statements were the wets, the opposition to the Lawyers' Act, the opposition to the Osteopathic Act and the opposition to the Water Power Act.

"The purpose of the statute has been ignored, and it will be a dead letter unless something is done at once. Now is the critical time. No favoritism will be shown. If these statements that were filed are suspected of being inaccurate, then they too are open to inquiry."

The resolution in part says:

"Whereas, no statements of receipts and expenses have been filed with the Secretary of State as required by law in the case of numerous propositions voted upon by the electors of the State in the last general election, held on Nov. 7th, 1922, and

LARGE SUMS SPENT

"Whereas, it is currently charged that large sums of money, greatly in excess of said limit of $1,000, were received and expended by persons, committees, firms, associations, corporations and groups of persons to secure the passage or defeat of such proposition.

"Therefore, be it resolved by the Senate of the State of California, that a special committee of five members of the Senate be appointed by the President of the Senate to investigate the receipts and expenses of such persons, committees, firms, associations, corporations and groups of persons, and upon the conclusion of such investigation to report to the Senate the results thereof, together with such recommendations as the committee shall deem proper.

FULL POWERS CONFERRED

"Resolved further that said committee be, and it hereby is, authorized and empowered to do any and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters and subjects hereinbefore enumerated or recited, and to that end to employ all necessary clerical, expert and legal assistants, and said committee is hereby authorized and empowered to summon witnesses, require the production of persons, books, accounts, agreements, documents, records and papers of every kind, to issue subpoenas and to take all necessary means to compel the attendance of witnesses and to procure testimony;

"Resolved that the sum of $8000 be, and the same hereby is, made available for the purpose of defraying the expenses of such committee, in said investigation."

GLENDORA TO HAVE NEW PACKING HOUSE

IT WILL BE SIXTH PLANT THERE AND SECOND INDEPENDENT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDORA, Jan. 17.—A new Independent packing-house is being constructed in Glendora by C. H. Featherston, whose old house was destroyed a few weeks ago when the Azusa Ice Plant was burned.

Realising the advantages of the Glendora district, and the superiority o fGlendora fruit, Mr. Featherston is rebuilding his packing-house in Glendora.

This makes the sixth packing-house in Glendora, and the second new independent house to be built this year, the Hall-Rise Fruit Company house having just been completed.

LEGATION IGNORANT OF FILIPPI'S MOVES

PAPAL REPRESENTATIVE AT WASHINGTON COMMENTS ON EXPULSION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The papal legation here today had no definite information as to whether Mgr. Ernesto Filippi has departed from Mexico City in compliance with President Obregon's decree of expulsion.

Attaches of the legation consider, from all information at hand, either from Rome or Mexico City, that the expulsion of Mgr. Filippi is without justification. His influence in Mexico, it was stated, has been exerted consistently in favor of law and order and obedience to the agencies of the government.

A high official of the Roman Catholic Church today asserted that the expulsion of Mgr. Filippi from Mexico would go far toward proving not only to the outside world but to the people of Mexico, that the consistent refusal of President Harding to recognize the Obregon administration was justified. This church dignitary predicted that some time the public may learn that reasons for the nonrecognition of Obregon by this government may be disclosed, which are entirely apart from the ones made public by Mr. Hughes and even more forceful.

The out-of-doors religious meeting for holding which Mgr. Filippi has been ordered out of Mexico, was described as "a ceremony connected with the laying of a corner-stone, and one which could not well have been conducted within doors."

Similar meetings have been held previously under the auspices of Mgr. Filippi, it was stated, and he was not warned by Mexican officials not to hold them again. In fact, President Obregon is said to have received him at his home and at the executive mansion almost immediately after such meetings without reproving him.

REHEARING DENIED IN STOCKTON GAS CASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—The State Railroad Commission today denied an application filed by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for a rehearing on the recent commission decision fixing condemnation valuation of the water system of the city of Stockton, which is owned by the applicant. The valuation was asked by Stockton as the first step to acquire the water system by purchase for the municipality.

CHARTER COSTLY CRYER DECLARES

Framed on Erroneous Theory City Club Told

System Did Not Meet Needs When Adopted, He Says

More Authority for Mayor Needed, is Belief

"Citizens of Los Angeles will adopt a new charter for this great and growing municipality when they shall have made a study of the impossible form of our present charter and contrasted it with the efficient, up-to-date methods of city government elsewhere," declared Mayor C. er in an address before the City Club at noon yesterday.

Mayor Cryer, who was introduced by George F. Bidwell, chairman of the day, spoke on "A New City Charter." His address in part follows:

"Long ago I became impressed with the conviction that no strong, efficient administration of affairs of our city could possibly be attained under our present charter. What are the objections to our present charter? Why should it be discarded and replaced by another?

"First, it is archaic. It is framed upon a fundamentally erroneous theory as to the nature of a city—an erroneous theory as to the character of government designed to meet needs of a city. It is involved and cumbersome, abounding in duplication, repetition and unnecessary matter.

"Our charter abounds in contradictions and in conflicting provisions, a condition aggravated by frequent amendment.

MANY SECTIONS VOID

"It contains many sections which were declared unconstitutional and void many years ago—many provisions which have been made obsolete and nugatory by changes in municipal organization accomplished by amendments from time to time.

"It should be discarded and replaced by a new and up-to-date charter, because such charter could incorporate desirable provisions made possible by changes in the constitution enlarging the scope of municipal charters, which changes in the constitution have been brought about by amendments since the adoption of our charter.

"Framed and adopted thirty-five years ago, when we were a city of less than 50,000 population, our charter was not even at that time abreast of the times, did not represent more advanced ideas of municipal government. It was framed to fit the outworn conception of the city as merely a local political subdivision of the commonwealth. Its framers failed to grasp the more modern idea that a city, with its vast business interests and activities, partakes more of the nature of a great business corporation than a mere political subdivision of the State.

"Proceeding upon their erroneous conception of a city as a mere political subdivision of the State," Mayor Cryer continued, "the framers of the present charter gave us an instrument modeled after a State constitution, a government of checks and balances, a government where no officer by himself should have power enough to do much harm. The natural result of this was to create a situation where no officer had power to do much good.

SHOULD HAVE FULL ACTION

"Business corporations are administered upon exactly the opposite theory—that of concentrated power and responsibility. The rule with them is freedom of action and strict accountability for results.

"Even before the date of the adoption of our charter, students of municipal affairs had discovered this and had pointed out that divided power and responsibility, hampered municipal government, promoted inefficiency and made it impossible to fix responsibility for poor results, extravagance and waste.

"The same year in which our charter was adopted there was published the first edition of a work which has had no inconsiderable influence in promoting reform in municipal government in this country. I refer to the 'American Commonwealth,' by James Bryce.

"In his criticism, Mr. Bryce points out that which is here of special significance—that there are certain mechanical defects in the structure of municipal governments as they exist in America,' chief among which is the division of power and responsibility, the intermingling of executive and legislative functions and the lack of coordinated effort or even of intercommunication between departments of the city government," the Mayor said.

"Recognizing that a municipality partakes more of the nature of a business corporation than of a local political subdivision of the commonwealth, he advocates the complete separation of legislative and executive functions, the confining of the board of aldermen to the legislative affairs of the city, and the vesting of the executive with full control over administrative departments and with power to appoint and remove his department heads, without the necessity of confirmation by any body.

NEED PURCHASING AGENT

"The idea of a strong, unhampered executive department, and of the complete separation of legislative and executive functions forms the basis of the movement for reform in municipal government during the last twenty-five years. It is the central idea of the city manager plan of government."

In the course of his address Mayor Cryer specially emphasized the need in Los Angeles of a purchasing agent who should be responsible for all purchases and he smilingly referred to the recent purchase of trucks for the city to illustrate his point.

"Three different types of trucks were purchased by the Council from three different bidders—each bidder evidently being the lowest," said the speaker.

The following excerpt from a recent address by Clyde L. Seavey, City Manager of Sacramento, was read by Mayor Cryer:

"The fault in our municipal affairs of the past does not lie with individuals, except to a minor extent—individual frailty is not the reason that our municipal governments have been declared by experts to be the worst form of government in existence. It has been because the principle of our municipal government has been wrong. All signs point to the fact that municipalities in the United States are coming, and will rapidly come to the point where there will be an elimination of the mixture of legislative and executive duties in municipal affairs."

PICK SUCCESSOR TO MRS. FISHER

Mrs. Laura D. Fisher, County Jail matron, was discharged late yesterday by Sheriff Traeger for negligence in connection with the escape of Clara Phillips, convicted murderess.

Today, Sheriff Traeger announced, he will reprimand Fanny Lowe, another matron, for her asserted intimacy with prisoners and for asserted infraction of jail rules.

Appointment of Mrs. Alice Berry to succeed Mrs. Fisher also was announced by the Sheriff.

Action was taken by Traeger after a report had been submitted to him by Under-sheriff Biscailuz and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clark which stated that lax jail administration on the part of the matrons made possible the hammer slayer's escape.

Last Call for Banquet Next Monday Made

The last call for reservations for the annual banquet of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association was made last night by F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary. The banquet is to be next Monday night at the Ambassador. The ticket sale closes promptly at noon Saturday.

The complete program, as announced, includes the following speeches: "Address of welcome and report of accomplishments during the past year," by Irwin H. Rice, president; "The World's Greatest Blunder," Hon. George W. Cartwright; "What Is It All About?" James W. Foley; "European View Points From Recent Observations," Dr. Robert A. Millikan. Arthur Bent will preside.

TAX SLASHES JACKIE'S PLUM

Revenue Chief Figures Wee Screen Star Must Pay $260,720 on His $500,000 Bonus

The fat motion-picture contracts reported from time to time all pay a tribute to the Treasury of the United States in the way of income tax, and Collector Goedcell yesterday figured that when Jackie Coogan, the diminutive Metro star, files his return for 1923 he will have to pay the government $260,720 on the bonus check for $500,000 he received yesterday under his new contract with the Loew interests.

This amount of tax is figured on the bonus check, and does not include the tax which will develop from Jackie's reported salary of $1250 a week, that of his father at $1000 a week, or his 60 per cent of the net earnings from films in which he is starred.

It is understood that Douglas Fairbanks offered the former First National star a bonus of $500,000 and 60 per cent of the net profits, but did not include in his proposition the $1250 and $1000 weekly salary items for son and father.

THE FATAL FIGURES

Here is the way Collector Goedcell figured Jackie's quarter-million tax:

Bonus check	$500,000
Less personal exemption	1,000
Balance	$499,000
Less amount subject to 4% normal tax	4,000
Balance subject to 8% normal tax	495,000
8% normal tax rate	.08
Normal 8% tax	$39,600
Normal 4% tax on $4000	160
Surtax on $500,000	220,960
Total	$260,720

"What's Uncle Sam picking on me me for?" asked Jackie when told that revenue officers were already figuring out his 1923 tax return.

GIRL'S NOTE HINTS SUICIDE

High School Student's Message Left With Her Clothes on Beach Prompts Search

A scribbled note hinting at suicide and a pile of clothes on the strand led police of Long Beach and Los Angeles yesterday on a search for Roberta Case, 18 years of age, a high-school girl, of 523 East Thirty-fifth street.

Whether the girl actually carried out her threat is the basis of the investigation. The suicide theory was scouted by Roberta's relatives.

Roberta disappeared Tuesday morning. She is an orphan and had been living at the Thirty-fifth-street address with her aunt, Mrs. Edna F. Case, and her grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Case. She left the house ostensibly to go to Jefferson High School, but failed to arrive there.

CLOTHING LEFT

Mrs. J. A. Elston, 527 East Seaside Boulevard, Long Beach, found all of Roberta's clothing yesterday morning near her home, a short distance from the ocean. There was a note addressed to Mrs. Ethel Kalcow, Mojave. It read:

"Dear Aunt Ethel, I am sorry I have not written before this, but it seems as if there is always something to do. I am taking this chance to scribble a few lines on the car. I am playing hookey from school and am going to Long Beach for a swim.

"I feel as if I could swim on and on. I am going to see how far out I can go just for fun. I know I have never tried it before.

"This old car rocks from one side to the other—so restless, just like me. I am so tired of everything. Of course, I shouldn't be, but I feel as if the gentle sway of the sea will rest my nerves. I never knew I had any until lately.

But excuse this kind of talk and I will tell you the lovely things I got for Christmas. Oh, what's the use of trying to write on this old car! I will quit now and finish on the beach, where it is still."

The note was unsigned. It was written on cheap paper with a pencil.

HOAX SUSPECTED

Detective A. H. Smith of the Long Beach police department on searching the clothes found a book of Los Angeles Railway tickets made out to Roberta Case. He communicated with Detective Serft. Kimbrough of Los Angeles, who visited the girl's home.

The aunt and grandmother both expressed the belief that Roberta was trying to frighten them and had no intentions of drowning herself. She had no money but might have obtained funds by selling her jewelry. It was learned that Roberta had tried to borrow clothing from a girl friend, but had not succeeded.

It is not known whether Roberta was involved in a love affair which might have induced her to leave home.

NEW SCHOOLS RISE RAPIDLY

More Than Score of Buildings Going Up; Many More Planned; $7,000,000 Probable 1923 Total

One after another, in rapid succession, new schools are being erected in Los Angeles. Millions were expended for building in 1922 in an effort to relieve overcrowded conditions. Millions will be expended in the coming year, for overcrowded conditions still exist, not in one portion of the city, but in every district.

"It seems that we cannot erect new schools fast enough to cope with the amazing increase in the number of school children," said Business Manager Record of the Los Angeles Board of Education yesterday. "Why, there are 10,000 more children in the public schools of Los Angeles today than a year ago. Despite our efforts to house them, many pupils are forced to attend school by the half-day, remaining at home during the rest of the school hours in order to provide room for other children."

MANY BUILDING

Between twenty and twenty-five new schools are now in course of construction, and six high schools and between thirty-five and forty elementary schools are to be constructed in 1923.

In the next thirty days, construction work is scheduled to start on the Belmont High School at the intersection of Second street and Loma Drive; on the new auditorium for Jefferson High School, which will be capable of seating 1900 pupils; on the Wilshire Junior High School; on additions representing the expenditure of $300,000 for the Le Conte Junior High School and the John Muir Junior High School, and on a number of elementary schools.

MORE COMING

By May 1, construction work will have been started on the John C. Fremont High School at the intersection of Seventh-sixth and San Pedro streets; on the Beverly High School at the intersection of Fairfax avenue and Melrose street, on two new junior high schools whose locations have not been determined, and on approximately twenty elementary schools.

The cost of the buildings which the Board of Education has announced are to be constructed this year will be in the neighborhood of $7,000,000. In all probability the rapid increase in attendance will necessitate the construction of many buildings not planned at this time.

HUSBAND SLAYER MAY BE FREED

Mrs. Lillian Bross, charged with the murder of George Bross, her husband, may be freed without trial, it was intimated yesterday, following a conference between Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Asa Keyes and the defendant's attorneys.

The purpose of the conference was to go over the facts to determine whether a dismissal would be justified. No decision was announced, as further consideration is to be given.

Mrs. Bross shot and killed her husband in San Pedro several weeks ago. In a preliminary hearing before Justice Dowds it was brought out that her husband had beaten Mrs. Bross frequently, and had threatened her life. She shot him, according to the evidence, when he attempted to choke her. Justice Dowd admitted her to bail after she was held to answer.

Murder Charge Against Slayer of Policeman

John Pryor, negro plasterer and laborer, was accused of the murder of Charles P. Williams, a policeman, on the 13th inst., in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClelland.

Pryor appeared with his attorney, A. C. Webb, before Justice Follette and was arraigned. His hearing was set for the 23rd inst. He was lodged in the County Jail without bail.

ACCUSED MAN HELD

Charles Prescott was arraigned yesterday before Justice Scott on charges of receiving stolen property, and held under $2000 bail. His hearing was set for the 22nd inst. Prescott is accused of receiving 4200 shares of stock valued at $10,000 which had been stolen from the American Railway Express Company at Suffolk county, Massachusetts. The complaint against him was issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClelland.
